NOTES OF TRAVEL.

SALT LAKE CITY, Tuesday, Oct. 24, 1871.

This is a strange, a most peculiar place—full of all sorts of social, religious and political anomalies and contradictions—where things generally are curiously mixed up and reversed. And now we have a new thing in the legal way, a startling novelty in the long, dull history of jurisprudence. In the trial of HAWKINS, the polygamist, last week, a wife appeared in Court to testify against her husband in a criminal prosecution, and, by her testimony, convicted him. To be sure, it was a Mormon wife, and Mormon wives are not supposed to be much married, but the fact seems to be significant of something more, perhaps, than extraordinary and extra judicial proceedings here in Utah. The legal, poetic and time-honored fiction of the "sacred oneness" of husband and wife has received its first stupefying blow, not in a convention of free-lovers, or from a Mormon high priest, but in a Federal Court and from an orthodox Judge.

HAWKINS, the man just tried, is an Englishman of the lowest order, and a very disreputable specimen of a Saint. There are bad saints as well as good sinners. He had brutally abused this, his first wife, the love of his youth, who had borne him many children, and at last he insisted on bringing into the same house two younger spouses. The society of these ladies was not agreeable to her, but he stood on his "Gospel privileges," and compelled her by threats and blows to put up with it. A man who will beat his wife under VICTORIA, will not always have the grace to spare her under BRIGHAM. Ill-used wives frequently appeal to that Power which is absolute and ubiquitous in the Territory, and whose action is usually prompt and decisive. They carry all their intolerable burdens to the Lion House. So these Mormon wives declare that at the worst they are better off here than in the old country, where there was no division in the beatings, and no BRIGHAM to appeal to.

I am told that this wronged wife gave in her testimony against her brutal husband readily, eagerly, as though glad that her day had come at last. Usually with the acceptance of the Mormon faith, the most high-spirited women seem to "suffer a sea change, into something meek and strange," but there seems to be a good deal of human nature left in this particular woman. I am glad of it, though she has shocked the Mormon community by dragging the sanctities of a polygamic household into a Gentile Court. This is the first of these most important trials, and it is a very ugly case for the Saints. I am thankful that I am not a Deborah, set to judge this Israel. But if I were, I should pray God for grace to render a just and impartial judgment, for wisdom, and courage, and charity. It is hard, perhaps, for a jealous monogamic Magistrate to remember that these strange people are our fellow-beings, that the most perverse polygamist of them all is entitled to the benefit of the Golden Rule. Even I, with no political, sectarian or mercenary interests to bias me, find it difficult to speak temperately of an institution which is for woman a backset into barbarism, systematized degradation and torture. I find it almost impossible to believe that Mormon law-makers may be as conscientious in religionizing polygamy as are our Christian legislators in legalizing prostitution. "Plural marriage" is to me, of course, only vice, sanctioned and protected, and must be simply revolting to all who come here from favored and refined communities in the States, where there is nothing of the sort—under that name at least. It is impossible for me to pass by the prettiest Mormon home without shuddering at the thought of the tragedies in women's lives that may be passing under its roof; of course one never has such thoughts in passing elegant houses in Eastern cities, where wives are free and happy, and husbands are loving and loyal. I even find it hard when reading the Scriptural texts on street signs to refrain from laughing, out of respect to our Puritan fathers and the early Methodists and Quakers who were also given to cant. I can only have patience with the most ignorant of these people, when they tell of miracles and angelic appearances, by remembering the miraculous things told and believed of the WESLEYS and GEORGE FOX, and countless Catholic saints.

But why should I expect to always "abound in charity," when even ministers of the Gospel sometimes get quite out of the article. Some of them have lately written of the Mormons as being universally not only as polygamous, but as murderous as the old fighting patriarchs—as so many Ishmaels and outlaws, vicious, depraved, disorderly, sensual, devilish.

I noticed in a late New-York journal the report of a discourse by a distinguished clergyman who has lately crossed the continent, and who complained that when in this new City of the Plain, he was compelled to stop at a Mormon hotel, and that he was annoyed by Mormon card-players in the next room, whose conversation was neither edifying nor proper. There are Gentile hotels in the town—the reverend gentleman should not be so bent on going to the most fashionable hostelry. His experience reminds me of one of my own, at a hotel in a certain town in the State of Indiana. It was Court time, and the next room to mine was occupied till a late hour by a card party of lawyers and Judges—the partition was thin, and I was horrified and disgusted by the profanity, and worse than profanity, that made "night hideous." These legal gentlemen were not given to much marrying, but they did a great business in the divorce line. People who have lived here a long time say that such a thing as a card-playing Mormon is almost unknown. Gambling in all its forms is an offense, subjecting one to Church discipline. The reverend Doctor was probably mistaken—the profane midnight revelers at the Townsend House, (a Hotel which we found remarkably quiet and orderly,) may not have been these rude hard-working Mormons at all, they may have been gentlemen—or Gentile-men.

Another clergyman, one of a zealous missionary band who came out here last Summer to hold a great camp-meeting, reported that they only held their sessions in safety and escaped out of the valley alive, through the presence and protection of a volunteer guard of armed miners, 600 strong. Doubtless the worthy man believes his own astonishing statement, being well exercised in faith, but all sorts of people here, who know the man, laugh at the idea of 600 busy miners turning out to a camp-meeting, even with the prospect of a fight, as something hugely funny and preposterous. If no converts were made at that camp-meeting from the Mormon Church, it was not because of any special counter effort or active opposition. The truth is, BRIGHAM YOUNG, with his usual quiet cunning, and knowledge of such human nature as he has had to deal with, took the matter very coolly—advised his people to go to the meetings, to calmly listen to all their opponents had to say, and to learn all they could. He sent his Bishops to keep order among the younger and more turbulent Mormons; he even went himself, and at one time, while a preacher was bitterly denouncing polygamy and other doctrines of the Latter-Day Saints, and some of those badly hit began to murmur and threaten, and an outbreak seemed inevitable, the mere raising of his hand, in a quiet, repressing gesture, stayed all violence, hushed every angry voice. His people rest quiet under his strong, supreme will, and actually fancy, because there is no bluster about it, that they have perfect religious freedom. There is little squirming under the velvet paw. When Christian charity gives out, "Give the devil his due" is a safe principle to fall back on.

This is doubtless a wicked place, but it does not monopolize the wickedness of the great Republic. The Tabernacle has left something to Tammany. BRIGHAM YOUNG may be chief among the left-hand "goats," but he did not carry all the sins of the people into the wilderness.

Now, from all I have been able to observe, and from all I hear from intelligent Gentiles long resident here, I am convinced that the Mormon people generally are remarkably quiet, orderly, sober and industrious—strongly and especially addicted to minding their own business. However much the leaders may be given to proselyting, the common people never intrude their peculiar tenets and ideas upon you; but if you inquire concerning them, they will plainly and seriously answer your questions, and in most cases, while struck by the absurdity or revolted by the moral obliquity of those ideas, you are convinced of the absolute sincerity of the simple hearted expounders.

As to BRIGHAM YOUNG we must all admit even in this his time of trouble and threatened overthrow, that considering the elements he had to deal with—the rudest, the poorest, the most ignorant classes of men, for the greater part, a conglomerate of the lowest strata of civilized societies—"the off-scouring of the earth," as he himself once called them, considering the hard conditions of early emigration and settlement, he had formed a wonderful working colony, unparalleled for vigor, constancy and cohesion—has created a State, almost a nation in this wild, desert land, and on the whole, has governed it surpassingly well. But for his one fatal mistake, the man might have left to other times a noble fame, if not for inspired leadership, for masterly sagacity—if not as a prophet of the Lord, as a benefactor of the Lord's poor—if not as the priest of a new religion, as the founder of a new commonwealth.

THE SOUTH.

The Blue Ridge Region of Virginia—The Battle-Fields—Political Ingratitude of the Rebels—Financial Prospects and Failures—A Mountain County-Town—A Country Hotel—What the People Say.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Even the participants in the great battles in Virginia during the late war, would fail now to recognize the localities of the battle-fields, were it not for prominent land-marks, such as dwelling-houses that were used as hospitals, bridges over streams, and the never-fading mountains. In fact, the general appearance of the country has been so thoroughly reconstructed by the advance of reviving agriculture, that young forests now stand where open fields were in those bloody times, while the art of the husbandman has cleared away, in many instances, the towering oaks, chestnuts and pines that once protected the advance of eager skirmishers and sanguinary battle lines. The earthworks have crumbled away, have been filled up, or been washed into unrecognizable gullies by the rains, while new fences have been built, new houses erected, new roads surveyed, effectively obliterating the marks of carnage which have made these grounds historic. When one remembers that from the scraggy sides of "Hot Biscuit" Mountain at Thoroughfare Gap, away round to Sperryville, Culpepper and Fredericksburg, thence to Centreville, there is a boundary line defining an inclosure in which both battles of Bull Run, the battles of Winchester, Cedar Mountain, Kettle Run, Bristol, Gainesville, Ox-Hill, Fredericksburg, Brandy Station, Chancellorsville, Mine Run, and the Wilderness were fought, besides innumerable skirmishes and picket scrapes—all within a distance of one hundred miles from Washington—the present aspect of the country appears like a dream to those who participated in those struggles. In brief, this section of Virginia does not look like the Virginia of the war.

Nor is the change confined alone to the surface of the country. The customs and habits of the people have undergone a more violent revolution; but it has not been in all respects a revolution for the better. No doubt there are hundreds of individual instances which will serve to contradict the assertion that the masses have not yet, and will not during the present generation, conform to the new order of affairs; but those exceptions more clearly prove the truth of the general rule of discontent, despair and slothfulness. The truth is that, politically, socially and financially, the people here were reinstated in their ante-bellum condition too soon for their own good. In other words, they received kindness rather than justice, and, with rare exceptions, have accepted that kindness as if it had been prompted by a spirit of persecution. It is not only profitable to recall, at this late day, their condition at the close of the war, to compare it with the present, but it is instructive as teaching us the ingratitude of men who have been educated to believe themselves to be masters of the world. They were, at the close of the war, abject and submissive to a pitiable degree. They expected disfranchisement, confiscation and redistribution of property, expatriation, punishment for treason, and negro domination throughout the length and breadth of the Confederacy. We know how these expectations have been agreeably disappointed, and knowing it, naturally expect expressions of contentment, if not gratitude. Instead of such, however, we hear only the most bitter complaints, coupled with prophecies and hopes that the "Yankees will one day get their just deserts."

When the war closed thousands of Southern merchants found credit at the North, and established themselves in business with vain hopes of success. They did not creep or crawl, however, but stood alone and ran, under the stimulant of that credit. It was beneath them to think of such a thing as failure, while, with characteristic Southern prodigality, they squandered the earnings which should have been laid aside to pay their debts. The result was protests without number, and now not one third of those who commenced "merchandising," as they called it, at the close of the war, are to be found in business. When they commenced, there was a dearth of everything among their customers. Five years of non-intercourse with manufacturing communities had worn out all the pocket-books, suspenders, gloves, pocket-knives, and Yankee notions generally, in the entire country, to say nothing of hats and caps, boots and shoes, and clothing generally. All these things were supplied by the North. In fact, the Yankees re-clothed their late enemies in the habiliments of peace, refurnished their houses, restocked their farms, and set them on their feet again. Yes, the Yankees did all this—virtually without price, for they have not got, and will not get, anything in return for the credit extended by them to two-thirds of the Southern merchants who have failed since the war. While the Federal army remained on garrison or police duty in the South, and while the Freedmen's Bureau was in existence, there was a continuous flow of money into the coffers of those who had anything to sell, and the merchants reaped their share of the profits. The regular payment of the troops, the purchase and sale of army stores, the expenses of the machinery of the Government, &c., carried millions of dollars to these penniless people, without taking a cent from them, and in addition to that an equal amount sent or taken there by Northern capitalists. Here was certainly a good start for provident people, and the few who may be numbered of that class took advantage of it. They are prosperous even to this day, while the overwhelming majority, with characteristic improvidence, have relapsed into the impecunious condition of the last year of the war, and are living in slothful neglect of the opportunities that daily slip away from them.

This is no overdrawn picture of the present condition of the rural districts of the South. To prove its truth, let me describe the county town of a Virginia mountain county. Twenty-five years ago a young man, accompanied by his wife, commenced hotel-keeping. The man is now dead, but his wife, with two grown-up boys, still keeps the hotel. The furniture, with exceptions of "amendments and mendings" occasioned by the war, now to be found in the rooms, was bought by the husband a quarter of a century since, and it satisfies those who use it now as it satisfied those who used it then. The sign-board has been repainted once in that time. There were never any carpets in it to be renewed, except in the private rooms of the family; there they have been renewed by patching and darning, until the patches and darns have overcome the original, and nothing but patches and darns remain. There are broken-nosed pitchers and cracked wash-bowls in the bedrooms. The curtains at the windows have hung colorless since the surrender, and now the smoke of pipes and the dust of the turnpike begrimes them until the original color is lost. The bed-clothing is better and more comfortable than the surroundings would lead one to anticipate, and is occasionally clean, but the mattresses are stained, darned and sunken. The dining tables are covered with oil-cloth. The table-ware and cutlery is composed of the remnants of a dozen or more different purchases or "sets." There is a bell on the roof which sounds the call for meals. There are two regular boarders. There are one hundred or more transient guests at dinner on "court" or other "public days." The food is mainly corn-bread, butter, chickory coffee, milk, fried chicken, bacon, and occasionally ham, with fresh beef on the average twice, and fresh mutton, once a month. As the guests of this hotel live, so do the people of the town generally, except that in some of the private houses, whose inmates are exceptionally intelligent, "things" are cleaner. There are three stores, in none of which can you find a greater luxury in the eating line than a box of French sardines—in truth, Potomac smelt. There is one blacksmith-shop, one tailoring establishment, one shoe-maker, one carpenter, one wheelwright, and a jack-at-all trades. The bar-keeper at the hotel asks his customers to wait for their drams on Sunday morning while he builds the fire and sweeps out the church. The undertaker, who is the carpenter and joiner, is also the county jailer. The mail-carrier is the general business agent for everybody at the railway station, twenty-four miles away. The postmaster is a tailor, and keeps a candy-shop. One of the two physicians, an excellent one, by the way, is the only druggist in a section of country twenty-five miles square. There is no local preacher, although in a town of the same size in Pennsylvania or New-York, there would be three or four. There is no livery-stable. The merchants keep groceries, calicoes, &c., &c., such as are to be found in country stores generally; but when your wife wants a spool of floss you must send to "the city" for it. The mails are served three times a week, and it takes four, and sometimes eight days to write to and get an answer from a distance of one hundred miles. Ten or a dozen of the male citizens pretend, with more or less success, to cleanliness in their dress, and half a dozen of them have their boots blacked every day. Nearly everybody, large and small, owns a saddle-horse. A few own carriages. There is only one spring wagon in the town. You can hear the hum of spinning-wheels in the street. All the men make and chew home-made or "country twist" tobacco. Many of the old women do the same. The younger women dress with comparative good taste, particularly in the matter of shoes. Everybody call everybody else captain, colonel, or doctor, on a venture, or by habit, unless their christian names are known. There is no newspaper printed or published in the county. There is no bank, no money-order office, no telegraph, no market, except for home consumption, but few common schools, with fewer teachers, no mending of roads, no public lectures or efforts at public amusement and instruction, no social gatherings except those of relatives, no associations for the relief of the poor, no benevolent associations of any kind, no public libraries, and, in short, no energy except arrogant pride in the belief that this county contains more eminent and able men than all of the North combined.

This town is more than a century old. Many of the houses and fences were built before the present occupants were born. "This store-building," said a merchant to me, "used to be half its present size fifty years ago. Then old man So-and-so was here. When he died, his successors added that wing, and since the war we have added more to it, so it is now about twenty-four by thirty feet. Up to the war it was the biggest in town, but since then the big brick one was built." "My grandfather," said a citizen, "was born in this house, my father was born here, I was too, and my children also." Here was proof of antiquity and veneration for ancestry that would have elicited admiration were it not for the fact that the great-grandchildren were being taught to believe that the civilization of the entire world could not produce greater luxury than was to be found in the deal tables, husk mattresses and corn-bread and bacon of their paternal roof. "There's been more buildin' done here since the war than there ever was afore, it seems to me," said another old resident; "now, there's two new houses goin' up this season," he added, "and there was right smart of them repaired and added on to last year." "Yes, we ought to have a bank," said a business man; "but, then, we get along without it, and our moneyed men don't believe in United States securities. We use checks on Alexandria, and one man's check is as good as another."

So much for the town's-people. And now for the farmers in the adjacent country. They still hold their mammoth farms, of three, four, five, eight, ten and fifteen hundred acres. It is easy to calculate that if, with one good team and modern farm appliances, a Northern farmer can make money on fifty acres, a Southern one, without a good team and little or no farm implements, will lose money if he attempts to pay even reasonable taxes on a big plantation. Ah! those taxes. There's the rub. In old slave times farms about here were valued at from eighteen to one hundred dollars per acre. The rates of present valuation are about the same, while the taxes are greater in proportion. You can readily see from this that overvaluation, with consequent overtaxation, is eating away the substance of these people. Yet you cannot persuade them that their farms are overvalued. They plant one bushel of wheat and harvest six or eight instead of fifteen and twenty, as in the North, and when they harvest they have no market at less distance than Alexandria or Richmond, consequently they not only produce less but get less in price than Northern farmers, yet they hold their lands at higher rates. All this is settling itself, however, because at Sheriffs' sales land has been bought at prices ranging $4 to $10 per acre. Gradually, then, these high-priced farmers are being reduced to beggary. They can produce with profit none of the staples of agricultural commerce except fruit. Apples grow to perfection and in miraculous abundance, even under a system of non-cultivation, which a stranger would accept as calculated to kill the fruit, if not destroy the trees. Yet in the whole Blue Ridge region I venture to say there are not fifty young orchards to be found. The bearing orchards are composed of trees planted two or three generations ago, around the roots of which grow "suckers" so thick as to look like clumps of forest undergrowth or thorn hedges. As a rule, the trees seem to have come up of their own accord, and are scattered about through the wheat and corn-fields with studied irregularity. Once in a while some one strays up from tide-water country, and makes contracts at a dollar a barrel for the choice fruit, the owner of the orchard to do the picking, &c., or two dollars per barrel delivered at the railway. No one here, however, has ever tried the experiment of sending his own fruit to market, and this year thousands, if not millions, of bushels of apples have rotted in the orchards of the Blue Ridge for want of enterprise to save them. Some of the farmers buy cattle in the Fall or Spring, and graze them for the market, but this is a hazardous experiment, as the land does not produce good grass. The millions of acres of mountain land, too stony for cultivation, will be valuable some day for its timber, if in the meantime it is not stripped for tan-bark. The town of Sperryville is sustained mainly by the traffic in this commodity, and the mountains in the vicinity are being robbed of their virgin forests to produce it. But tan-bark at six dollars per ton costs as much as it will bring, and while a few get rich by dealing in it, those who do the hard work are poorly paid. So it is with chestnuts at a dollar a bushel, and with sumac at a dollar a hundred pounds. The sumac trade, however, promises to become the great feature of the business of this section. No one has attempted yet to cultivate it, but it is gathered from the roadsides. The farmers, as a rule, do not pretend even to attempt the cultivation of grapes, although they grow wild in abundance, and the few efforts that have been made in that direction have been attended with unbounded success.

Throughout the length and breadth of Virginia it would be hard to find an original Secessionist. You may hear of them, but you seldom, if ever, meet them. Judging from their own statements, the people voted unanimously against secession, and they were equally unanimous in support of the Union, "until their State went out." This being the true case, I have often wondered how the "State went out," and have never received a satisfactory explanation, except that the Democrats did it.

ENGLAND.

The Sympathy for Chicago—American Credit in Europe—Effect of the Exposures of the Ring—Political Movements—The Manchester Party—Social Politics—Literary Gossip—The London Theatres.

From Our Own Correspondent.

LONDON, Saturday, Oct. 21, 1871.

The newspapers this morning all publish long extracts from the NEW-YORK TIMES and other American journals describing the burning of Chicago, which have been telegraphed from Cork. The graphic letters of your correspondents have intensified the impressions of horror and pity with which the news was first received. Sympathy for the sufferers is mingled with admiration for their noble fortitude and prompt resolution to begin at once to repair their misfortunes and to reconstruct their city. There is no considerable town in the Kingdom in which a fund has not been raised for the relief of the destitute and houseless population. If the calamity had befallen a British instead of an American city, if it had been Sidney or Montreal, instead of Chicago, I do not think that it could have evoked more sincere sorrow or more substantial expressions of sympathy and friendship. There is only one feeling on the subject among all classes of this community.

AMERICAN CREDIT IN EUROPE.

I may mention that the courageous crusade of the NEW-YORK TIMES against the municipal robbers of New-York, and the determined spirit in which the honest part of the population have ranged themselves at your back, resolved to put down the outrageous brigandage of the Tammany class, have produced a marked effect over here both in political and commercial circles. Commercially it is. I am convinced, the best investment New-York ever made. There is no denying the fact that the abominable misgovernment of New-York created an unfortunate prejudice not only against financial projects emanating from that quarter, but against American securities generally. Nobody knew how far the Tammany thieves might carry their schemes of plunder, and there was a mutual reluctance to risk money within their reach. If the movement which has been so ably and manfully directed by the TIMES is steadfastly followed up, there will be a general rise in the value of American stocks, and your merchants and projectors will find an immense fund of British capital ready to be intrusted to them. In the political world also the reputation of the nation for moral courage has now been vindicated. Nothing has happened since the war to excite confidence in the American character in anything like the same degree. I speak from what I have lately heard, not merely in London but in different parts of England, and I can appeal to traveling Americans to corroborate what I say. The news of the prompt measures taken by the American Government against the Fenian raiders is regarded as highly satisfactory. Lord GRANVILLE spoke of it in strong terms at the opening of the new Reform Club at Manchester, and declared that nothing could have been more cordial and unhesitating than the action of President GRANT and Mr. FISH in this matter.

POLITICAL MOVEMENTS.

The first Cabinet council since Parliament was prorogued was held this afternoon. It is understood that the chief matter under consideration was the new warrant regulating promotion among officers of the army, now that the purchase of commissions is abolished. As far as I can learn the threatened rush of officers to sell out in consequence of the deterioration of the gentlemanly character of the profession, which the snobs predicted as a necessary consequence of making promotion depend on merit instead of money, has not yet taken place. A good many officers who would in any case have retired within the next year or two have sent in their papers, but the general disposition seems to be to remain in the army and watch the course of events. Other Cabinet councils will be held in close succession up to Christmas, and it is said to be Mr. GLADSTONE's design to consolidate the Liberal majority by concentrating attention on a compact and thoroughly digested programme of legislation based on some distinct, well-established principle which will not permit of wavering or holding back. The advantage of a broad issue of principle lies, of course, in the use which may be made of it at the general election which is expected next year and for which both sides are anxiously preparing. The Conservatives have a comparatively easy task before them, if they mean to confine themselves, as appears to be probable, to a policy of negation. Mr. DISRAELI's game seems to be to wait until Mr. GLADSTONE has produced his plans, and then to overthrow them with destructive criticism, but without proposing anything definite himself. It is the adoption of this principle which has secured such thorough union and cohesion among the Conservatives. Wherever they have departed from it and ventured not merely to object to what others propound, but to say what ought to be done, divisions at once break out, as in the case of the last Reform bill. And for the same reason, divisions are much more frequent and troublesome among the Liberals. In the case of such of the sections into which the Liberal Party is divided, the "platform" is always something positive—something to be done. Hence the jealousies, rivalries, and to a certain extent antagonism, between the various sections. Each feels that if any other proposal but its own is carried, that is, so far, a defeat; and not unfrequently the result is a tacit combination to prevent anything being done at all. It was this tendency against which Lord GRANVILLE protested, the other day, at Manchester. Union, harmony, genuine co-operation, were the wants of Liberalism, he argued. Liberals must take care that in disputing as to the precise course to be followed, and the pace at which they were to go, they did not bring themselves to a standstill.

THE MANCHESTER PARTY.

M. TAINE, a brilliant French writer and philosopher, is just now publishing some letters on England, in which he makes the very just remark that the life of England is in the provinces, not in the capital. London is a great and imposing city, and industrially and commercially it has a sufficiently bustling and active vitality. But socially and politically, it is as M. TAINE points out, only a rendezvous, a meeting-place for the rest of the country. No great political movement has ever originated in or been identified with London in any way except as the place where the Parliament, the delegates of the nation, happened to meet. The head-quarters of the agitation for the Reform Bill of 1833 was Birmingham. As soon as the suffrage had been popularized, an endeavor was made to turn it to practical account. The great campaign against the duty on the importation of grain, which kept bread at an artificial and in times of distress at a starvation price, was organized at Manchester. The Manchester Party then supplanted the Birmingham Party, and became the most conspicuous and vigorous political force in the country. It is impossible to exaggerate the benefits which free trade conferred on this country, but it is possible to override the virtue and disinterestedness of those who chiefly brought it about. It is not, perhaps, surprising that the cotton manufacturers, to whom cheap bread meant low wages, should have been the first to discover the importance of relieving foreign corn from taxation, nor on the other was it to be wondered at that the farmers, who had so long been taught to trust to protection as indispensable to their welfare, should resist the change. There was no pre-eminent wisdom in the one case, or pre-eminent stupidity and selfishness in the other. Personal interests governed opinion on both sides. There can be no question, however, as to the remarkable energy and ability with which the agitation was conducted, not merely by BRIGHT, GOSDEN and the other leaders, but by the rank and file of the party. When the object of the agitation was over, and the Corn laws had been repealed, the Manchester Party, as it was called, became a real force in the land—a clear-headed, hard-handed, though narrow-minded body, pledged to free-trade in all its forms, to reduced taxation and economical expenditure, to non-intervention in foreign affairs, and an extension of popular rights at home.

SOCIAL POLITICS.

The history of the last quarter of a century is a chronicle of the achievements of this party. It was originally composed, not exclusively of cotton-spinners, but of men who had risen by trade and many of them from the ranks. The country families looked down on them socially and detested them politically. It was the pride and joy of the plebians to show the aristocrats that they could beat them at least in politics. In the town councils and in Parliament, the merchants and manufacturers gradually established their position, and in order to maintain both their individuality as a party and their leadership, they went in for strong Radical measures. They repudiated the leadership of the Whigs and forced the fall of political agitations. But of late years a change has come over the spirit of their dreams. Cotton-spinners sons have married Peers' daughters, the wealthy manufacturer is at home in the drawing-rooms of the gentry, or, indeed, they are, perhaps, even more so in his; the barriers between the two classes have so far been broken down, and the cotton lords who once led the democracy are now glad to dangle at the tail of the aristocracy, only too happy if they are mistaken for a part of it. Hence the predominance of the Conservatives in Lancashire, the rejection of GLADSTONE and the election of a Tory, even for Manchester itself. The old Manchester party is gone and the new Manchester party which is springing up is of a different type, though it has the same social raison d'être—that is to say, social jealousy and rivalry. There are still middle-class politicians who are determined not to serve in any party, except in the front rank, and who seeing no chance of this among the moderate Liberals, are bidding for a regiment of followers among the extreme Democracy. But here they are confronted by the artisan leaders of the working classes, who are themselves ambitious to get into Parliament. Thus the Mundellas, Dixons, and the other middle-class men, are pitched against the Odgers, Potters, Bradlaughs and working class demagogues, while beneath the latter is a still lower class of politicians, who are as jealous of them as they are of the Mundellas, and as determined to drag them down. Meanwhile a considerable body of the working classes are disposed to throw party politics to the wind, and to put up their votes to auction to those who will bid highest in the way of social—perhaps I should say socialist—reforms of the Liberals or Conservatives. The highest wages and the shortest day's work is the demand of the unions, who declare that they will be guided at the next elections by the pledges of candidates on this point. This is the explanation of the recent negotiations which Mr. SCOTT RUSSELL was conducting between the unionist delegates and some of the Conservatives. It is now quite certain that while many of the chief men among the Conservatives—Lord DERBY, Lord SALISBURY and others—were confidentially consulted on the subject, none of them, with the exception, perhaps, of Sir J. PACKINGTON, assented to the proposals for reducing the hours of labor, establishing public stores for the sale of unadulterated provisions, and other forms of socialism. The great question is now how far the Government is likely to go in the direction of these social reforms in the legislation of next session. There is a good deal to be done in the way of enforcing sanitary reforms, compelling landlords to keep houses in decent order, and punishing the adulteration of food and other articles, which would command general sympathy and support, while cutting the ground from under the socialists.

THE LITERARY WORLD.

I don't recollect so dull a season in regard to new books as this promises to be for many years past. There is scarcely a single work of special interest or importance in the book-sellers' announcements. We have new editions—reprints of collected writings—in abundance, but hardly any original works. SHAW's Travels in Central Asia is almost the only book which excites expectation, and there seems no reason to suppose that it will produce a sensation like LIVINGSTONE, or BURTON, or BAKER. I am unable to account for this dearth of literature. Last year very little was published, the book-sellers being afraid, I fancy, of the engrossing interest of the war news, and an accumulation of arrears might, therefore, have been anticipated. But this year the new publications are even more rare and unimportant than last year. There can be no doubt that the newspapers are absorbing literary capacity to an extent which must interfere with the writing of books, for the two kinds of literature can hardly be cultivated at the same time. For some years past all the metropolitan newspapers have become much more literary in their contents. They have almost supplanted the magazines. Not only in the Pall Mall, but in the Daily News, Telegraph, and even occasionally in the Times, articles are published exactly of the magazine kind. On the other hand, the newspapers, though exerting themselves at times in regard to telegraphing, are somewhat falling away from their original and primary object. You get more news, more general intelligence, in a good country paper than in one of the London morning or evening journals. There is seldom more than a page—if so much—of real news in one of the penny journals. The rest is all general articles and advertisements.

THE THEATRES.

I think there are various signs that the fortunes of the stage are reviving. I can hardly say intellectually—though even here there is in some respects an improvement—but commercially. While the taste for reading is extending, I suspect that it applies rather to newspapers than books. A large class of fairly-educated people, in a very good position of life, never sit down steadily to read anything of length. They skim through the pages, chat about their contents, and resort to the theatre for such other literary and intellectual amusement as they want. The great recommendation of the theatre is that one can be entertained, possibly even, to a certain degree, instructed, there, without any trouble to oneself. You pay your money, take your seat, and it is for other people to do the rest. You have not even to be at the pains to keep yourself awake, for if you should drop off to sleep, it is only a change of amusement, and perhaps not a change for the worse. The charm of "Rebecca" to a great many people is, I suspect, that they get the gist of Ivanhoe, (or what they think the gist,) without being at the trouble of reading the book, while at the same time everything is presented vividly and glaringly on the stage—the dramatist making no demands on their imagination as the novelist does. The same may be said of "Notre Dame," which is running its 168th night at the Adelphi. "The Woman in White," which Mr. WILKIE COLLINS has himself dramatized for the Olympic, and "Pickwick," which is to be brought out on Monday by Mr. BATEMAN's company at the Lyceum. Among the pieces now in preparation are DRYDEN's "Love for Love," which Mr. JOHN HOLLINGSHEAD has reduced and adapted for his own theatre, the Gaiety, and a new comedy by Mr. W. S. GILBERT "On Guard" at the Court Theatre. Mr. MAPLESON's company, with TITIENS and MIRAMON as the chief attractions, gives us a Winter operatic season at Covent Garden, beginning on Monday week; and M. RAPHAEL FELIX is coming over with a French dramatic company in November, rather a scratch company, judging from the list of names.

THE NEW REPUBLIC.

Metropolitan Miseries—The Lack of Small Change—Scarcity of Specie—Position of the Government—The French Press—Two Deaths.

From Our Own Correspondent.

PARIS, Friday, Oct. 20, 1871.

The lack of monnaie, not money, is today the main topic of conversation in the French capital. It is not an exaggeration to say that all classes are really suffering, the rich as well as the poor, but the latter, of course, have to bear the heaviest part of the burden. The trade of small shop-keepers is nearly stopped. Grocers, butchers and tradesmen of all sorts refuse to sell when even a small sum of silver has to be given as change, they finding it more profitable to sell their specie than to sell their goods. For more than an hour I have been trying to break a bill for fifty francs. None of the bankers could give me the money for less than five and a half or six francs discount, the brokers charging much higher rates. I bought cigars to the value of thirty-five francs, and the dealer preferred to keep his goods to giving the fifteen francs change. But it is the same thing with the notes for twenty francs, and thousands of poor people have been unable to buy their ordinary provisions today with notes of that denomination. Some get credit, some borrow from friends, some leave their notes in the hands of the tradesmen and make purchases against them; and the shopkeepers of all sorts have taken advantage of the crisis to add nearly ten per cent. to the price of their goods. At this time, therefore, Paris is the dearest city in the world. Perhaps the most annoyance, however, is caused by the railroad companies, who refuse to deliver tickets except for the right change, and that change cannot be had by every one. The specie taken in by these great companies is carefully hoarded, the bankers are disposing of all they can get, and it is said that agents are going through the country buying up the silver in the hands of the people. One German bought the sum of £14,000 at a single fair, and sent it at once to Berlin. At the present rate, it will take but a few days more to drain the country entirely of its specie, and the bank will be forced to issue bills of small denominations, if it does not come to fractional currency.

SCARCITY OF SPECIE.

For some time past the bank has stopped paying out its gold, and it is now almost impossible to get a small quantity of silver from it. This can only be done by a formal notice and a written application; yet none of the money thus drawn from the bank gets into circulation. The bankers pay out none of it, not even to their clients, and hold every silver piece they can get in anticipation of an attempt at Berlin to control the market. I do not know what the result will be, but it seems an absolute necessity for the bank to issue small bills to meet this unusual crisis. A country so rich as France must get its money back in the course of time, and I do not see the harm in a moderate employ of paper. The French are afraid of it. One reason probably is that the tradesmen immediately put up their prices, and there seems to be no way of controlling them. Among the poor, who are really suffering, and who are made to suffer still more by the speculations of their employers, the Government is blamed for this universal distress and for the high prices which now prevail. A better feeling had begun to set in a few days ago, but this is rapidly passing away, and the Bonapartist reaction seems stronger than ever. Forty millions of francs have to be paid every week toward the war debt, and this, with the high taxes and large expenses of the Government, are very severe tests of the Republic.

POSITION OF THE GOVERNMENT.

I said above that a better feeling had begun to set in for the Government of M. THIERS, and this feeling was very apparent after the appointment of M. CASIMIR PERIER and the settlement of the questions pending with the Cabinet of Berlin. In France public opinion changes with great rapidity. Men seem to be ready to rush from one extreme to another with every passing wind, and you are never sure that the friend who argued so strongly in favor of the Republic today will not be a rabid Bonapartist to-morrow. The reaction in favor of the Imperialists has been very strong, and due probably to the extremely clever tactics of that party, and to the shock of the revelations made by several Generals and public men in whom the people still have confidence. It has been shown that NAPOLEON III. was greatly maligned, and the fact is coupled with the disgrace of JULES FAVRE and the disgraceful failure of the men of September. The Bonapartists do not deny the faults of the Empire or the Emperor; on the contrary, they confess them boldly, and acknowledge that there were errors of the gravest kind. But at the same time they loudly call for a public examination into those errors, and offer to prove that neither the Emperor nor his Government were so much responsible for them as many of the men who are now in favor or in power. They claim to have the documentary proof, and in thus calling for a trial, the whole country knows that they are braving death or imprisonment for life in case of condemnation. The demand, too, for a fair appeal to the people, even when the enemies of the Empire have the machinery of voting in their own hands, has been a clever card to play, and no one could deny that the reaction in their favor was very great and very promising. But for a few days public opinion has been again turning toward M. THIERS, and I do not doubt that he would have been again the popular hero of the day, but for this unfortunate monetary crisis which has set the tradesmen and bourgeois of Paris against him.

THE FRENCH PRESS.

I have a new count to add to the dossier of the French Press. Immediately on the arrival of the news of the burning of the City of Chicago, a meeting was held at the Washington Club, at which Mr. WASHBURNE presided, and the sum of 150,000 francs was raised. The Mayor of Chicago was telegraphed that this sum was at his disposal, and he sent back his thanks in a brief but fervent dispatch. At this meeting some four or five bankers were appointed to receive further subscriptions, and it was resolved that this short list should be published in the French and English papers of this city. The Patrie and one or two more willingly gave the list, but the most of them either refused, or promised to insert it and afterwards refused to do so. In every instance the regular advertising rate was tendered. The Gaulois refused to give it at all, even as an advertisement, but would give no reason why. The Figaro also refused, and gave as a reason that the French "had quite enough to do in attending to their own affairs." The same day the Gaulois gave the Mayor's telegram, saying that it was a recognition of the "generous French people, who were ever so ready to succor others,"—not a single Frenchman had then subscribed,—and added that only a short time ago the people of Chicago sent a large sum to aid the French sufferers by the war. The whole credit was claimed for the French, who had really done nothing, and who had even refused, at any price, to publish the names of certain bankers who were authorized to receive subscriptions. The Patrie, by all odds the ablest journal in Paris, has our thanks for its courtesy, and also the other two or three journals who gave the notice.

TWO DEATHS.

Two persons of notoriety have just died in this country, and though I speak of them in the same paragraph, their lives were very different. One had a long life of sorrow; the other a long life of adventure, fast living, and after years of labor. But a few days ago passed away the last remaining child of the unfortunate LESURQUES, who was executed for robbery, and proven in nocent but a short time after his death. LESURQUES was a young man of fortune, who came to Paris with his wife and children to make his way in the world, and was of a gay but most exemplary character. Having some stock transaction with a man he had accidentally met, LESURQUES went into the country with him, returning the next day. The same night the post to Lyons was robbed, and the postillions and a passenger murdered. The men who committed the murder entered an inn, and were remarked by the people, one being blond, the other brun. The Police soon

EMPIRE OF AUSTRIA

From our own Correspondent.

VIENNA, Tuesday, Aug. 15, 1871.

"THE FUNDAMENTAL ARTICLES."

I will not weary your readers with a recapitulation of the injuries inflicted in the inner provinces by the Czech agitation, but will confine myself to the bare statement that the Germans of Bohemia, Moravia, and Silesia, who are to the Germans of the Empire as the Scotch are to the English, have been compelled to submit to the Czech dictation, or to see the Empire fall to pieces. Count Hohenwart's policy, and the other Cisleithan Ministers, was to avoid this alternative, and to maintain the Empire intact. To do this they had to overthrow the Fundamental Articles, which, as I have before explained, were the Austrian Constitution, and to substitute for them the Czech demands. The Czechs are little in numbers, but they are the most active and energetic race in Austria, and have always been the most revolutionary. Their leaders, who are mostly Catholic priests, have succeeded in persuading the Emperor Francis Joseph that they represent the Catholic feeling of the country, and that the Germans are Protestant and Liberal. Hence the Emperor, who is a Catholic of the old school, and who has a horror of Liberalism, has been induced to support the Czechs against the Germans, and to dismiss the Ministry which represented the German majority. The Czechs are now in power, and the Germans are in opposition. The Czechs are little in numbers, but they are active and energetic, and have the support of the Court. The Germans are the majority of the population, but they are passive and unorganized, and have not the support of the Court. The Czechs are therefore in power, and the Germans are in opposition.

The Czechs have succeeded in their object by means of the Fundamental Articles, known as the Dualistic Constitution. By the Fundamental Articles Bohemia, Moravia, and Silesia were declared to be integral portions of the Austrian Empire, and the Austrian Parliament was declared to be the only Legislature which could make laws for the Empire. The Czechs refused to send members to the Austrian Parliament, and declared that they would not recognize the Fundamental Articles. They demanded that Bohemia should be governed by a Diet, which should make laws for the Empire, and that the Austrian Parliament should be abolished. The Emperor Francis Joseph, who is a Catholic and a Czech, and who has a horror of Liberalism, was induced to support the Czechs against the Germans, and to dismiss the Ministry which represented the German majority. The National Capitol and the New-York Court-House—A Striking Contrast—Redeeming Fractional Currency—Going Home to Vote—Miscellaneous.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—The new extension to the Government Printing-office is one of the few buildings erected within the estimates of the architect. Last Spring Congress appropriated, in accordance with estimates by Mr. EDWARD CLARKE, Architect of the Capitol, $45,000 for this extension. It has been put up and fully completed under the supervision of Mr. CLARKE. The plans on which the estimates were made have been fully carried out, and some $3,000 worth of work has been done additional to those plans, and there remains of the appropriation $5,000 which can be conveyed back into the Treasury. This is an instance of the use of money by honest officers. The whole amount expended on the Capitol building for repairs during the present year is less than $50,000. This, besides paying for the regular annual repairs has put down a new floor in the Representatives' Chamber, and remodelled all the heat and ventilation flues of the same hall, has widened the narrow passages between the two wings, renovated the old Representatives' Hall, and bought a new engine and two huge exhaust fans for improving the ventilation of the Hall of Representatives, besides other less important extraordinary repairs. In this connection it may be interesting to note that the two extensions of the Capitol building and the new dome, although built at the time of the very highest prices of labor and material, cost less than the New-York Court-house up to the present time, and either wing is larger than the Court-house. The new floor of the House is arranged for the accommodation of 300 members, if the number of representatives should be increased to that extent.

PERSONAL.

Secretary DELANO gave a dinner to-night in compliment to GEORGE WILLIAM CURTIS, President of the Civil Service Commission. Among the invited guests were Senator SCOTT, Ex-Senator CATTELL and Col. COX, of the Commission; Postmaster-General CRESWELL, BLACQUE BEY, the Turkish Minister; Judge SWAYNE, Solicitor-General BRISTOW, Prof. HILGARD, of the Coast Survey, and EFFINGHAM NICHOLS, Esq., of New-York. Capt. HOOPER, Delegate in Congress from Utah Territory, arrived here late last evening. He positively denies the report that he comes to induce the Administration to arrest the proceedings now going on in his Territory, and says he shall not see the President unless the latter sends for him. He is here to secure Winter quarters for the session, and will return to Utah before the session begins.

MUTILATED FRACTIONAL CURRENCY.

Gen. SPINNER, United States Treasurer, is of the opinion that the slow manner in which mutilated fractional currency comes in for redemption is in a measure owing to the fact that the express company charges as much for the transmission of one dollar as for one thousand. He has, therefore, addressed a letter to the agent of Adams Express Company, at Baltimore, requesting the Company to fix pro rata rates for smaller amounts, say for $500 and under, and for fractional amounts in excess of $1,000.

GOING HOME TO VOTE.

A large number of New-York and New-Jersey people will leave here to-morrow to attend the elections in their respective States. Among those who go are Secretary FISH, Treasurer SPINNER, Senator CATTELL, and scores of clerks from the several departments.

FORERUNNER OF THE COMING SESSION.

The Senate Finance Committee, in accordance with the authority given it by a resolution of the Senate last session to sit during the recess, meets at the rooms of the Committee in the Capitol on Tuesday next. The work of the Committee was divided among the several members, a particular subject of taxation and revenue to each, and doubtless the presentation and examination of the individual reports will be the first to occupy the attention of the Committee.

THE NEW LOAN.

Judge RICHARDSON, in a letter to a gentleman connected with the Treasury Department, dated London, Oct. 21, says:

"I am surprised to see that some of the papers assert that I have written home despondingly, and that the loan will be a failure; that the syndicate will collapse, and that I am frightened, &c. All such reports are entirely false, and without the least foundation. The whole business here will be a complete success. JAY COOKE, MCCULLOCH & Co., and other members of the syndicate are doing everything strictly in accordance with their agreement. The bonds are being delivered as fast as practicable, and much more rapidly than either they or I had any reason to suppose they would be. There is no embarrassement, no wavering, no dissatisfaction of any kind whatever, and everything goes on with perfect ease and without giving rise to a single doubt that by the first week in December we shall have the transaction brought to a close in exact accordance with the original negotiation, and without disturbing the money market or the regular business of any banking house in the least."

APPOINTMENTS.

Surgeon WM. M. WOOD, late Chief of the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery in the army, but now retired, has been appointed Inspector-General of fleets and hospitals. GEO. W. GRIFFIN, of Kentucky, has been appointed United States Consul at Copenhagen.

SOUTHERN MONEY-ORDER OFFICES.

Col. M. LARUE HARRISON, special agent of the Post-office Department for Arkansas, has been detailed for inspection and examination of the money-order offices of the Southern States.

ANOTHER BOUNTY FRAUD DISCOVERED.

The Interior Department and Department of Public Justice are now engaged in investigating the charges against Judge J. W. WRIGHT, of this city, formerly of Indiana, in relation to the collection of bounties and pensions due the Indian soldiers of the Creek, Cherokee and Seminole nations who served on the frontier during the rebellion. It is said the alleged frauds amount to nearly $400,000, and that some of the checks issued by the Pay-master-General in each case to the order of the soldiers for $100 each, were cashed by the Assistant United States Treasurer at New-York upon the indorsement of dead soldiers' names, and J. W. WRIGHT and his agents. Representatives of the Indian soldiers came to this city some time ago, and laid their grievances before Secretary DELANO, who at once ordered a commission of investigation. This Committee is now in the Cherokee Nation. Mayor CRAIG is now in Washington, at the instance of the Government, to aid in bringing the guilty parties to justice.

SUPERVISING INSPECTORS OF STEAM-BOATS.

The Board of Supervising Inspectors of Steamboats, after a session of four weeks, adjourned sine die today. The Secretary of the Treasury has approved of what they have done, which consists of the designation of different kinds of life-saving apparatus, such as boats, rafts, &c., amendments to the rules and the adoption of additional rules, and several resolutions of instructions to be observed by local inspectors, all having in view the strict enforcement of the law. The Board by their action on the various matters before them, also endeavored to protect the owners of steam-boats against monopolists, by declining to discriminate in favor of any particular patents as the best to be used on such vessels, but asserting general and special requirements as applicable to all vessels propelled in whole or in part by steam.

CHICAGO.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Some of the papers and people at Chicago, since the unfortunate shooting of Col. GROSVENOR, have sought to throw some blame for the action of the regiment of volunteers upon Gen. SHERIDAN. Such criticism casts a very unjust reflection upon that officer, as his action, under all circumstances, was prompt, efficient and generous; and however much the citizens of Chicago may not wish to publicly admit that the presence of troops is still necessary, the fact that they privately ask for them shows their confidence in Gen. SHERIDAN. The following is Gen. SHERIDAN'S official report of his action at Chicago:

SIR: The disorganized condition of affairs in this city produced by and immediately following the late fire, induced the city authorities to ask for assistance from the military forces, as shown by the Mayor's proclamation of Oct. 11, 1871. [Copy herewith, marked A.] To protect the public interests, entrusted to me by the Mayor's proclamation, I called to this city Companies A and K of the Ninth Infantry, from Omaha; Companies A, H and K of the Fifth Infantry, from Fort Leavenworth, Company I, Sixth Infantry, from Fort Scott, and accepted the kind offer of Major-Gen. HALLECK to send to me Companies F, H and K, of the Fourth, and Company E of the Sixteenth Infantry, from Kentucky. I also, with the approbation of the Mayor, called into the service of the City of Chicago, a regiment of volunteers for twenty days. [Copy of this call inclosed herewith marked B.] These troops, both regulars and volunteers, were actively engaged during their service here in protecting the treasure in the burnt district, guarding the unburnt district from disorders and danger by further fires, and in protecting the store-houses, depots and sub-depots of supplies established for the relief of the sufferers from the fire. These duties were terminated on the 23d inst., as shown by letters herewith, (marked C, D and E,) and on the 24th inst. the regulars started to their respective stations and the volunteers were discharged as shown by special order No. 76, and general order No. 5 from these head-quarters. [Copies herewith.] It is proper to mention that these volunteers were not taken into the service of the United States, and no orders, agreements, or promises were made giving them any claims against the United States for the services rendered.

I am very respectfully, your obedient servant,
P. H. SHERIDAN,
Lieutenant-General United States Army Commanding.

Gen. SHERMAN submitted the foregoing report to the Secretary of War, with the following emphatic endorsement:

The extraordinary circumstances attending the great fire in Chicago, made it eminently proper that Gen. SHERIDAN should exercise the in uence, authority, and power he did on the universal appeal of a ruined and distressed people, backed by their civil agents, who were powerless for good. The very moment that the civil authorities felt able to resume their functions Gen. SHERIDAN ceased to exercise authority and the United States troops returned to their respective stations. Gen. SHERIDAN'S course is fully approved. W. T. SHERMAN, General.

Sixty-Three Thousand Still Receiving Aid—Montreal Donations.

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—The number of destitute victims of the late fire now receiving aid from the Relief Society has considerably decreased, owing to the fact that many are securing employment at good wages. The number of families now receiving aid from the Society is about 14,000, or 63,000 persons, including men, women, and children. Montreal has sent over $102,000 in gold for the relief of Chicago, beside large quantities of provisions, clothing, &c.

THE INDIANS.

Injustice to the Osages in Kansas—The Commissionership.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—FRANCIS T. KING, member of the Orthodox Society of Friends, and Mr. GIBSON, agent for the Osage Indians, had, today, separate interviews with the Secretary of the Interior and President GRANT, also with the Board of Indian Commissioners, on the subject of the present condition of the Osage Indians. Agent GIBSON represents that there are over 800 white trespassers from Kansas on the new Osage Reservation, which was recently set apart for those Indians, by the Government, under the most solemn pledges that white intruders should be kept away, the Indians having been forced to sell their lands in Kansas about a year ago, owing to similar encroachments. The surveyors recently sent there by the Government to fix the line of ninety-six degrees, immediately out of which their new reservation is located, make the line four miles west of the previous official surveys, by which the choicest lands in the valley of the Cana River will be taken from the Osages, thus pushing these Indians upon a mountainous region which is worthless for agricultural purposes. The Administration has directed that for the present the Indians shall not be disturbed; that ample measures shall be taken for their protection, and their rights under the new treaty fully secured to them.

Recently the names of several gentlemen have been mentioned in connection with the Commissionership of Indian Affairs, among them those of Col. TAPPAN, Col. H. A. CLUNE, the present Chief Clerk of the Bureau, and Gen. F. A. WALKER, the Chief of the Census Bureau. The last-named is now on a special mission to the Indian country.

THE WEATHER.

Synopsis of Events and Probabilities.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 4—1 A. M.—The area of highest barometer has moved slowly north-eastward to the middle and east Atlantic coast. Clear weather has generally prevailed north and east of Virginia, but cloudiness is now reported from Pennsylvania south and west. The cloudiness in the Southern and Gulf States has continued during the day with rain. A small area of low pressure exists in Iowa, with southerly winds on Lake Michigan and northerly winds in the north-west. Cloud and rain are reported from California and Oregon.

PROBABILITIES.

Cloud and rain will probably extend, on Saturday, north-eastward to New-York, with partially cloudy and threatening weather in New-England Saturday night; clearing and clear weather prevail west of Alabama; low barometer move into Michigan, with south-westerly winds from Illinois to Lake Huron, and north-east winds on Lake Superior; southerly winds prevail with cloud on Lakes Erie and Ontario. Dangerous winds are not anticipated for our coasts to-night.

Attempt to Lynch a Prisoner in Jeffersonville.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 3.—Last night a mob collected about the jail in Jeffersonville, Ind., with the intention of lynching a negro named JOHN WASHINGTON, who attempted to outrage a little white girl, and whose father died from the excitement caused by the assault. The prisoner was slipped out by the back way and conveyed to the State Prison, learning which the mob dispersed. This morning the prisoner was taken to the jail in Charleston, Ind.

MEXICO.

NEW-ORLEANS, Nov. 3.—The Picayune has the following special dispatch:

BROWNSVILLE, Oct. 26.—Gen. TREVINO, when last heard from, was at San Gregorio, with over 3,000 men. His cavalry, under MARTINEZ, stationed at Buena Vista, had a severe encounter with Gen. CARRILLO. MARTINEZ was wounded, but CARRILLO lost a portion of his train and was compelled to fall back.

UTAH.

Unlicensed Grog-Shops in Salt Lake—High Freight Rates for Ores—No Trace of Brigham.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Nov. 3.—The Police today made a descent upon several drinking-saloons for selling liquor without having paid the municipal license. The places were closed up and the proprietors summoned to appear to-morrow before Police Judge CLINTON. There is great indignation among miners and mine-owners in regard to the high freight tariffs on the Union Pacific Railroad. Hundreds of freight-cars run East empty every day rather than carry the ores of Utah at any profit to shippers. No more arrests have been made here, and there is not the slightest apprehension of trouble. Nothing was heard from BRIGHAM YOUNG today, or from Apostle HYDE.

GEORGIA.

The Legislature Recognizes Gov. Bullock's Successor—A Special Election in December.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 3.—The Georgia Legislature transacted important business today. It recognized BENJ. CONLEY (Republican) as acting Governor. A bill for a special election for Governor in December was introduced. A resolution was passed denying Gov. BULLOCK'S allegations that the Assembly meant to impeach him without investigation, and that the people did not respect the Constitution and recognize the results of the war.

ITALIAN OPERA AT THE ACADEMY.

"Don Giovanni" was sung at the Academy of Music, last evening, in presence of a very fashionable audience. The recital was smooth, and worthy of a season of Italian opera likely to be remembered for performances of general excellence as well as for representations relying upon one or two artists for effectiveness. Yesterday's rehearsal is to be mentioned among the entertainments first referred to. There is not a weak bar of music in "Don Giovanni," nor a part unsuited to a great singer and actor. Hence the difficulty of producing special impressions at particular stages of the story. Many Italian operas are given life by two or three numbers, themselves of doubtful merit, but striking when contrasted with the remainder of the score. Who will undertake, however, to dismiss from consideration with a reference to three or four airs, MOZART'S immortal work? Passages of the interpretation enjoyed last night were of course superior to others, but it is no slight compliment to say that the whole composition was rendered with most satisfactory results. Mlle. NILSSON'S contribution to the recital does not call for the extended notice that lady's artistic efforts usually demand and receive. Versatility is more often spoken of in connection with performers than it is really exhibited. We are not surprised, therefore, that Mlle. NILSSON, whose Ophelia, Desdemona and Marguerite are pictures which will never be forgotten for power and finish, finds the transition from tragedy to comedy rather trying. Her Zerlina fascinates not merely Masetto, but the entire audience; it is not, it must be said, the Zerlina whom the composer and librettist had in view. That Mlle. NILSSON'S singing could hardly be improved upon is a more pleasant fact. She delivered "Batti, batti," with a great deal of expressiveness, though its effect would have been heightened by a little more animation in the allegro; and "Vedrai, carino," with infinite tenderness and grace; the last-named was the only piece encored during the evening. Mlle. CORANI'S Donna Anna must be cited as the one mediocre performance. Mlle. CORANI has culture and experience, but her voice is worn, and her tones have a continual tendency to flatten. We are sorry that Mlle. CORANI'S debut should have to be written of coldly, but we are bound to say that the defects of her vocalization utterly spoiled the sestett. Her own aria, "Crudele," could not be awaited with much interest thereafter. Mlle. DUVAL, as Donna Elvira, augmented largely the good opinion of her resources and art, uttered after her first hearing in "Il Barbiere." Mlle. DUVAL is young and comely; her organ is fresh, her intonation true, her execution facile and correct. It may be claimed that she is not fitted to cope with the conventional Donna Elvira, but her share in last evening's labors strengthened materially her position. The artists, besides those already alluded to, were Signori BRIGNOLI and RONCONI, MM. JAMET and BARRE, and Herr HERMANNS. M. JAMET'S Leporello was the best defined, most consistent, and most elaborate characterization of the night. Perhaps M. JAMET'S acting would have gained by absolute freedom from a certain dignity noticeable in all his rôles, but we could not look for a more intelligent, spirited and artistic sketch, vocally as well as histrionically. M. BARRE'S gifts are so small that we much fear he will never become a favorite with a general audience. Yet M. BARRE as Don Giovanni proved himself a skilled singer, and his serenade may be pointed out, amid much that was very praiseworthy, as an evidence of study and taste. Signor BRIGNOLI sang deliciously "Il mio tesoro," and acquitted himself of what remained of his task with an indifference to circumstances more startling even, in the first duet with Donna Anna, than his admirers have become accustomed to. Signor RONCONI'S Maestro can only be alluded to as full of humor, not always—as those who watched his by-play and by-words can testify—the most delicate kind. Herr HERMANNS was an impressive Commendatore.—At the matinée today, "Marta" will be the opera.

BROOKLYN AROUSED.

Speeches by Attorney-General Akerman, Hon. Benjamin F. Tracy and Others—Letters from Senators Fenton and Conkling and Hon. Wm. M. Evarts.

An immense mass-meeting of the Republicans of Brooklyn was held last evening at the Academy of Music. This was intended to be the last grand rally before the election, and the Republicans turned out in goodly numbers. On the stage were the following prominnt gentlemen: A. A. Low, Wm. H. Lyon, H. Cornell White, H. W. Sage, H. B. Claflin, L. S. Burnham, A. D. Wheelock, John F. Henry, Samuel Hutchinson, E. L. Sanderson, Isaac Bowen, Francis Polker, S. B. Duryea, George Record, Burdett Stryker, Chas. Fowler, Benjamin Cornwell, Daniel Manyer, Hugh Allen, John E. Cammeyer, James E. Kelsey, E. J. Whitlock, A. P. Higgins, Cyrus B. Smith, T. H. Thorpe, George W. Wyndgate, William L. B. Steers, Sigismund Kauffman, Gravett Bergen, W. W. Goodrich, Burdett Stryker, J. J. Studwell, H. D. Morgan, James A. Van Brunt, J. Carson Brevoort, Chauncey Perry, Gen. James Jourdan, Gen. Catlin, and others.

The meeting was called to order by Gen. JAMES JOURDAN, who nominated Hon. BENJAMIN D. SILLIMAN for Chairman. On taking the chair, Mr. SILLIMAN briefly thanked the audience, and introduced Gen. CATLIN, who read the list of Vice-Presidents and Secretaries. He also read the following letters from Senator CONKLING, Senator FENTON and Hon. WILLIAM M. EVARTS:

LETTER FROM SENATOR CONKLING.

UTICA, Nov. 1, 1871.

GENTLEMEN: On reaching home this evening I find your letter inviting me to speak to the Republicans of Brooklyn on Friday. I should like to come and give my voice in support of that union of sentiment and of action in which the true men of Kings County have merged the differences of the past. You are to meet as Republicans, and it is in that character I would speak to you, for I am more and more convinced that it is to the Republican Party in the State as in the nation, that men must look for thorough, lasting purity in public affairs. Every day makes it more and more apparent that individual Democratic leaders who are sincerely co-operating in works of reform are to have little permanent following in their own party. Democrats who have held themselves out as earnest and courageous Anti-Tammany men are sedulously nursing the Democratic organization, seeking to turn everything to party account, and striving to create diversions for the benefit of the very interest which few are shameless enough now openly to defend. It is easy to foresee that Republicans who have laid aside party for the time being, in the hope of reciprocal action by Democrats, will be much disappointed in the end; yet I would do nothing to discourage the support of an honest Democrat, in any case where in that way a blow can be struck at corruption. Eventually, however, the Republican Party will prove the instrument of regenerating the government of the cities of New-York and Brooklyn, as well as of the State. Let us hold fast, therefore, as Republicans, for except we abide in the ship we shall not be saved. The difference between the two parties is apparent, and seems to be indelible. Every occasion, sooner or later, brings it out. Whether the test be loyalty in war or honesty in peace, the great body of the Republican Party will not tolerate or permit treason to sound principle. Recent incidents throw a broad light on the opposite nature and composition of these organizations. Some time ago it was discovered that HODGE, a pay-master, for whom the National Government was answerable, had embezzled a fraction of $1,000,000. Weeks before the crime of HODGE came to light, every one knew that certain men, TWEED among them, had embezzled, not a fraction of $1,000,000, but the whole of many millions. HODGE was seized, hurried to a dungeon, accused, tried, condemned, sentenced, the doors of the Penitentiary have closed behind him for ten years, and his wife and children, stripped of all by the hand of the Government, are beggars and outcasts.

Such is the story, such the doom, of young HODGE, the Republican culprit. What is the story and the doom of TWEED? Rolling in wealth, and holding several offices, he goes not to prison, but to the Senate. No criminal prosecution has been even commenced against him, but the Democratic Party again nominates TWEED and his fellows for the Legislature. The contrast of these two cases is not between HODGE and TWEED, but between the order of things these two men represent. The cure of some of the wounds which decency is receiving just now, may yet be found in expelling men from the Senate and the Assembly; and for this reason among others I conjure you all to contribute, from Kings County every firm incorruptible man who can be elected to either House. The prospect in the State grows bright, and a full vote and a fair count will surely give us a great victory. Regretting that I cannot be with you, I am your obedient servant,
ROSCOE CONKLING.
Hon. S. B. DUTCHER, Gen. CATLIN, and others, Committee, Brooklyn.

LETTER FROM SENATOR FENTON.

JAMESTOWN, Oct. 28, 1871.

MY DEAR SIR: I have felt obliged to decline all invitations to go abroad during the canvass, and to confine myself to due speech at my own home, Thanking you for polite request to be with you on the evening of Nov. 1, I remain very truly yours, R. E. FENTON.
Gen. J. S. CATLIN, Corresponding Secretary, &c., Brooklyn, N. Y.

LETTER FROM HON. WM. M. EVARTS.

NEW-YORK, Nov. 3, 1871.

MY DEAR SIR: I regret extremely that it was not in my power to attend and address the ratification meeting to be held at the Academy of Music in Brooklyn to-night, as your committee did me the honor to invite me to do. There is, however, little need of speakers, or of speech, in the presence of the appalling facts which exhibit the shocking municipal misrule under which the free people of these devoted Cities of New-York and Brooklyn are being fleeced of their daily earnings, and robbed of the property they may have been fortunate enough to have laid by for a rainy day. I confess to a new shock of indignation and dismay, when I read the severe and unflinching exposure of the fraud and rapine which now rule in Brooklyn, which your papers are pressing upon the public intelligence and public conscience. I thought we had "supped full of horrors" in New-York, but you seem to have as heavy a load of wickedness on your side of the river as we have on ours. I firmly believe that the people are now thoroughly aroused, and that they mean, like a law-abiding people, as they are, to exercise their rights at the polls, and, obtaining them, to insist upon their rights in the Courts and before the Legislature, and to the bitter end of the punishment of all rascals in office, "without distinction of party."

In case, however, this aroused and wrathful people are denied or defrauded of the exercise of their right of suffrage at the coming election, by false voting or false counting of votes, I have not the least idea that the matter will end there. This is a justice-loving and a liberty-loving people, as well as a law-abiding people, and we are quite likely to demand of the bold, bad men that shall have perpetrated the threatened violence to the suffrage, an open and peremptory settlement of their crimes, without prevarication or delay. I am quite sure that you will be able to concentrate your votes against your Ring, as we have done against ours, and that you understand, as we do, that on the Senators and Assemblymen the hope of protection of property and common right, the hope of punishment of these monstrous crimes, and of the restoration of capacity and honest purpose in the State and City Governments, wholly depends. The steps already gained by the people in this civic revolution are immense. The rascals are detected, their crimes and the methods of them demonstrated, the frivolous embarrassments of party or personal entanglements are cast aside, and the plain issue made that only the knaves vote for the knaves, and the count is at last to be made, in open day, as to which side, the right or the wicked, shall prevail. We hope everything from you on Tuesday next. We implore you to waste no strength in divisions between sections and candidates, and we anticipate a hearty congratulation with you, and all honest men throughout the State, on the victory which shall save us from shame and ruin.

I am, yours very truly, WM. M. EVARTS.
T. C. CATLIN, Esq., Corresponding Secretary, &c.

ADDRESS OF ATTORNEY-GENERAL AKERMAN.

The Chairman then introduced Hon. R. T. AKERMAN, Attorney-General of the United States, who addressed the audience at some length. He said:

MR. PRESIDENT AND FELLOW-CITIZENS: It would scarcely become me, a resident of another State, to enter into an extended discussion of the local politics of New-York, but I cannot forbear saying that I have the sympathy which all honest men in all parts of the country must feel, for the honest men of the City of New-York and the City of Brooklyn and the State of New-York in their conflict with adroit and expert and audacious corruption. Wishing you success in that conflict, the success which belongs to a right cause bravely sustained, I pass from that to other topics of a more general nature, even if of less immediate local interest. Your vote next Tuesday will be taken to some extent as an expression of your judgment upon the general policy of the country. The National Administration is at all times in this country before the people for scrutiny and for judgment. If that scrutiny shows worthiness, the judgment should be favorable: if that scrutiny shows unworthiness, the judgment should be unfavorable. You have given to your national legislators and to your national administrators a high public trust, and the manner in which they have discharged that trust is always open to your criticism. It has been intimated to me that I might perhaps occupy your time this evening with a discussion of the relations of the general Administration of this country to the part of the country to which I reside, to wit, the Southern States. There are questions of national policy which are of peculiar general interest; there are questions of national policy which are of peculiar local interest. In eleven States of this Union, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisianna, Arkansas, Texas and Tennessee, there are nearly ten millions of people. In the States of Maryland, Kentucky, West Virginia and Missouri there are four millions of people. Among the questions in which you, as citizens of the United States feel a general interest, are the questions of finance, of taxation, in the early or the protracted payment of the national debt, of national expenditures, of the adjustment of the tariff, of civil service, of currency—these questions are felt to be of trifling concern, and will control no votes by the voting population of that ten millions of people in the eleven States I first enumerated, and but few votes among the voting population of that four millions of people in the four States which I have named. The war having swept away the State Governments of the South, the war having broken down the attempted insurrection against the United States and the attempted dismemberment of the country there were two questions of interest, two desirable objects to the thoughtful Southern mind. One of these was how to harmonize the South with the National Government and the rest of the country; the other was how to harmonize the two races of the South. The first question, it seems to me, for the intelligent people of the South, would be to open their eyes candidly and honestly to the situation, and it would be susceptible of an easy solution. Their struggle having failed, they having professed to having given it up, were bound in honor and in good citizenship to give it up, thoroughly and heartily. It was their duty, having professed to surrender all that was involved. [Applause.] If they surrendered the doctrine of secession they were bound, also, to abandon the whole brood of political ideas out of which secession sprung. If they in good faith had given up slavery, they were bound to give up all the incidentals; they were bound to give up not only the effect of slavery but its modes of thought, its rules of constitutional interpretations, its theory of political cast on which they rested and by which it was fortified. [Applause.] Mr. AKERMAN continued to observe that the insurrection deprived them of all political affiliations, and as its suppression was due to the Republican Party, they were responsible for its crimes or its glory. The speaker referred to the act repealing slavery and the conduct of the negro population during the war, remarking that, though to an extent intoxicated with delight at their freedom, they never violated the laws, but acted with devotion and loyalty to the country and their masters. He touched upon the war of races, which this revolution in the condition of the colored population would be supposed to create, and referred at length and with much power, to the Kuklux outrages in the South, and the action of the Federal Government for their suppression. He concluded by asserting that the colored citizens, by their conduct in the future as in the past, would show how deserving they were of the rights of citizenship, and by their faithfulness to their principles would elevate themselves and the national generally.

When Gen. AKERMAN had concluded Gen. CATLIN read the following resolutions:

Whereas, The civil institutions of our Republic rest upon the intelligence, freedom and virtue of the people; and their maintenance and vigor depend upon the constant activity and jealous watchfulness over every Department of the Government by our citizens and their resolute will that the powers and the administration of the laws of the land shall be intrusted to capable, honest and faithful men only; and,

Whereas, The Republican Party arose out of the public demand for a fuller, more faithful and broader realization of these truths, and of the great fundamental principles of our Government; and,

Whereas, In the faithful performance of its political principles, the Republican Party carried through the war of the rebellion, and simultaneously overthrew the two great national evils which plagued the State, viz.: Slavery and the Democratic Party; and,

Whereas, The Republican Party has always been, is now, and ever will be, in principle and action, unchangeably opposed to all manner of fraud and corruption in political office, whether National, State, or local, and demands of every man to whom public official duties are intrusted, honest, faithful and capable performance thereof, and an open and rigorous accountability to the people therefor; and,

Whereas, The imperiled disgrace which has fallen on the American people by stupendous official corruption and the robbery of the public Treasury in the City of New-York, has been brought upon us by the Democratic Party.

Resolved, That the Republican Party of Kings County proclaims anew as its fundamental principles:

1. The maintenance of honest, wise, and economical government.

2. The reduction of the taxes to the lowest amount necessary to carry on the proper administration of the government.

3. The free, fair, full and honest exercise of the elective franchise by citizens at the polls.

4. The honest and truthful enumeration of the ballots, and declaration of the result of election, so that citizens shall neither by fraud, intimidation nor falsehood be cheated out of the right to choose their own rulers.

5. The maintenance in its fullest vigor and utmost efficiency of our system of free public schools, whereby the blessings of education may be freely extended to all classes of our people.

6. The preservation, as the foundation of all our rights and liberties, of a pure, unsullied and independent Judiciary.

Resolved, That we denounce public taxation and the increase of the public debt for the purpose of giving individuals the opportunity to rob the public Treasury, as has been done in New-York City to such a frightful extent by Democratic officials, elected, supported and again presented to the people for their suffrages by the Democratic Party.

Resolved, That in the riots in the City of New-York on the 12th of July last, we recognize the operation of the same pernicious influences which have caused the misrule, corruption and thefts of the Tammany Ring, and that refusal to uphold the civil rights of our people, and to protect from injury and assault citizens engaged in a peaceful and lawful procession through the streets, was only a natural result of the misrule of that party whose leaders and representative men in the City and State Governments are now on trial at the bar of public opinion and in our Courts for the highest crimes and misdemeanors.

Resolved, That the murder of CLINTON GILBERT, a faithful officer and noble gentleman, while in the discharge of his public duty, is another proof of the dangerous lawlessness of the worst class of our cities, emboldened to acts of violence and crime by the example of public officers who regard with criminal indifference the lawless acts of their political supporters.

Resolved, That all the objects of good government have been substantially obtained under the wise, faithful and honored administration of President GRANT; that reduced taxes, the increased amount of the public revenue, with largely diminished expense in collecting them, the large reduction of the national debt, and the establishment and strengthening of the national credit at home and abroad, the preservation of the public peace, and the settlement upon an honorable and enlightened basis of our foreign policy, all furnish the highest proof that all the obligations of good government have been faithfully and ably discharged by Republican administration.

Resolved, That we heartily indorse the Republican candidates for the State, county, city and local tickets. That in SAMUEL BOOTH, our candidate for Mayor; in TWIGHT ROBINSON, our candidate for Supervisor at Large; in A. H. DAILEY, our candidate for District-Attorney; in FREDERICK A. SCHROEDER, our candidate for City Controller; in our candidates for Senators in the Second and Third Senatorial Districts, and, in fact, all through the list of local candidates, we recognize men distinguished for their honesty and fidelity to correct principles, and whose election will redound to the moral and material advantage of our city, county and State.

Resolved, That the integrity of the Democratic Party is not and cannot be circumscribed by geographical limits. The East River interposes no barrier for the protection of our people against the tactics of the Ring. Our local debt have wickedly augmented the public debt to an amount so vast that the credit of the City is seriously endangered. They have squandered large sums of money which they have wrung from our earnings for the support of political mendicants and the enrichment of public peculators. The Administration of the Controller whom they present for re-election, is calculated to alarm any reflecting citizen. They have, by the examples they have afforded of money dishonestly obtained in the business of politics, debauched many of our people and especially of our young men. And finally, by the crowning infamy of stuffing the ballot-boxes, falsifying our election returns and then securing the instruments of their crimes from just retribution, they have shown that the immediate inexorable, all-important duty of the citizens of Brooklyn is to hurl them from power by an overwhelming majority.

The resolutions were unanimously adopted, whereupon the chairman introduced Gen. BENJAMIN F. TRACY, who spoke particularly in relation to local topics.

ADDRESS OF BENJAMIN F. TRACY.

Mr. TRACY, who was received with cheers, said that the unparalleled corruptions of New-York developed the fact that few men could engineer through the Legislature of the State laws which gave into their hands the supreme and absolute control of the greatest City on the Western Continent, and to sack that City—literally sack it—under the protection of those laws, and the misgovernment that had prevailed on that side of the East River for years, impressed upon the people everywhere that the question to be met and decided at the coming election was, whether the people of great cities had virtue and integrity and energy enough to preserve to themselves an honest and an upright Government. Referring to the condition of local politics, he remarked that the Mayor of the City had publicly proclaimed that the debt was thirty-five million dollars. The fact that it was impossible for intelligent men after anxious inquiry to ascertain within eighteen million dollars of the true state of Brooklyn indebtedness ought to be sufficient to satisfy every honest man that a change of rulers was highly essential to the best interests of Brooklyn. [Applause.] The County debt on the 1st of July last amounted to $3,734,713, making in all a total amount of bonds, City and County, outstanding July 1, 1870, $31,551,008 24. Since the 1st of July there has been a further issue of bonds to the amount of $2,324,000, making the entire amount of bonds outstanding against the City of Brooklyn, on which we are compelled to provide for the payment of the principal of $33,875,008. In conclusion the General called the attention of the audience to the last and greatest abuse of all, namely, that practiced by the Collector of Taxes, who, commencing to collect the taxes from the people in November, has deposited the money in his own name in a favorite bank, and kept it there until May, even when the Treasurer was unable to meet the liabilities of the city, and had to go upon the street and borrow money at seven per cent. interest. These deposits frequently amounted to millions, and the fraud involved in the action was one performed year after year.

At the conclusion of Mr. TRACY'S address, Hon. STEWART L. WOODFORD was introduced. He said that the only question of the hour was how corruption shall be crushed and the elective franchise maintained. We should fight the flames of corruption from street to street, as the aroused citizens of Chicago fought flames which threatened to destroy that city. He said that we were sure to win in this campaign, because the masses were now fully aroused, and were determined to put down corruption and have a free election at this time. It was necessary, therefore, that all should rally to the polls and hurl these thieves from power and give us good government. In 1868, the Democrats of New-York absolutely counted out a man who was honestly elected, and SAMUEL J. TILDEN and other leaders held their peace, but now we find that Mr. TILDEN and the Reform Democracy are moving heaven and earth to wrest the City from the grasp of the thieves. In conclusion, he asked that all differences be settled, and in the name of good government give such a Republican victory next Tuesday as will echo throughout the State. He said that Gen. GRANT, in seeking to obtain San Domingo, but followed out the written tradition of GEORGE WASHINGTON. He also referred, in the highest terms of praise, to the efforts of Gen. GRANT in accomplishing the Treaty of Washington.

Alderman WM. RICHARDSON offered the following resolutions, which were adopted:

Resolved, That we extend our warmest congratulations to our fellow-citizens of the City of New-York at the success which has attended their efforts to harmonize and unite on one set of candidates in opposition to those of the Tammany Ring. We bid a hearty God speed to the labors of O'Conor, Evarts, Havemeyer, Greeley, Green, Schultz, Tilden, Pierrepont, and their Democratic and Republican compatriots, which have lent ballots have been put into the ballot-boxes, known in the system as ballot-stuffing, and false counts of the votes have been made, whether the operations of this system the Tammany Hall candidates, or those running under the protection of the Tammany interest, have been almost invariably declared successful in their candidature. This year fully two-thirds of the inspectors of election have to be appointed by the Mayor, and in view of the frauds which have been so extensively practiced in the past, a great interest has been taken in the subject of the appointment of these inspectors. It has been urged upon the Mayor that no person should be appointed as inspector who was not above all suspicion, and representative citizens, anxious to secure an honest election, have solicited interviews with the Mayor with the view of securing his co-operation to this end. Such interviews the Mayor has refused to grant, and has proceeded to make his appointments from among those persons recommended by the Tammany Hall representatives. That the names of the parties so appointed by the Mayor are sent by him to the Bureau of Elections, where a notice to each inspector is prepared and handed, in the greater number of the cases, to the Chairman of the Tammany Hall Election Committee in the Ward, who delivers or withholds the same as he thinks proper. If such Chairman is not satisfied as to the fidelity of the appointee to the interests of the Tammany Hall Association, the notice is withheld and a substitute recommended, who is forthwith appointed by the Mayor, as if a vacancy existed. Deponent has made careful investigations as to the inspectors appointed in various Wards. Upon the list are several who stand accused of crimes of murder, of rape, and of theft, some who cannot write, many well-known repeaters, and others, who in past years have been accused of fraudulently counting the ballots at elections in the interest of the Tammany Hall candidates. Hundreds of the inspectors are entirely in the interest of some of the leading representatives of the Tammany Hall Association, and it is as well understood, being accepted as a certainty, by those among whom they reside, that they will make their returns favorable to the Tammany Hall candidate without any reference to the ballots cast. And such is the dangerous character of many of those appointed by the Mayor to be inspectors of election, that in several instances the respectable citizens of the Ward are afraid to come forward to make affidavit to the fact, their lives being in danger if they did so. That said inspectors of election have been appointed by the Mayor in the Tammany Hall interest; that they are placed under the direction of the Tammany Hall representative in the Ward, and will commit any fraud necessary to make the return favorable to the candidates put in nomination by said Association; that the feeling is almost universal in this City that with such inspectors the election will be a farce and a fraud in the City.

City and County of New-York, ss.: JAMES HEALY being duly sworn, deposes and says: That he resides at No. 10 Harrison-street, in the Fifth Ward of said City, and has resided in said Ward for upward of nineteen years; that he is personally acquainted with several of the inspectors of election now acting as such in First Assembly District; that in the judgment of this deponent an honest or fair election return from said inspectorship is impossible, as deponent knows some of said inspectors appointed by the Mayor to be heretofore engaged in frauds in connection with the elections.

City and County of New-York, ss.: THOMAS H. To make sure of this, various devices are resorted—sometimes false registry, sometimes the ballot-boxes are stuffed with ballots; sometimes voters are personated by those who have no right to vote, and sometimes the ballots are falsely counted, giving to the Association candidates more ballots than they are entitled to, and less to the candidates not supported by the Association.

Brown, John Hallaran, John Norton, John Olmstead, John W. Brown, Thomas Kelly, and J. M. Crandall; that the said several parties are entirely under the influence of HENRY W. GENET, who is a candidate for State Senator in the Eighth Senatorial District, which includes the said Ward, and who is the representative of the Tammany Hall Association in said Ward; and in deponent's judgment said inspectors are not proper parties to be intrusted with ballots of the citizens at the following election; that they and each of them, and others of the said inspectors of election of the said districts in said Ward, would, to deponent's knowledge, unhesitatingly act as directed by said representive, and fraudulently count in the candidates supported by the Tammany Hall interest without reference to the actual ballots voted at said election; that in deponent's judgment it is impossible with such inspectors of election to have a fair and honest election in said Ward, and to deponent's knowledge such is the feeling of a large portion of the citizens of the Ward.

The Bureau of Elections sends to him the certificates of appointment of inspectors, which he gives or withholds at pleasure; if the representative is not satisfied with the fidelity of the inspectors to the Tammany Hall interest he withholds the certificate and reports to the Bureau of Elections a substitute, who is appointed by the Mayor on his recommendation, and sworn in to serve; that the inspectors of election so appointed or elected are placed under the direction of the representative of the Association in the Wards respectively, and the said representative is held responsible for the success in his Ward of the candidate for office put in nomination by the Association; that the inspectors of election acting under the direction of their Ward representative so conduct and control the election that they return as successful the Association or Tammany candidates; to secure this result various schemes are resorted to, such as false registry, ballot-box stuffing, repeating, personating voters and false counting; that one or the other, or all of these means, is resorted to as the opportunity is afforded, or the necessity is felt to make sure of success; that under the operation of this system, the inspectors of election were reported as elected at the election held on 8th November, 1870; that deponent has a personal knowledge of the inspectors of election elected and appointed for the several election districts of the Thirteenth Ward of this City; and that some of these inspectors of election he knows to have been engaged in carrying out the practices aforesaid, and that with such inspectors an honest and fair election in said Ward is an impossibility.

The following is Judge BARNARD's order:

At a Special Term of the Supreme Court, held at Chambers, in the Court-house, in the City of New-York, on the 3d day of November, 1871, present, Hon. GEORGE G. BARNARD, Justice.—The People ex rel. JOHN FOLEY, against A. OAKEY HALL, Mayor of the City of New-York.—On the affidavit of the relator and others, hereto annexed, let the respondent, A. OAKEY HALL, show cause before me, at a Special Term of this Court, to be held at Chambers, in the Court-house, in the City of New-York, on the 3d day of November, 1871, at 1½ o'clock, afternoon, why a writ of peremptory mandamus should not issue under the seal of this Court, commanding the said A. OAKEY HALL forthwith to appoint, as provided by law, inspectors of election in the various election districts in the several Wards of the City of New-York, so that the rights of the citizens may be secured to them at the election to be held on Nov. 7, 1871.

GEORGE G. BARNARD, J. S. C.

MAYOR HALL'S ANSWER.

Mayor HALL subsequently prepared and presented to the Court an affidavit in which he states that at 1 o'clock in the day he was served with a batch of papers, purporting to be affidavits, but which he could not read because of illegibility; that upon his own responsibility he has duly, in each election district of this City, in accordance with the requirements of law, wherever there was a vacancy, appointed an inspector or of election in accordance with his policy outlined in his letter of Oct. 12, already published; that he is informed and believes that there is no vacancy for the appointment of an inspector in any election district, and concludes by asking that the Court, in view of the hour on which the papers were served on him, the fact that according to their date they might have been served on Thursday, and his belief that the proceeding has been taken for political effect, shall grant him the opportunity to make full answer.

A Mandamus Against Corson—Assistant Aldermen to be Voted For.

The order of Judge BARNARD directing CORNELIUS CORSON, Chief of the Bureau of Elections, to show cause why a mandamus should not issue compelling him to place City boxes at the polling places on election day to receive such votes as may be cast for Assistant Aldermen, came up on the return yesterday.

Mr. LAWRENCE stated to the Court that his motion was made on behalf of GEO. J. KRAUS, a candidate for Assistant Alderman in the Eighth Assistant Aldermanic District, and that the affidavit on which he moved showed a demand on CORSON to place the boxes, and his refusal to do so.

Mr. BOOKSTAVER opposed the motion, on the ground that the affidavit of KRAUS did not distinctly allege a refusal, but, on the contrary, that CORSON stated he would take legal advice and give an answer on Saturday; that this is a matter in prospective for which a mandamus will not lie; that the Sheriff had not been notified of such an election, and that CORSON really intends to place the boxes.

Judge BARNARD—Well, if he intends to do it, the mandamus can't hurt him. I mean to let them vote this time for all the offices they wish, except mine.

The order was then signed and entered by Mr. LAWRENCE, directing the boxes to be placed at the polls.

Close Your Places of Business on Election Day—A Good Example.

In accordance with the suggestion of the Committee of Seventy, the following action has been taken by leading business houses in this City:

The undersigned firms, engaged in business in New-York, being convinced that the election to be held on the 7th November inst., is of the most momentous import to this Municipality, to the State of New-York, and to free institutions, hereby declare their purpose to close their places of business on that day, so that all honest voters may, without hindrance, devote the whole day to the patriotic duty of saving this noble City and State from the rule of bad men.

An old and respectable citizen of Harlem called at this office yesterday and stated that HARRY GENET, in order to secure his election as Senator of the Eighth Senatorial District, was resorting to all possible mean devices that could suggest themselves. His last act has been to bring a large array of paupers from Ward's Island, and, after supplying them with whisky, caused them to register. Our informant says that at 10 o'clock yesterday morning about forty paupers arrived in Harlem from Ward's Island. At the ferry foot of One Hundred and Ninth-street they scattered into detached squads of about ten each, and thence marched up along One Hundred and Ninth-street to Third-avenue, where they went into RILEY's liquor-store and imbibed freely. They were an exceedingly rough-looking crowd, appeared to be of the emigrant class, and it is doubtful whether they were all naturalized citizens. From RILEY's liquor-store they went across to the Registration Bureau, at the other side of the street, and registered their names one by one. While they drank in the liquor-store at GENET's expense, the candidate for Senatorial honors was quietly enjoying himself upstairs. "RILEY's Den," as our informant called it, is a place of considerable note. The matter has given rise to considerable gossip among the respectable people of Harlem, who condemn in undisguised terms such tricks as are being practised by the patrons of the Tammany Ring.

Until recently a photograph of Mayor HALL hung in the Council Room of the New-York University, of which institution he is a graduate. The students, on learning of his connection with the frauds of the Ring, resolved that it was a disgrace to allow it to hang there longer. Accordingly, on the day on which the Mayor was summoned to appear before the Grand Jury they tore it from the wall, formed in procession, and marched through the hall with it, and then broke it into a thousand pieces.

Another Modification of Judge Barnard's Injunction.

The City injunction was yesterday modified by Judge BARNARD, so far as to permit some seventeen millions of the City bonds negotiated in Europe by AUGUST BELEMONT & Co., before the injunction, to be issued without the name of Deputy Controller GREEN being written across their face. This is done merely to permit the fulfilment of an existing contract in the terms in which it was made.

Police Election Order.

The usual order defining the duties of the Police in connection with the election was issued yesterday. It is as follows:

OFFICE OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF POLICE OF THE CITY OF NEW-YORK, NO. 300 MULBERRY-STREET, NEW-YORK, Nov. 3, 1871.

To Captains of Police:

GENERAL ORDER, NO. 69.—Tuesday, the 7th day of November instant, is assigned for holding an election in the City of New-York. The polls of election are required by law to be opened at 6 A. M., and closed at 5 P. M. On that day you will order the whole of your command on duty. Except those who are specially detailed by the Superintendent for that day, excuse no member of your command who is able to do patrol duty. You will detail two members of your force to duty at each of the polling-places, from 6 o'clock A. M. until the completion of the canvassing of votes at evening, with such tours of duty and relief as you shall deem proper. You will instruct the members of your force to keep order in the streets, and especially in the vicinity of the polls and about the election booths or boxes; to promptly arrest all persons violating the provisions of the election law, and charge them with the offense committed; to enforce the observance of the provisions of the Excise law, prohibiting the "selling or giving away intoxicating liquor," on the day "when any election is held," within a quarter of a mile of the place where the election is held. Your attention is particularly called to section 13 of the Election laws of 1870, which provides that

"Each candidate for any office to be filled at the election may, by a certificate in writing signed by him, designate one person for each election district in which he is a candidate, to be present at the canvass of the ballots containing the names of the persons designated for that office. The officers attending the election in the election district specified in such certificate shall make a passage for such person to the inspectors, and the inspectors shall permit him to be present at the canvass of the ballots, specified in the said certificate, and so near to them that he can see that the canvass is correctly made, and the inspectors shall have no power to cause the absence or removal of such person during the canvass of such ballots, unless he shall himself be guilty of fraudulent or disorderly conduct. All persons are prohibited from engaging in or assisting in the canvass and estimate of votes as aforesaid, except the inspectors of election and poll-clerks of each district. Any person offending against this last provision shall be deemed guilty of, and punished as for, a misdemeanor.

You will see that your telegraph instrument is in order, and in charge of a Sergeant fully competent to work it, from 6 A. M. until the completion of the canvass. In case you require assistance on election day, call on the adjoining Precincts for their reserve, and furnish the required aid when called on by adjoining precincts, if you can spare the force; and if the disorder assumes a serious aspect, telegraph to this office. You will see that your ballot-boxes, locks and keys are in order, the ballot-boxes marked or labelled as required, and properly distributed to the several polling places in your Precinct, and delivered to the inspectors of election at 8 o'clock on the morning of election day. You will instruct the members of your force to protect all persons who may be legally acting in an orderly manner as challengers at any poll of election within your precinct, and to prevent the erection of, and to remove if erected, any box, booth, or structure for distributing ballots within 150 feet of any polling place. Inspectors of Election are now, by law, canvassers of the votes cast at elections. You will therefore, under all circumstances, protect them in the undisturbed possession of the ballot-boxes, and repress all improper interference with them while canvassing the votes and completing the canvass. When that is done, to take charge of the ballot-boxes and keys, and return them to the Station-house.

JAMES J. KELSO, Superintendent.
GEO. W. DILKS, Inspector.

WOODWARD AGAIN.

The following supplemental report from the Committee of Seventy will be added to those already published. It exposes certainly fraudulent transactions already mentioned in the TIMES:

As another specimen of the fraudulent transactions in the County offices, we will call attention to the accounts of Messrs. SEYMOUR, KENNARD & HAY, for stationery, blank-books, &c., furnished the County of New-York in years 1868, 1869 and 1870, and charged upon the County books in the account of "adjusted claims" and "County liabilities." The total amount, as copied from those accounts by the "Joint Investigating Committee," purporting to have been paid them for supplies during the years above-mentioned is $207,832 35. From the annexed statement, made by Messrs. SEYMOUR, KENNARD & HAY, and proofs that have been submitted to us, we can safely say that $82,136 44 of this amount was stolen by E. A. WOODWARD. Messrs. SEYMOUR, KENNARD & HAY state that their settlements were made with E. A. WOODWARD, and that from an examination of the warrants by the member of the firm who attended to this branch of their business they are convinced, both from the large excess of amounts, and the peculiar manner of the indorsements, that a number of them are forgeries. In the settlement of the accounts no warrants were collected by them, payments being made in cash by E. A. WOODWARD, and they being compelled by him to indorse the warrants without even seeing their face, believing at the time that the interest which should have been justly paid to them was included in the warrants, and appropriated by him. This is only another case where the proofs are positive that the County has been robbed of over $80,000. Messrs. SEYMOUR, KENNARD & HAY have offered every facility in the investigation of this matter, and we are happy to say that we believe them entirely innocent of any unfair dealing, or of receiving a dollar to which they are not justly entitled. The following is a statement of the case:

The John V. Gridley Fraud.

Mr. GREELEY supports JOHN V. GRIDLEY, the bolting Tammany Republican candidate for the Assembly in the Eleventh District, against the Committee of Seventy and the regular Republican candidate, RUSH C. HAWKINS. If even he can afford thus to violate solemn pledges in order to favor a notorious character like GRIDLEY, we are mistaken. Let us see how the matter stands, for it involves much more than the mere question of candidates. The only pretense of a nomination which Mr. GRIDLEY has proceeds from the Twenty-second-street organization, of which Mr. GREELEY is or was the Chairman. That committee, on motion of Mr. GREELEY himself, in August last unanimously resolved to "implicitly abide the action of the State Convention," even if that Convention should decide that they were an irregular body, wholly without authority to speak for the Republican Party. The State Convention did so decide, but neither the Committee nor Mr. GREELEY seem disposed to abide by its action. They throw to the wind their solemn pledges of honor. The Tribune insists day after day that Mr. GREELEY's Committee is the "Regular Republican Committee." This is bad enough, but when Mr. GREELEY and his coadjutors go further and insist upon placing and keeping in the field a candidate nominated by them in opposition to the regular candidate, and seeking to defeat the latter in a Republican district, the matter becomes something more than a personal one. It passes beyond a mere violation of plighted faith, and becomes treason to the Republican Party.

And who is the man for whom Mr. GREELEY thus breaks his plighted word and the Tribune seeks to divide, if not betray, the Republican Party? JOHN V. GRIDLEY, through his influence with a member of the Board of Supervisors, procured the Eleventh District to be gerrymandered expressly for the purpose of electing him to the Assembly. He has since forced himself upon the Republican Party half a dozen times as its candidate, and was once elected, in 1867, we think. He was nominated in 1865 and withdrew a day or two before election under such circumstances that the Tribune charged him with selling out the party. Its express language, in all the glory of large type, was:

"Union men of the Twentieth Ward, you have been sold out to OLIVER CHARLOCK. JOHN V. GRIDLEY has withdrawn in his favor. The price is understood to be $6,000. The terms are: 1st. That CHARLOCK's ticket shall be put in the Republican shoddies. 2d. That Republicans shall vote for CHARLOCK. Union men of the Twentieth Ward are you prepared to carry out this nefarious bargain to send OLIVER CHARLOCK, the jobber and Long Island Railroad slaughterer and copperhead, as your representative to the Legislature?"

Yet the Tribune now asks Republicans to send to the Legislature at the present time the man whom it denounced as selling out the Republican Party for $6,000 by a nefarious bargain to a man whom it calls a "jobber." If they want to provide a facile subject for TWEED's blandishments they will do so; otherwise not.

While Mr. GRIDLEY was in the Legislature in 1867, he drew his pay both for services at Albany as a member of Assembly and as Clerk of the Seventh District Court in this City. He surely could not perform services in both places at the same time. While at Albany, he defeated the Board of Health in an attempt to procure the removal of Washington Market, and the Tribune vigorously denounced him for thus sustaining a nuisance. We have already referred to a transaction in which a check for $800 was given while Mr. GRIDLEY was at Albany, before it was possible to secure the passage of a bill through the Legislature. We are informed that both the living witness and the dead check are in existence. Mr. GRIDLEY may have derived no advantage from it, but he was certainly, while a legislator, the instrument or go-between in a very suspicious transaction. Mr. GRIDLEY claimed to have been subsequently elected to the Legislature, and commenced a vigorous contest of the seat of the Democrat who had the certificate of election. He suddenly withdrew it, and his competitor asserted that a large sum of money was paid to procure that result.

Mr. GRIDLEY's present position is sufficiently defined by the fact that he has recently procured the appointment of his son to a clerkship under Tammany, and that OAKEY HALL has appointed all the inspectors of election in Mr. GRIDLEY's accommodation. It only needs a certificate from MARSHALL O. ROBERTS to complete his record, and that will doubtless be forthcoming.

We are happy to believe that neither the money of Tammany nor the course of the Tribune can secure either the election of Mr. GRIDLEY or the defeat of Col. HAWKINS. It is not a "bearing year," as the farmers say, for people of the Gridley stamp. The large registration of Wednesday in the Eighteenth and Twenty-first Wards settled the question of Col. HAWKINS' election. The tax-payers of that district are evidently going to vote this year, and they are going to vote as the Committee of Seventy advises in favor of an honest man, on whose garments no suspicion has ever rested, who has never received $6,000 or any other sum for making a "nefarious bargain" to sell out the Republican Party to a "jobber," who has never drawn pay from the public for services he did not and could not render, who has never sided to perpetuate nuisances, who fought traitors instead of selling out to copperheads, who has some other means of livelihood beyond office-holding and Ward politics, and who has no influence with the Ring.

From the Jersey City Times, Nov. 1.

The usual monthly statement of the national debt is published this morning. We point with proud satisfaction to the facts therein presented, and ask every Democrat to study the record of the Republican Administration. When Gen. GRANT went into office, the national debt, less cash on hand, was $2,456,467,861. Twenty months have elapsed, and now the people's burden—the legacy of a Democratic war—is $2,351,713,448. It thus appears that Gen. GRANT's Administration has paid off and forever obliterated no less than $204,754,413! Have we not a right, not only as Republicans, but as American citizens, to be proud of such a record? In four months less than half of his first term, our straightforward Chief has wiped out nearly two hundred and five millions of our national obligations, and this, too, while reducing taxation by nearly fifty per cent., and striking from the internal revenue list a great many articles most essential to the poorer classes of citizens.

Let us look at this magnificent financial success in the point of time, and see how the good work has gone on week by week, and minute by minute. The great debt has been decreased, since our President took the station to which a grateful people called him, at the rate of $10,237,720 each month, $2,340,441 each week, $335,563 each day, $14,000 each hour, $233 each minute, nearly four dollars for every second of time! An ordinary watch gives 240 beats per minute, so, as you listen to its ticking, you know that every one of those clicks for the past twenty months had noted one dollar less of our debt! You cannot count those beats orally for the space of two consecutive minutes. GRANT's policy is dropping hard dollars from your burden so fast that your tongue is unable to count them as they fall!

Suppose—if there can be a supposition in so plain a case—that Gen. GRANT is called upon for another term. His policy will doubtless continue, for he is not a man to be blown about by every fickle breeze. He will "fight it out on this line" of paying off the debt as fast as it can be done with due regard to the best interests of the people. He has thus far paid nearly $10,000,000 per month. Two terms would be ninety-six months, and this would insure the reduction of the debt by the enormous sum of $960,000,000! That is to say, and there is no moral doubt of its truth, if Gen. GRANT fills out the two full terms as President, he will have paid off nearly $1,000,000,000 that were, when he came into office, drawing at least $50,000,000 every year in interest from the pockets of the people. At the rate the work has been going on, the whole debt might be paid in eighteen years from this day! So much for Republican financial government.

What have the other party to show for themselves? The only piece of importance in which the Democracy have had everything their own way, since GRANT's inauguration, is the great City of New-York. They have all the offices, all the Courts, the State Legislature, the Governor, in fact everything. Not a solitary Republican has had power to raise more than his protest against their doings. What has the Democratic Party done? It has increased the City debt by three times. It has raised the burden of the tax-payers from less than $30,000,000 to more than $100,000,000! And now its praised and petted leaders, its demigods, are under bonds for stealing, or fugitives from justice in other lands.

HINTS FROM CITIZENS.

Don't Shop Next Tuesday.

Women can't vote, to be sure; but they can assist others to vote, by conscientiously abstaining from all shopping on Tuesday next. Please suggest this through your valuable paper, and I think you will find that women generally are patriotic. NINETEENTH-STREET.

Closing Stores on Tuesday.

Hundreds of merchants are willing to close their doors on the 7th inst. if they can be assured the movement will be general. As it is, each individual is afraid he may be alone, and knowing the Ring's ability to crush a rebellious tax-payer, is a victim of anxious indecision.

If the Committee of Seventy will circulate a paper pledging the signers to close their stores, it will secure the closing of nine-tenths of the stores in the City.

Doing Away With Secret Voting.

Let me suggest that in election districts where there is any fear of fraud, that some place be hired close to the poll, and that voters be notified thereof and requested to go in and state their names and for whom they voted, so that a register may be kept for future use. All true reformers would willingly take this additional trouble to insure a fair election.

To All Ministers of Religion.

It has struck me to write and ask that you use your powerful influence and call on every pulpit in the City to ask their congregations, one and all, to turn out next Tuesday and give their vote.

Your great and untiring efforts on behalf of reform, and your powerful denunciation of the Ring frauds have met with their reward in the people's approval.

Let every preacher from every pulpit, next Sunday, make it a point to call on their congregations to turn out and vote, no matter what the inconvenience may be. I want to see your noble efforts crowned with success.

Trusting, Sir, you will excuse these lines, I am, one of your constant readers,

Generous Street Boys.

In order to ascertain the feeling of the "street boys" on the recent calamity in Chicago, Mr. CALDER, the Superintendent of their Home, in Rivington-street, opened a subscription list, and invited all to contribute, to the extent of their ability, for the relief of the sufferers. The boys responded with the most touching eagerness, and in a very short time made up the handsome sum (for them) of $16. One little newsboy decided to go without his supper, to enable him to give five cents. His donation was taken, but he got his supper free, with an extra slice for his generosity.

There is no doubt of the authority of the County Medical Society to expel a member who is duly convicted of a violation of its by-laws. The defendants assume to be acting under color of this authority. One of them professes to be the accuser, and

TESTIMONY.

PERMANENT CURE OF GRAVEL OF TWELVE YEARS' STANDING—STONE PASSED, AND TO BE SEEN.

BURNSIDE, Conn., Dec. 15, 1869.

DEAR SIR: It is with much pleasure that I write you upon facts respecting myself. I do not know hardly how to express myself. I have been for the last ten or twelve years the greatest sufferer man could be and live, but more sometimes than others. The complaint was the "Kidneys" and "Bladder." I have been sometimes from twelve to fourteen hours and wanted to make water every minute, but could not. Have consulted doctors both in Massachusetts and this State, and taken pills, I may say, by the quart also liquored medicines; but found no relief from any, and got worse the last six months. I was so that I could scarcely get about. I could not rest night or day. It would soon have been "all up" with me if I had not seen your advertisement in The Berkshire Courier, headed "Kidneys." I read it through, and thought I would try it. I purchased a bottle; but, mind you, I had not much faith in it. Why should I, when I had been trying so many things and cost me so much? Well, before I had taken the first bottle I felt bad; but I finished it and got another. By the time I took half of the second I still got worse (apparently.) When I walked it seemed as if my right kidney was falling from its place, and I made up my mind it was no use trying any more. And all this time the "Buchu" was doing its work, but I did not know it; so I gave it up, and went to Hartford, on Saturday, to one of the best doctors in the city. He said it was the neck of the bladder, and I should have to undergo an operation. He gave me medicine, and I went home quite down-hearted. On Sunday I was unable to go to church. I had not taken of his medicine, but, on my return, continued using the "Buchu;" and in the afternoon I had a desire to make water, but could not. About one hour after this I tried again, with the same result; but the next time I took the vessel it was the same as turning a faucet and stopping it off again. It was so for three times, and the third time there was something came through the passage and struck against the side of the vessel. I examined it, and it is the ugliest stone or gravel you ever saw, covered over with little pieces which collected together. It looks the color of a mud-turtle, and is as hard as flint. So you see the "Buchu" was doing its work, although I was feeling so badly. I procured another bottle, thinking there might be some more behind; but since that has passed, which is eight weeks ago last Sunday, I have been as well as ever I was in my life. I have the stone securely wrapped, and those who have seen it in this place are surprised. I cannot tell you all; but this is a true story of my case, and you are welcome to make such use of my name as you think proper. I am pretty well known in Berkshire; also in Connecticut. The advertisement saved me. Why not publish more? The Springfield Republican is a wide-spread paper. If any one wishes to see this wonder, they can do so. I could write all day, but I think I have said enough this time; so I remain your ever well-wisher,

A CASE OF TWENTY YEARS' STANDING.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., June 28, 1867.

H. T. HELMBOLD, Druggist;

DEAR SIR: I have been a sufferer for upward of twenty years with gravel, bladder and kidney affections, during which time I have used various medical preparations, and been under the treatment of the most eminent physicians, experiencing but little relief.

Having seen your preparation extensively advertised, I consulted my family physician in regard to using your Extract Buchu.

I did this because I had used all kinds of advertised remedies, and had found them worthless, and some quite injurious; in fact, I despaired of ever getting well, and determined to use no remedies hereafter unless I knew of the ingredients. It was this that prompted me to use your remedy. As you advertised that it was composed of buchu, cubebs and juniperberries, it occurred to me and my physician as an excellent combination; and with his advice, after an examination of the matter, and consulting again with the druggist, I concluded to try it. I commenced to use it about eight months ago, at which time I was confined to my room.

From the first bottle I was astonished and gratified at the beneficial effect, and after using it three weeks was able to walk out. I felt much like writing to you a full statement of my case at the time, but thought my improvement might be only temporary, and therefore concluded to defer, and see if it would effect a perfect cure, knowing that it would be of greater value to you and more satisfactory to me.

I am now able to report that a cure is effected, after using the remedy for five months.

I HAVE NOT USED ANY NOW FOR THREE MONTHS, AND FEEL AS WELL IN ALL RESPECTS AS I EVER DID.

Your Buchu being devoid of any unpleasant taste and odor, a nice tonic and invigorator of the system, I do not mean to be without it whenever occasion may require its use on such occasions.

DEAR SIR: I have in my practice used (in a majority of cases where disease of the urinary organs existed) HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT OF BUCHU, and confidently say that I have never known it to be used without the greatest beneficial results. Dr. H. T. Helmbold:

DEAR SIR: I have been suffering for a long time from Diabetes, and had been under treatment for the same by three (3) of the most eminent physicians of this place—viz.: Drs. Hasbrouck, Hall and Smith—without any apparent beneficial result. Having heard of your "FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU," I concluded to try it, although I had but little faith in its curative properties. I am happy to state that after having taken four bottles of your "BUCHU," I am entirely cured, and deem it but my duty to you and the community at large to inform you of the fact that I have been perfectly cured by your medicine, having been informed by the three physicians above stated that my disease was incurable.

CURE OF BLADDER AND KIDNEY AFFECTION OF LONG STANDING—STONE PASSED AND TO BE SEEN.

WESTPORT, Conn, Sept. 5, 1869.

H. T. HELMBOLD, Esq.

DEAR SIR: I commenced taking your "Extract of Buchu" about two weeks since for an affection of the bladder and kidneys. I have suffered by spells very much for a few days past. But yesterday relief came through the effect of your "Buchu." A stone passed from my bladder about the size of a large pea, and now I feel perfectly well and entirely free from the pain that I have suffered with "so hard." I attribute my cure to your medicine entirely, and would recommend all persons similarly affected to try it. I have great faith in its curative powers.

Yours, truly. THOMAS J. BENNETT.

GIRARD, Penn., March 31, 1869.

EDITOR COSMOPOLITE: I desire, as an unsolicited tribute to the merits of HELMBOLD'S BUCHU and for the benefit of those similarly afflicted as myself, to say that, after consulting many eminent physicians, and trying nearly all the best advertised remedies, in the vain hope of finding relief from aggravated kidney and bladder diseases from which I had suffered excessively for many years, good fortune finally suggested to me HELMBOLD'S BUCHU, which I commenced using with little faith and no apparent beneficial results for about a month. At the expiration of that time, however, I thought I commenced to experience slight relief, which encouraged me to persevere in its use. Now, at the expiration of four months, although I am an infirm old man, nearly seventy-eight years of age, and consequently medicines cannot be expected to favorably affect me as they otherwise would, I have found such unspeakable relief and permanent benefit from Mr. Helmbold's valuable discovery, and I feel I ought to publicly record the fact as an acknowledgment to him and a valuable suggestion to the public.

DEAR SIR: I take great pleasure in sending you a certificate, in addition to the many you have received from suffering humanity. I can scarcely find language sufficiently strong to express my heartfelt gratification at the wonderful cure your Buchu has effected. For four years I have suffered beyond description. All my friends (with myself) came to the conclusion that my case was incurable. ACCIDENT placed your advertisement in my hands. I commenced taking your BUCHU.

I followed the directions, and to my utter astonishment, before I had taken seven bottles of your valuable medicine—(I would give ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS a bottle, if I could not get it at any other price)—am entirely cured. I most earnestly recommend it to all those suffering from disease. I told many persons to take your valuable medicine, and they are doing so with great success. CURE OF NERVOUS PROSTRATION AND DECLINE OF A YOUNG LADY.

H. T. HELMBOLD: I have given your EXTRACT BUCHU to my daughter, who has been unable to sleep, very nervous, loss of appetite, general debility, and rapidly falling into a decline—in fact, consumption was talked of. I was recommended to try your BUCHU by a highly respectable lady of this place, who had given it to her son with complete success. My daughter had been troubled for a long time. I purchased one bottle some eight weeks since, which lasted one week, and from which she received great benefit, and induced me to purchase one-half dozen bottles, as I tried many other remedies and my family physician to no avail. It is now more than two weeks since she has taken the last bottle, and I am happy to inform you of its complete success.

Very truly yours,

SPEEDY RELIEF FROM KIDNEY AFFECTION OCCASIONED BY ACCIDENT.

NEW-YORK, Feb. 1, 1870.

DR. HELMBOLD:

DEAR SIR: On the 23d of August I received severe internal and external injuries, occasioned by an accident on a Philadelphia railroad car. On my arrival in New-York I was attended by Dr. WILSON, of East 59th-st., and another physician, whose name I do not remember. After my wounds were dressed I suffered for three (3) days intense agony from internal injuries, which affected my kidneys. I can say that after taking but three doses of your EXTRACT BUCHU I felt greatly relieved. I used the balance of the bottle, and am happy to state that since that time I have experienced no further difficulty.

GREAT CURE OF DIABETES OF A LADY.—FIFTY DOLLARS A BOTTLE.

DEAR DR. HELMBOLD:

DEAR SIR: For the past eight months I have been suffering from diabetes. I have consulted several of our leading physicians, but have failed to receive the slightest benefit from their costly medicines.

Four months ago I saw your advertisement in the Herald. I was persuaded by a friend who had been benefited by your world-renowned Buchu. I purchased a bottle, took the contents, and was so relieved that I continued the use of it. The diabetes has entirely disappeared, after using it for three months. I would give $50 a bottle, if I could not get it at any other price.

I most earnestly recommend it to all those suffering from this disease.

Sincerely yours,
ANNA B. STOUGHTON,
No. 122 West 27th-st.

FROM A PRACTITIONER OF TWENTY YEARS' EXPERIENCE.

MR. HELMBOLD:

SIR: I have prescribed your Buchu in affections of the Bladder and Kidneys with a gratifying result.

Truly yours, EDWARD L. SHAW, M. D.

NEW-YORK, April 12, 1865.

DISEASE OF THE BLADDER AND GOUT OF THE KIDNEY CURED.

H. T. HELMBOLD: I consider thy Compound Fluid Extract Buchu one of the best medicines for Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder. One bottle relieved me of severe Gout of Kidneys, and I was entirely cured by the use of six.

Respectfully, thy friend,
S. M. JOHNSON

BURLINGTON, N. J., May, 1853.

CURE OF A CASE OF GRAVEL OF NINE YEARS' STANDING.

PHILADELPHIA, GIRARD HOUSE, April 19, 1866.

DR. HELMBOLD:

DEAR SIR: Having suffered with gravel for upward of nine years, and not obtaining any relief from the various physicians in my section, I visited Philadelphia for the purpose of having an operation performed some ten or eleven weeks since; but, on my arrival, I saw your advertisement in the Ledger, and I determined to try it first, having a great aversion to the operation. I purchased three bottles, although at the time I had little faith in medicine in my case, but hoping it might relieve my suffering. I soon found my pain decrease, and felt much more comfortable. I then purchased one dozen bottles. I continued to use it, and at the expiration of four weeks I noticed a deposit in my chamber, and upon inspection I found this to be gritty, and then determined to examine more closely; and to my surprise I found this to be small particles, larger than a pin's head. I continued to use the medicine, and have collected a few of the same, which I inclose. I continued to pass them until within three weeks. My water previous to using it was feverish, and a sediment would form from it. Since that period it is much lighter; the pain has ceased, and I am able to inform you that it is now of a natural color, and I have no pain or inflammation in any part of my body, and can walk, ride, or rest, without any inconvenience.

I shall leave for home to-morrow, and shall take a supply with me, as I intend using it for some time, although I feel well now, and can candidly say that it has effected a cure when all other remedies and medical skill had failed.

Feeling grateful that I was so fortunate to find and you to prepare such an excellent medicine, believe me, in the comprehensive sense of the word,

Your friend, J. B. SANDERSON.

(DR. KEYSER IS A PHYSICIAN OF OVER THIRTY YEARS' EXPERIENCE, AND GRADUATE OF THE JEFFERSON MEDICAL COLLEGE, AND OF THE UNIVERSITY OF MEDICINE AND SURGERY OF PHILADELPHIA.)

MR. H. T. HELMBOLD:

DEAR SIR: In regard to the question asked me as to my opinion about Buchu, I would say I have seen and used every form of Buchu—the powdered leaves, the simple decoction, tincture, fluid extracts—and I am not cognizant of any preparation of that plant at all equal to yours. Thirty years' experience ought, I think, to give me the right to judge of its merits, and, without prejudice or partiality, I give yours precedence over all others.

I have cured with it, and seen cured with it, more diseases of the bladder and kidneys than I have ever seen cured with any other Buchu, or any other proprietary compound, of whatever name.

Respectfully yours, &c.,
GEO. B. KEYSER, M. D

FROM A PROFESSOR OF SURGERY, SURGEON AND CLINICAL LECTURER TO THE ALMSHOUSE INFIRMARY, &c.

I have employed the medicines of Dr. Helmbold in numerous instances within the last three years, and have always found them extremely efficacious, especially in diseases of the urinary organs. I have no hesitation in pronouncing them of inestimable value and worthy the confidence of the Faculty.

DAILY, WEEKLY AND SEMI-WEEKLY.

This journal is now thoroughly identified with the greatest political necessity of the hour—uncompromising warfare against all forms of corruption, whether in national or local government. For years past the TIMES has been exposing the demoralizing schemes of self-interested politicians, and its recent warfare upon the Tammany Democrats has been received with universal approval. It has adhered to the pledge given in its original prospectus, more than twenty years ago, that the public should be truly represented, and their interests faithfully guarded through its columns. Its record has been pure and honorable, and the highest aim of its proprietors is to render it more and more worthy of its past history, and of the confidence which the public repose in it. Two out of three of the original proprietors still direct its policy, and guide it on all public questions. They purpose that the TIMES shall continue to keep clear of all narrow and unworthy influences and cliques, and aim to represent the great bodyjot the public, as distinguished from personal factions. It occupies a perfectly independent position, and is free to speak the truth on all subjects and about all men. Its greatly increased circulation throughout the country adds to its power and influence. It will continue to be a faithful exponent of Republican principles, and advocate with undiving energy every cause which tends to further the welfare of the people.

The utmost care will be devoted to gathering political news from special sources during the Presidential canvass. This department of the paper will be unusually full and trustworthy. Renewed enterprise will be exhibited in every department of the paper and large space will be devoted to reports of speeches made during elections, or on other important political occasions.

A very full summary of news, and many general articles of great interest, are published in the Semi-weekly editions; and in the Weekly edition there is an unabridged report of the proceedings at the Farmers' Club, an excellent summary of political information, and a great variety of matter suitable for family reading.

The NEW-YORK TIMES is pre-eminently a family paper, all objectionable advertisements being rigidly excluded; and it has a constantly increasing circulation among the most respectable classes of the community.

The Georgia Legislature recognized BENJAMIN CONLEY, (Republican,) as Acting Governor, yesterday, and a bill was introduced for a special election for Governor in December.

VICTOR G. POWELL, late clerk in the Second Auditor's office, charged with conspiracy with Ex-Congressman W. B. STOKES, and others, to defraud the United States, was released yesterday, on $10,000 bail, to answer before the Criminal Court.

Intelligence from Algeria announces the entire suppression of the insurrection in that department. The natives were generally resuming their agricultural labors.

There were five deaths from yellow fever, yesterday, in Charleston, S. C.

Judge DWINELLE, of the Fifteenth District Court, in San Francisco, has affirmed the validity of the special assessments on the stockholders in the insurance companies, to make good the capital impaired by Chicago fire losses.

CHARLES H. WARD, of the late banking firm of MELLEN, WARD & Co., of Boston, sentenced to three years' imprisonment in June, 1870, for embezzling Government funds, was yesterday released on pardon from President GRANT.

Do not fail to register today. It is the last chance you will have. Encourage the advocates of the good cause by registering the vote of every honest citizen.

The Committee of Seventy earnestly entreat store-keepers, and all employers of labor, to close their places of business next Tuesday. By this means thousands of votes will be added to the good cause. Let every man have a chance to vote. This cannot be done unless the places of business are closed. Will not our tax-payers give up a few hours in order that their property may be saved from further spoliation? The Stock Exchange will close, and hundreds of firms have already joined the movement. Send in more names.

Are We to Lose Our Last Rights?

There are many rumors in circulation to the effect that the Police Commissioners will order everybody out of the polling booths next Tuesday except the "Ring" inspectors—that no "watchers" will be permitted to go near the booths, and that other measures will be adopted to falsify the vote, —by which means alone can a triumph for TWEED & Co. be secured.

These rumors gain strength by the issue from Superintendent KELSO'S office of a Police order, which contains the following clause:

"Inspectors of election are now, by law, canvassers of the votes cast at elections. You will, therefore, under all circumstances, protect them in the undisputed possession of the ballot-boxes, and repress all improper interference with them while canvassing the votes and completing the canvass. When that is done, to take charge of the ballot-boxes and keys, and return them to the Station-houses."

That is to say, HALL'S inspectors are to be allowed to do as they please, and if the Reform Party protest against any of their acts, the Police are to bundle them out, neck and crop. That is the way in which this order is to be obeyed.

The Police Commissioners cannot be too plainly warned that behind this trick stands revolution. The people will not have their rights taken from them without resistance. Frauds cannot be carried on at the polls without the connivance of the Police Commissioners. Their names are HENRY (or Hank) SMITH, J. S. BOSWORTH, B. F. MANIERRE, T. J. BARR, and A. OAKEY HALL, Mayor, ex officio. These are the men to whom we owe the outrageous intimidation of voters by the Police which was carried on yesterday, as will be seen from our local reports.

If the people will submit to be robbed, they will not submit to a flagrant violation of the fundamental principles of liberty, and this the treacherous shuffler, HALL, might have found out by his experience of last 12th of July. We warn HALL and the Police Commissioners that any violence they may exercise at the polls next Tuesday, or any frauds they may attempt to carry out, will be bitterly resented. If we cannot have a fair election—if the Police are to be used as instruments of oppression against the people—TWEED, HALL and SWEENY will bring down a storm upon their heads which will soon clear them out of our paths. The people will not stand much more of their swindling.

In That Way Alone.

In every State where an election has been held since the Tammany frauds were exposed, the people have made known by their votes their abhorrence of those frauds, and have defeated the Democratic ticket.

Is this State, in which the frauds were perpetrated, to be the only State in the Union unaffected by the monstrous scandal? Are we to have it said that the people of New-York do not mind being governed by thieves?

Remember that the frauds of TWEED, HALL, SWEENY, and CONNOLLY, are no longer mere newspaper talk. They are matters of official record. They have formed the basis of suits in the Courts, under the advice of Mr. CHARLES O'CONOR, the leader of the New-York Bar. They are denounced, in language quite as strong as we have used in the TIMES, by Mr. SAMUEL J. TILDEN, Chairman of the Democratic State Committee. The Committee of Citizens, appointed by Mayor Hall's desire, speak of them as appalling. The Committee of Seventy describe them as "a gigantic crime against property." Nobody defends them. The proof of them is before the world, and is admitted, even by the guilty persons themselves, to be unanswerable.

If all this evidence will not move the people of the State and City to overthrow every candidate of Tammany next Tuesday, what would do so? If Tammany cannot be dislodged now, it never can. You can never have stronger proof of the crimes committed by TWEED and his fellow-conspirators than you have before you now. There is positively not one good reason for keeping the robbers in power. Their continued ascendency will be regarded all over the world as a heavy blow at republican institutions, and a fatal and everlasting blot upon New-York State.

Will our friends in the interior be content to cast a light vote under these circumstances? Will our friends in the City suffer themselves to be misled by enemies of Gen. GRANT into fighting the Presidential issue at this election? Will they vote for men like GRIDLEY in the Eleventh Assembly District?

Close all your stores. Let every man do his best to secure victory. Make the Mayor and the Police Commissioners understand that if they allow any foul play next Tuesday at the polls, a heavy retribution will fall upon them. Vote for the "Seventy" ticket. In that way alone can you redeem the City and State from their present degrading position.

A Sample of Honest Work.

The reforms which Mr. ANDREW H. GREEN has quietly and effectively brought about during the short period since his appointment, afford eloquent testimony to the value of an honest man in office. In the single item of the abolition of sinecure offices, Mr. GREEN has already saved the tax-payers many thousands of yearly outlay. Mr. GREEN'S circular to the heads of Bureaus in his Department, of Oct. 10, is a document that deserves to be memorable in the history of local reform. In the very centre of a system based on the most reckless disregard of efficiency and the basest subserviency to political "influence," the Deputy Controller issued this remarkable order:

"You are hereby informed that every employe of this Department is to understand that his services are engaged for the legitimate, prompt and regular attention to the duties of the position to which he is appointed, and for no other purpose. His salary is supposed to be fixed as an adequate compensation for his services, and no person employed in this Department will be allowed to accept or receive any fee, reward or compensation whatever, except his salary, for any service connected with the Department, except where the fees are fixed and established by law; any infraction of this rule will be deemed sufficient cause for removal. No employe of this Department will be required by any person in authority in this Department to pay any portion of his salary as a political assessment, or for political purposes; that matter, as well as his political action, is left to the free choice of each individual. * * * Neither persons holding sinecures nor incompetent will be retained in the Department."

Imagine how huge a stride we should make in the path of reform were similar notices to be issued by the heads of all the City Departments. The immediate saving to the overburdened tax-payers would reach to an enormous sum every year, and the prospective saving would amount to a great deal more. Destroy the barefaced robbery of sinecure offices, and, what is as bad, the long list of superfluous offices, and we should not only save money which is worse than wasted, but we should establish a higher standard of efficiency and honesty in the City service, which would give us in time a far better return for the money actually expended. It seems like a dream to think of removing from the rank and file of our local Administration the stain of inefficiency, indolence, black-mailing and insolence, and yet the thing can be done. Vote the "Seventy" Ticket on Tuesday, and, with an honest majority in the Legislature, we shall soon have the City Government so transformed that Mr. ANDREW H. GREEN will not be the only honest man holding a prominent position within it.

The Next Legislature.

So much that is vital not only to the City but to the State, depends upon the character of the next Legislature, that we made an early appeal to our friends throughout the State in favor of the selection of able, upright and experienced candidates. In view of the magnitude of the interests involved, it was important that Republicans should present in the Senate districts at least candidates whose names would inspire the confidence and awaken the zeal of the electors. But our expectations in this respect have not in every instance been realized. The party, therefore, will lose the prestige which the nomination of its very best men would have given to the canvass.

We can, and do, however, most cheerfully indorse the nomination of Hon. WILLIAM H. ROBERTSON, of the Ninth District. This is a nomination eminently "fit to be made." Mr. ROBERTSON has established, by long and faithful service, a high Legislative, Congressional, and Judicial character. He has long and deservedly enjoyed the confidence of the electors of Westchester County. His competitor, Mr. CAULDWELL, is, in all respects, as we have already, and on more than one occasion, shown, unworthy of the position he seeks. The Tammany Ring owns him, and would use him for all their nefarious purposes. Mr. ROBERTSON runs against large odds; but he has done so on former occasions, and always triumphed. A large number of electors, doing business in the City, reside in Westchester County. It behooves them, if they want to strike a hard blow against the Ring Robbers, to exert all their influence in favor of the election of WILLIAM H. ROBERTSON to the Senate.

The nomination of A. W. PALMER for the Dutchess and Columbia District is a good one. He is a gentleman of acknowledged character and proverbial integrity. He has served acceptably in both Houses of the Legislature. His Democratic competitor, Col. NELSON, is a strong man, but we confidently anticipate Mr. PALMER'S election by a handsome majority.

The Republicans of the Albany District have in CHARLES H. ADAMS a candidate worthy of their united and best efforts. Mr. ADAMS has been an extensive and successful manufacturer. He has been quite active in politics, though never holding office. There is a political majority against him, but he is popular, and the Republicans will do their best to elect him.

The people of the Twelfth Senatorial District, comprising the Counties of Rensselaer and Washington, have an excellent candidate in the person of ISAAC V. BAKER, Jr., who is nominated by the Republican Party in opposition to WM. A. RUSSELL, the choice of the Tammany Ring. Mr. BAKER has served three terms in the Assembly, where he was known as an uncompromising opponent of all the corrupt jobs of the New-York Ring, and Tammany will spend its stolen money freely to prevent his election to the Senate. Let all friends of honest legislation unite in the support of Mr. BAKER.

No better candidate than JAMES H. GRAHAM, of Delaware, could have been presented to the electors of that Senate District. He has been a zealous, efficient, day and night Whig and Republican for more than thirty years. He is always right, always in the right place, and always "on time."

Mr. WOODIN, the nominee from the Cayuga and Wayne District, is a member of the present Legislature, enjoying, and, as we have every reason to believe, deserving, the confidence reposed in him.

Mr. CLEVELAND, the candidate from the Twenty-sixth District, is—unless amid the demoralizations of the last few years his character has undergone a change—every way worthy a seat in the Senate. He has been for many years the editor of a Whig and Republican journal at Penn Yan, which in times past was as faithful in maintaining the right as it was fearless in denouncing the wrong.

Of Mr. KELLY, the Republican nominee from the Munroe District, we know very little. But the legislative record of his Democratic opponent is so unequivocally bad, that every possible effort should be made to elect Mr. KELLY.

Of the merits of the split in the Niagara District, we are unacquainted. If, as is alleged, the opposition to the re-election of Senator BOWEN is stimulated by a man from Orleans County, who has subsisted for twelve or fifteen years upon the drippings of the State Committee, no heed should be given to it. While on the other hand, if that Senator has been unfaithful, he ought not to be re-elected.

The Courts to the Rescue.

Judge BARNARD has been asked to protect the City against the contemplated election frauds of OAKEY HALL'S inspectors. Every one will remember the famous injunction suit—the first blow in Court to the Ring—and that it was Mr. JOHN FOLEY who brought it. The same energetic citizen now makes complaint before Judge BARNARD, citing certain notorious facts to show that there is reason to believe in a conspiracy to defeat the will of the people by fraud at the election on Tuesday next. These facts are, first, the existence of a system by which the Tammany Ring, through its Ward representatives, names the inspectors, gives or withholds their appointment, according as they can be depended on to commit the frauds required by the Ring, and changes them at will; and, second, the bad record and repute of many of the inspectors so far named, among whom Mr. FOLEY avows there "are several who stand accused of crimes of murder, and of theft, some who cannot write, many well-known repeaters, and others who in past years, have been accused of fraudulently counting the ballots at the elections in the interest of the Tammany Hall candidates." These allegations are sustained by a number of affidavits, which will be found in another column. The complaint fixes the responsibility where it belongs, on the Mayor. That gentleman has the appointment this year of fully two-thirds of the inspectors. He has refused to counsel with the authorized representatives of the honest voters. He has named many notoriously bad men. He has uniformly placed the appointments directly in the hands of the Ring agents, and has changed them at the dictation of the latter, without legal excuse for so doing. He is, in short, the active leader in the conspiracy. Mr. FOLEY asks that the order of the Court be directed to him, requiring him to substitute honest and capable men for the designated rogues and incapables.

It is to be hoped that Judge BARNARD will find it in his power to provide a defense for the people against the great outrage that threatens them. The evidence adduced by the complainant in the present case is clear enough. If more were needed, it would be well for Mr. FOLEY to call the attention of the Court to the practice adopted by the inspectors of taking names for registry on loose paper. LAZARUS and PETTIT had the hardihood to plead to Judge BARNARD himself that they were not guilty of false registry, because this was not registry at all. Yet it is all the inspectors propose to give honest voters. Is not this ground for action?

Judge BARNARD has already held that in case of great financial wrong, of robbery of the people, if they had no remedy it was the business of a Court of Equity to step in and provide one. Mr. O'CONOR says of his own appeal for relief, to a Court of precisely the same general jurisdiction as Judge BARNARD'S, that it was made on the ground that "the State as parens patriæ has power to correct by action at law, or in equity, abuses of corporate and official authority." Surely there never was a grosser abuse of official authority than HALL'S appointment of inspectors, for the purpose of procuring a fraudulent result to the election. Judge BARNARD interposed with boldness to prevent further plunder. The people look to him now for equal firmness and courage in stopping a greater wrong than mere plunder can ever be.

Tilden on Hall.

We hope the members of the Grand Jury which adjourned last week without finding an indictment against Mayor HALL, have carefully perused the speech made by Mr. TILDEN at the Cooper Institute on Thursday evening. It, instead of going through the farce of summoning a score of citizens before them in the absurd expectation of finding some one who had actually seen HALL steal money from the City Treasury, they had exercised a little of Mr. TILDEN'S common sense and home-made logic, they would have found abundant evidence on which to frame an indictment against the Mayor. Mr. TILDEN finds no difficulty in proving HALL'S guilt out of his own mouth, and does not hesitate to pronounce him the "chief conspirator" in the plot by which the City was robbed out of five millions of dollars. He it was who, as Mr. TILDEN says, "prepared the legal methods and the legal plausibility for the crimes that have since been enacted." He it was who drafted the law by which TWEED, CONNOLLY and himself were to audit the accounts of INGERSOLL, GARVEY & Co., and then endeavored to shirk responsibility for the frauds that he knew were to be committed by offering a resolution at the first and only meeting of the Board of Audit, transferring the entire work of the Board to TWEED and his clerk. Here was criminal negligence of a plain duty imposed upon him by a law of his own creation, and a criminal betrayal of his trust as Mayor of the City, whose interests he was elected to guard, —enough, in itself, to subject him to indictment by a Grand Jury and trial before a jury of his constituents. But Mr. TILDEN evidently does not believe, and neither does any man of common sense, that HALL is innocent of personal participation in the proceeds of the robberies, which he took such pains to enable others to commit. The best proof of this, as we have before remarked, is the course pursued by him when the robberies were first detected and made public.

Does any sane man believe that HALL would have resorted to such miserable subterfuges as those set forth by Mr. TILDEN to screen the plunderers of the Treasury, if he had been innocent of all complicity in their crimes? HALL, according to his own showing, stands in the position of a servant who had concocted a scheme to rob his master; who had procured the appointment of professional thieves to aid him in guarding his employer's property; and who, after pointing out to his companions where the treasure was concealed and how to get at it, artfully withdrew from the scene, telling his pals to "go in and help themselves." And is such a man to be held guiltless because it cannot be shown that he filched the stolen money with his own fingers? How long would any member of HALL'S Grand Jury hesitate to find an indictment against a private servant under these circumstances? And what is HALL but a servant of the People?

The World and Mr. Andrew H. Green.

The impudence which the World is now displaying in reference to the exposures of its friends TWEED & Co., almost exceeds the mendacity it has exhibited on the same subject for a year past. People who read that paper know well how it "blackguarded" the TIMES, and the cowardly slanders it heaped upon all persons connected with it, for daring to accuse the Ring of dishonesty. The World over and over again declared that the present City Government was an honest one, that the TIMES was making false charges, that the "old Board of Supervisors" was responsible for all the frauds which had been committed. Only a few weeks ago it vindicated TWEED from the charge of having acquired his money dishonestly in the following language:

"Whatever else Messrs. TWEED and SWEENY have been charged with, nobody ever accused them of being fools. Why then should it be thought incredible that they have amassed fortunes by the same kind of legitimate speculations in which other shrewd men have made so much money?"

We could quote columns of such stuff, but surely the public cannot so soon have forgotten the infamous course pursued by the World throughout this fight. It even defended Oakey Hall's monstrous "Code Amendments," although the other day it condemned some candidate for having done the same thing. And now it speaks of "Republican attacks" on Mr. ANDREW H. GREEN, and claims credit to itself for having put Mr. GREEN where he is! Impudence is nothing unless it is well carried out, and the brass of the World has something almost sublime about it.

On the day when we announced with the warmest approval the appointment of Mr. ANDREW H. GREEN as Deputy Controller, and called upon the people to support him, the World denounced him as an accessory to Connolly's swindles. It went out of its way to abuse Mr. SAMUEL TILDEN as a "railway politician and lawyer." The proprietor and editor of the TIMES were attacked for having consulted with Mr. TILDEN—whereas, in fact, there had been no consultation on the subject —although we should have no reason to be ashamed if there had been. The World further accused Mr. GREEN of going into office only for the purpose of screening CONNOLLY. Listen to its own words:

"Why should he (Mr. GREEN) wish to screen Controller CONNOLLY from the consequences of a judicial condemnation? What is the explanation of his advising friend's [Mr. TILDEN] sudden friendship for Mr. CONNOLLY? At any time within the last year, and especially within the last week, ANDREW H. GREEN and RICHARD B. CONNOLLY would have been thought a queer pair of yoke-fellows, and the most unlikely of any two men to be found paddling the same leaky canoe. This verifies the trite proverb that politics makes strange bed-fellows.

The public interpretation put upon this may perhaps be that Mr. GREEN hates Mr. SWEENY because he has not got on comfortably with him in the Central Park Commission, and fancying that CONNOLLY has cause to dislike Mr. SWEENY too, he makes an alliance, offensive and defensive, with the man whom he has always professed to regard as the biggest knave in the Tammany pack! Is it worthy of Mr. GREEN'S past reputation to make an alliance with a judicially-branded man and become his subordinate and factotum, in order to spite Mr. SWEENY, because Mr. SWEENY has not recognized Mr. GREEN'S pretensions as a member of the Central Park Commission? What can Mr. GREEN expect to accomplish by this singular manœuvre? Will his induction into the office of Deputy Controller under CONNOLLY wipe out and cancel the frauds with which that officer stands charged? Will not GREEN, on the contrary, be regarded as an accomplice after the fact? Having always professed to regard CONNOLLY as a thief, how does he reconcile it to his honor and his conscience to become the ASSOCIATE, SCREEN, and chief FACTOTUM of the same man, when he has just been judicially branded as little better than a 'highway robber'? And does Mr. GREEN really suppose that his name has any such potency as to whitewash and acquit a man whom a Court, and an indorsing, unanimous community, have put in the pillory as the chief instigator and abettor of gigantic frauds? Why should ANDREW H. GREEN consent to screen RICHARD B. CONNOLLY in such a crisis as this, when CONNOLLY is sinking under the accumulated weight of a judicial condemnation and intense public odium? It is the most marvelous prostitution of a pure reputation that we ever heard of.

If CONNOLLY is guilty of the malfeasance with which he stands charged, the saving grace of Mr. GREEN'S sudden friendship cannot make him innocent. He cannot dissolve the injunction by changing one of his subordinates. And, what is more important, he cannot by any such shallow and ridiculous device shield himself from the coming impeachment. Mr. GREEN, seduced by bad advisers, has lent himself to a skulking intrigue to shield Connolly and prevent the appointment of a thoroughly upright man like Gen. MCCLELLAN or Mr. BELMONT to the Controllership. This preposterous fetch is not creditable either to Mr. GREEN or his ally advisers. If the intention of the Legislature is the true and admitted rule of interpretation, a Court ought to adjudge the appointment of Mr. Green invalid and void."

This is the paper which now has the impudence to take credit to itself for the good work done by Mr. TILDEN and Mr. GREEN. Small credit is due to the World, or to any Democratic newspaper, for the fact that Mr. ANDREW H. GREEN was not instantly hounded out of his office by HALL and SWEENY. The TIMES alone stood between him and his assailants—on the very Sunday when the above article appeared in the World, the TIMES placed the true facts of the case before the people, and earnestly called upon the public to sustain Mr. GREEN. It is a little too much to see the World coolly claiming credit for any share of Mr. GREEN'S work. It is like the Express bragging that the Democratic papers have exposed Tammany, while absolutely excluding from its own columns all the fraudulent warrants, and all the evidence on which the Ring thieves have been convicted before the bar of public opinion.

Is Freedom Only a Name?

The extent to which the Tammany Ring have succeeded in undermining the most cherished constitutional privileges of our citizens, is just beginning to be recognized by the public, and has awakened the greatest indignation and alarm.

It has always been supposed that trial by jury was one of the great bulwarks of our liberties. No right has been so zealously protected in the Constitutions of this State and of the United States. As for the right to an honest count of the ballots, that was considered too sacred to require any particular guarantee, as our fathers could not imagine any organized attempt would ever be made to interfere with it.

Mayor HALL has, however, demonstrated to us that until our present rulers are swept away from the positions they disgrace, the Grand Jury will remain a farce—a mere collection of servants of the Ring, who indict such men as the Ring desire to be indicted, and acquit those who are in league with it.

It has long been asserted by those best qualified to judge, that the same system which HALL found so successful in his own case before the Grand Jury had been applied to all other juries, and that no case in which the Ring or their satellites were concerned could be tried before a jury upon which they would not succeed in having at least one representative. And of course on anything but a Grand Jury one man is as good as a dozen. That this assertion was correct has been shown by several cases, and certainly the circumstances of the trial of IZZY LAZARUS, for false registration on Thursday last before Judge BARNARD, go far to convince an unprejudiced mind that politicians are right in asserting it to be a "put up job." To outsiders the proof seemed as clear as possible, and from the fact of the jury standing eleven to one, it is pretty plain that they so considered it. If the assertion publicly made be correct, that the dissenting juror was a Tammany office-holder, the conclusion is irresistible that he was placed there by the Ring.

The effect of the conviction and sentence of a repeater at the present time would be most disastrous upon Ring fortunes. It is nothing new for them to pack a jury. They have the power and the instruments, and although we are unwilling to prejudge the matter, it is difficult to resist the conclusion that this was done in the Lazarus case.

If there be any citizen in New-York who does not deeply feel the necessity of voting for the candidates nominated by the Committee of Seventy, let him reflect upon the condition in which he would be left if they were defeated, with LEDWITH, proven by the Bar Association to be "no lawyer," and by his own course to be venal, sitting for fourteen years as a Judge of the Supreme Court, and with the Ring packing not only the Grand but the Petit Juries whenever anything comes up which affects their interests. And then, let him add to this mockery of justice the spectacle of organized bands of repeaters stuffing the ballot-boxes with illegal votes, and counting out the honest suffrages of those opposed to them, emboldened by the immunity they obtain through such Judge and juries.

Gov. Seymour Against Tom Fields.

The tax-payers and Reform Democrats of the Nineteenth Assembly District evince good sense in giving the electors of that district the opportunity and privilege of voting for a man in every possible respect the opposite of TOM FIELDS. Widely as we have ever differed with Gov. SEYMOUR politically, we have always cheerfully recognized and acknowledged both the purity of his private character and the integrity of his official record. It is said that the three or four thousand men employed by the Park Commissioners will be arrayed in favor of FIELDS. Is this certain? Will Commissioners SWEENY and HILTON march their employes to the polls in a body against Gov. SEYMOUR? Will Mr. A. T. STEWART, who has great influence over HILTON, sanction this scandalous outrage?

There is one contingency which almost reconciles us to the idea of TOM FIELDS' re-election. It is that, in the event of a Reform majority in the Assembly, Mr. FIELDS' manipulations of the Tax Levy, by means of which he drew several hundred thousand dollars from the City Treasury, will be investigated.

MINOR TOPICS.

It is due to Mr. OSWALD OTTENDORFER to state the fact, of which we were not at the time aware, that he declared, when his name was published in connection with the Tweed Testimonial, that it was used without his consent, and would have been refused had its use been requested. Mr. JAMES O'BRIEN'S name was also signed for him and without his approval. As the Ring were in the business of using other people's names without their knowledge at that time, and for much more serious purposes, it is not singular that Messrs. OTTENDORFER and O'BRIEN should have been victimized.

Yesterday's registration brings up the total of names placed on the poll-books to 129,052. This is 13,614 less than the total registry of last year. An inspection of the numbers registered from the various Wards will show that the decrease is mainly owing to the absence of voters from the repeating strongholds of Tammany. The roughs of the lower and river-side Wards are, doubtless, acting under orders, in staying away from the registry. The obvious intention is to obstruct the polling-places on Tuesday with numbers of men who require to be sworn, and so weary and disgust honest voters by long delays. The trick will not succeed. Let every man who values liberty, public honor, and private decency, register today, so that he may be able to vote without question and without delay on Tuesday next.

All JOHN V. GRIDLEY'S propositions to JAMES O'BRIEN to trade for votes having been met with a point-blank refusal, the Gridley and Greeley faction will now probably try to strike a bargain with Tammany Hall. TWEED is aware that GRIDLEY will be quite as useful to him at Albany as PITTMAN can be, and will therefore direct that he be counted in, in consideration of his throwing what little influence he may have in favor of BRADLEY. This, or any other corrupt bargain, can be thwarted by the honest men of the Eleventh Assembly District concentrating their vote upon Col. HAWKINS.

Is a man like LEDWITH, a man without any legal training or knowledge, and, as he has already taken the trouble to prove, without honor or principle, to be elected Judge of the Supreme Court at the dictation of the Tammany Ring? Is it not more important than ever now that we should have honest Judges on the Bench? LEDWITH would be a dishonest Judge, and therefore a curse to the community. Be sure to vote for Judge G. C. BARRETT next Tuesday; whatever else you omit to do, don't fail to do that.

Mr. GREELEY thinks it to be a "matter of conscience" to support Mr. PULLMAN in the Seventh Senatorial District, and thereby improve JOHN J. BRADLEY'S chances of election. The thought of being in a minority may be very consoling to Mr. GREELEY, but it is the position of all others which nearly every other honest voter in this community has resolved to avoid. A minority which runs its candidate for no other valid reason than to help the election of one of the most unscrupulous and greedy nominees of the Ring, need hardly complain if public opinion sets upon it the brand of Tammany. Every vote for PULLMAN is a vote for BRADLEY, and through BRADLEY for his relative SWEENY, and the rest of the knavish crew, to the necessity of whose overthrow all other considerations must yield.

The cynical contempt which Tammany entertains for the opinion of reputable men, is very strikingly displayed in the renomination of the notorious "JIM" IRVING for the Sixteenth Assembly District. IRVING showed himself on the floor of the House last session to be the bully and the coward which men of his class generally are. Even from an Assembly which responded to the whip of TOM FIELDS, IRVING was promptly expelled for his disgraceful assault upon Mr. WEBB. Are the electors of the Sixteenth District prepared to allow this blackguard and rowdy to claim on Tuesday that he is their representative? They have the choice of NICHOLAS HAUGHTON, a Democrat of whom it is enough to say that he has received the indorsement of the Committee of Seventy, and in whose favor the Republican candidates have retired. He can and must be elected.

Boxes are to be provided for the reception of ballots for Assistant Aldermen. This is due to the express order of Judge BARNARD, and not to Mayor HALL'S hesitating assent, which might at any moment have been recalled. The certain repeal of the City charter will, of course, terminate early next year the tenure of office of the Board of Assistant Aldermen, whatever may be the character of its members. It is, however, none the less essential that Reformers should not allow this ticket to be polled for Tammany in default of opposition. Our strength must be felt all along the line, otherwise false and damaging conclusions may be drawn throughout the State in regard to the influence of the Ring. Vote, then, the Aldermanic ticket approved by the Committee of Seventy and containing the names of well-tried Reformers.

The Republican ratification meeting in Brooklyn, last night, was one of the most imposing party gatherings which that city has seen for years. Our friends on the other side of the East River never had a better chance than the present of obtaining a fair share of representation in their Municipal Government and of helping the cause of New-York Reform by sending a trustworthy delegation to the Legislature. To both these ends the facts and figures so powerfully dealt with by Mr. TRACY will greatly contribute. The speech of Attorney-General AKERMAN, dealt, unfortunately, with a class of subjects in which public interest in this part of the country is at present rather passive. The effect of his oratory was, therefore, of a somewhat unsatisfactory kind. In other respects the meeting was an unqualified success, and its results will doubtless be apparent at the polls on Tuesday next.

Our able correspondent, "Grace Greenwood," furnishes this morning the third of her articles on the Mormons. It will be found particularly fresh and candid, and will supply to the general reader an impression of some facts about the Mormons which are generally unknown or ignored.

Judge CARDOZO'S course in suddenly arresting the business of the Mercantile Insurance Company, has excited deep and just indignation. The Board of Underwriters yesterday denounced the shameful treatment of this highly-respectable Company in no measured terms. We suppose it is the proper thing for the Board to appoint a committee to confer with Superintendent MILLER about such a modification of the laws as will render such an outrage impossible in future. It may not be out of place to remind them, however, that so long as unscrupulous Judges are on the Bench, good laws are of very little account. We cannot imagine an upright man like GEO. C. BARRETT stretching the prerogatives of the Supreme Court to such an extent, any more than we can imagine the Tammany Ring, whose creatures CARDOZO and MILLER equally are, being hindered from a scheme of plunder by any kind of legislation whatever.

CHAS. A. FLAMMER, the candidate of the United Reform Party for Assemblyman in the Seventeenth District, is a young German of great personal popularity with his countrymen, and eminently worthy of the support of honest citizens of all parties. This has been a strong Democratic district hitherto, but the honest Germans are deserting the Tammany camp in a body, and they only ask to have their votes fairly counted on Tuesday next to elect Mr. FLAMMER by an overwhelming majority.

THE POLITICAL FIELD.

TAMMANY EXPOSED.

Their Conspiracy Discovered—Violence on Election Day—The Ballot-Boxes to be Stuffed—The Police in Collusion—Citizens as Detectives.

Coming events, in respect to the election day next week, cast ominous shadows before. If one half of the stories that have been circulated are true, there is every reason to believe that the Tammany Ring have organized one of the most desperate plots ever yet known to force the election. Statements of the most startling character have been made, and the sources from which they have been derived, forbid doubt as to their reliability. There is much that cannot at this time be made public, but enough to stimulate every friend of reform to renewed exertion. There will be a simultaneous attempt to stuff the ballot-boxes, intimidate honest voters, rush in repeaters, and generally tamper with the ballots. The Police force are to assist in this enterprise, and have already received instructions. The plot was specially designed for the Seventh Senatorial District, where JOHN J. BRADLEY's votes by a fair election will be greatly outnumbered by those of Mr. O'BRIEN. The vigilance of the agents of the Committee of Seventy is such as to render all former plans utterly hopeless, and realizing this, the friends of Mr. BRADLEY have arranged as follows: The Police detailed for duty at the polls are picked men suited to the task. They will not arrest any man voting the Tammany ticket, and will act at the beck and beck of the Tammany agents. A picked gang of ruffians will be posted around the doors, with instructed action to push and crowd the voters as they approach, and keep up a turbulent appearance all day. At a preconcerted signal a fierce fight will be commenced among themselves; clubs will be used, men thrown down, and shouts made. The Ponce will then rush in and clear the room, allowing no person, not even the challengers of either party, to remain, thus leaving the inspectors and the poll clerks alone. Outside in the street the mock fight will continue, pistols being fired, and imprecations, yells, cries of "Police!" and "Murder!" making a fearful din. It is calculated that this scene of excitement will rivet the attention of all the inspectors and poll clerks, except one, who will seize the opportunity unobserved to stuff in any desired number of ballots. But this plan will fail. There will be one man at each place, whose eyes will never be withdrawn from the ballot-box, and if the trick is attempted there will be evidence enough for subsequent action by the Committee of Seventy. The very men who have in former times served every such purpose, and who have now the fullest confidence of the Tammany Ring, will act as such services. There are other secrets, that the Reform Party are in full possession of, which will soon be developed. There are members of the Police force that could not be safely used for such work. These are to be detailed for out-of-the-way patrol duty. Those selected are said to be the special pets of the Ward roughs. Should this plan be carried into execution, it is not impossible that the contest may become real and assume a most serious aspect. In view of these revelations, the Reformers on the spot will be vigilant and ready to detect the guilty parties. Every officer and voter will be known, and their illegal actions, if any, will be legally scrutinized subsequently.

It is believed that at a number of the smaller places of registry there is already a great excess of names. The exact figures cannot at present be known, but the fraud cannot escape detection and punishment. One place is mentioned where the number of voters cannot exceed eighty, and nearly three hundred names are already registered. The Seventh Senatorial District has been closely watched, and reported irregularities noted for future action. It is stated that a certain person closely connected with Mr. BRADLEY has offered $500 to the Inspector of election in that district who counts the greatest number of your votes for Mr. BRADLEY. There are witnesses available to substantiate this statement, which will, if necessary, be presented before the next session of the Grand Jury. The writer was urged to impress upon the watchers at the polls the necessity of preparing for all the proposed confusion, and not relaxing their vigilance upon the ballot-box for a single instant.

Trustworthy statements have also been made that the Police force is being used now to intimidate certain men and force them to vote the Tammany ticket. A TIMES reporter has examined into the matter and finds ample proof of the fact. Their method is so cautious and their approach so indirect that in many cases the officer does not reveal himself openly in the matter. At least two of the Captains, however, have been mentioned in that connection, and if their conduct as alleged is true, it will not pass unnoticed hereafter.

THOMAS KERVE, No. 151 Cedar-street; WM. BEOPHY, No. 105 Washington-street; MAURICE STACK, No. 72 Greenwich-street; JOHN O'CONNOR, No. 44 Greenwich-street; DENNIS MCGRATH, No. 53 Greenwich-street, make affidavit that on the night before last, while walking in the First Ward in a procession in favor of JAMES HEALY for reform Member of Assembly, they were wantonly attacked by outside parties; and that such outrages were aided by the Police, under command of Capt. CHERRY, Twenty-seventh Precinct. They contradict the statement of Capt. CHERRY that there was any disturbance, until the rioters, with the Police, broke into the procession, and knocked down those composing it, and that after the Police retired there was no further trouble.

Mr. HEALY complains that the Police of the First and Twenty-seventh Precincts are in the habit of intimidating citizens to vote the Tammany ticket. Yesterday, in the First Ward, a gang of Tammany bummers visited all the polling places asking men how they intended to vote. If the answer was against Tammany they would jostle, punch and roughly use them. If the answer betrayed any vacillation, they would resort to drink, and use vile epithets and all sorts of persuasions.

In the Eighth Senatorial District there is apparently an organized system of intimidation. It has been alleged that Mr. GENET has personally warned certain men to vote for him under pain of his displeasure in case of refusal. Several persons doing business there have been notified that, unless they voted that ticket, they would suffer for it. Several liquor-dealers, grocers, and others, were indirectly given to understand by one in Police authority that they must vote for GENET or suffer. "For God's sake do not betray the source of your information," exclaimed one of these imploringly; "I cannot say that I had any direct notice, but the message was indirectly from HARRY GENET and the Captain of Police. One of the party who told me were a Police shield inside his coat. He was in citizen's dress; I don't know him. But I was given to understand that unless I voted as they said, the Captain of the Police would close up my place and make me sweat for it." Another said: "I had about as well give up my Excise license as to vote any other way. I am watched like a cat. I want to bust the Tammany Ring, but I don't dare to, it would ruin me."

At another place the reporter's conversation was overheard by several of a villainous-looking crew of loafers, who soon slunk out into the street. Half a block off he was accosted by one of them, who was grossly intoxicated and used the most profane and filthy epithets. "You ——, you're one of them —— lying TIMES reporters, are you? We've been laying for one of yous. A ball of a time you've been a making here with us fellers, eh?" He seized the reporter by the collar, and violently shaking him in a threatening manner, exclaimed, "I'll put a head on you now!" At this instant something induced his companions to draw him away, but as he went he continued to curse, saying: "We'll lay for you fellers. We'll put a head on yous yet! We'll see yous 'lection day!"

At two other places violent language was used. Throughout the District it is evident that paid agents of the Genet party are using money as well as threats to force votes.

In the Eighth District, the Bradley faction, last night, were actively using the same means, money, rum, and other inducements, being scattered in all directions.

Committee on Elections of the Committee of Seventy.

The Committee on Elections of the Committee of Seventy are taking measures to place their ticket in the hands of every citizen who will vote it. The ballots are to be distributed from the head-quarters of the Reform parties, sent to the houses of many whose addresses are at hand, kept at the head-quarters, No. 39 West Union-square, for those who wish to call for them, and distributed from polling-boxes on the day of election.

Yesterday, at the head-quarters of the Committee, a great number of gentlemen called for information, and so great was the rush that a clerk was kept busy during the day answering questions. Those who called were principally of the great army of reserve voters, and it was curious to observe how men of education and well informed upon everything else were lamentably ignorant upon matters pertaining to the exercise of their right to vote. These gentlemen, however, show a disposition to attend to their political duties in the future.

Advice to Voters.

Before leaving the polls, voters should see that their ballots are deposited in the proper boxes. Designing Inspectors, when opportunities offer, drop ballots on the floor or substitute others for them.

The Executive Committee of the Young Men's Municipal Reform Association have for gratuitous distribution, at their rooms, No. 39 West Union-square, a voter's manual, containing much valuable information for voters.

Sigel Mass-Meeting.

A mass-meeting of German-American and other citizens was held at the corner of Second-avenue and First-street last evening. Gen. SIGEL addressed the meeting. The people, he said, are now suffering from the effects of their own inactivity in the past. To free themselves from the disgrace which has come upon the City, they must use their political power effectively, all nationalities uniting for that purpose. He appealed to all, and especially to hard-working, honest and industrious men, whether they thought it was to their advantage that corrupt men should rule the City, or whether they should not wipe out the disgrace that bad men brought upon them. Other speakers addressed the meeting in German.

Meeting of Seventeenth District Republicans—Endorsement of Tiemann for Senator.

A large Republican meeting was held last evening at Harvard Rooms, corner of Sixth-avenue and Forty-second-street, Col. JOEL W. MASON in the chair. Many ladies were present. The following resolutions, offered by Mr. DAVID B. MELLISH, were adopted:

Resolved, 1. That the issue in the pending campaign is between honesty and publicity in the affairs of the City and State on the one hand, and corruption and secrecy on the other.

2. That we believe Hon. D. F. TIEMANN, Reform cantors and Representatives in Congress have been voted for upon the ballot indorsed "State." By the act of last Winter Senators and Representatives in Congress, in all the counties of the State, will hereafter be voted for upon separate ballots. In counties electing only one member of Assembly, the nominee has heretofore been voted for upon the ballot indorsed "State." By the act of 1871, members of Assembly in all the counties and Assembly districts will now be voted for upon a separate ballot. At the ensuing general election at least four ballots will be voted in all the counties, and inspectors of election are required to furnish a corresponding number of ballot-boxes. The ballot indorsed "State" will contain the nominees for State officers and the county officers to be chosen this Fall. Senators will be voted for upon the ballot indorsed "Senate." Members of Assembly will be voted for upon the ballot indorsed "Assembly." Justices of the Supreme Court, County Judges, Surrogates, and special County Judges or Surrogates, will be voted for upon a ballot indorsed "Judiciary." The ballots will be deposited in ballot-boxes correspondingly labeled, and canvassed in the order above named. In several counties or commissioner districts, where vacancies exist, School Commissioners will be elected upon an additional ballot, indorsed "School Commissioner." A special Election law remains in force as to New-York City. In the City of Brooklyn an election for city officers will be held on the day of the ensuing general election. In the City of Utica a Recorder will also be chosen, and in the City of Buffalo a Judge of the Superior Court. By an amendment of the charter of the City of Buffalo, passed in 1871, the time for holding the city election was changed from November until the first Tuesday in March.

The Liberty of the Citizen as Understood by Capt. Cherry's Police.

From the Daily News, Nov. 3.

The following interesting colloquy took place in the First Ward, between Officer O'CALLAHAN, of the Twenty-seventh Precinct, and Mr. JEREMIAH KENNEFICK, a few days since:

OFFICER—Good morning, JERRY. What's the news?

JERRY—I have nothing new.

OFFICER—What's the news in politics?

JERRY—I don't know much about it; but I think HEALY will be elected.

OFFICER—Indade he won't. If you knew as much about it as I do, you wouldn't think so either.

JERRY—Why? What more do you know about it than anybody else?

OFFICER—I know this much about it: Capt. CHERRY is for MULLER, and the Police will club the head of any body that's against him.

JERRY—I think not. You wouldn't club me, would you?

OFFICER—I would, if I was tould; and I would club the head of CHARLES O'CONOR, if I was tould.

JERRY—O'CALLAHAN, you ought to be ashamed of yourself. Have you no regard for your oath?

OFFICER—What the devil's the use of your talking that way to me, Jerry? I tell you the Police are for MULLER, and they are bound to elect him at all hazards.

JERRY—O'CALLAGHAN, you and your associates had better give up the idea of clubbing and threatening people, or some of you might find yourselves in State Prison. One thing you may be sure of, if the law don't protect the citizens, they will protect themselves.

OFFICER—Niver mind that kind of stuff. The Police will do as they are tould.

JERRY—Who tells them to do wrong?

OFFICER—Niver mind that, JERRY. How smart you are. I tell you what it is, JERRY, it is no trouble to us to go down to the dock and kick up a little muss with any of the longshoremen or laborers that's against us; take them in and make a charge of disorderly conduct or intoxication against them, and git them five or tin days. Who the divil will be the wiser for it.

JERRY—O'CALLAHAN, I think the last job of that kind you had should be warning enough for you. You are the worst man I ever talked to. Good day, O'CALLAHAN.

This ended the interview.

The Colored Voters of the Fifth District Denouncing Those of Their Race who Are in Favor of Norton.

The spacious hall, No. 242 Spring-street, was crowded last night by the colored voters of the Fifth Senatorial District, as it was known business of importance was to be transacted. GEORGE W. MYERS was in the chair, and addressed the meeting. He said those Arnolds of the colored people who are now holding a public meeting in favor of the "Thunderbolt" are not recognized among the colored voters of this district.

Mr. PAIGE, the Reform candidate for the Assembly, was introduced, and delivered an eloquent speech, denouncing Tammany, and MICHAEL NORTON in particular. A letter was read from GEORGE T. DOWNING, the celebrated colored caterer, the contents of which were the surprise of the popular colored gentleman on hearing that some of his race were in favor of Hon. MICHAEL NORTON, and hoped they would not cast such a reproach on the colored people as to vote for a nominee of Tammany. The following resolutions were adopted unanimously:

Whereas, Certain unprincipled colored men have called a meeting to-night to ratify the nomination of MICHAEL NORTON as Senator for the Fifth Senatorial District, and have claimed thereby to represent the voters of this district; and,

Whereas, It is known that these men, the majority of them, are not legal voters of this district, consequently cannot be representatives of this district; be it

Resolved, That we indorse the nomination of ERASTUS C. BENEDICT for Senator in the Fifth District, he being the only Republican nominee and real opponent of Tammany Hall in the field.

Resolved, That this Association is the only representative of the colored voters in this district, and we do not indorse the nomination of Hon. MICHAEL NORTON for Senator.

Three cheers were given with a will for ERASTUS C. BENEDICT.

The meeting then dispersed.

How Horace Greeley Aids the Reform Movement.

A mass-meeting of the irregular Republicans of the Seventh Senatorial District, who favor the election of CHRISTOPHER PULLMAN as Senator from that District, was held last evening at the irregular Republican head-quarters. JOHN A. FOSTER was called to the chair and made an address.

Hon. HORACE GREELEY then came forward. He said that Mr. PULLMAN had always been the champion of the rights of the good citizens against the Ring. He (Mr. GREELEY) was in favor of having Republicans vote for any man they chose to, without being abused. Nine-tenths of the Republicans in Mr. PULLMAN'S district were not in favor of O'BRIEN in preference to PULLMAN, but defended voting for the former on the ground of expediency. It was folly to help Democratic politicians make capital by giving them Republican votes, so that they could make good bargains afterward with Tammany Hall, as LEDWITH, Judge CONNOLLY and others had done. Republicans ought not to be denounced as being "Tammanyized" because they chose to vote for an honest Republican instead of for a bogus Reformer. It was not a misfortune to be in a minority when men acted from honest convictions. Men who thought it expedient to vote for O'BRIEN might do so, but he (Mr. GREELEY) believed that no honest man should sacrifice his conscience to expediency, and he, for one, would not take the present crisis. [Great applause.]

Gen. FUNK informed the meeting that Mr. PULLMAN would receive the united German vote in the Seventh Senatorial District.

After other speeches by SINCLAIR TOUSEY, Mr. PULLMAN and others, the meeting adjourned. About 300 persons were present.

The Meeting in the Fifth District in Favor of Norton a Complete Failure.

Large posters were circulated among the colored voters of the Fifth District, advertising a public meeting to take place last night, near the corner of Varick and Grand streets, by the colored voters of the Fifth District in favor of MICHAEL NORTON for Senator. At 7½ fire-works were set off and a brass band enlivened the scene by playing stirring airs. At 8 a meeting was called to order in the large hall upstairs. WM. HUNTER presided, and addressed the meeting in glowing terms of MICHAEL NORTON. A distinguished orator had the pleasure of delivering his speech before fifty white men and six colored citizens. The meeting was a complete failure. The President called for three cheers for NORTON, but none were given. The meeting then adjourned.

A Full Vote Will Secure a Pure and Honest Government.

From the Albany Evening Journal.

With such commanding objects appealing to you as citizens, with such rare incentives stimulating you as Republicans, the trumpet-call of duty should send every one to his post. Men have taken up arms to rid themselves of a Government less corrupt, debased and oppressive than that which now weighs down New-York State and City. To overthrow this requires only the peaceful but potent weapon of the ballot. Unless all public spirit has languished, this appeal cannot be in vain. Your adversaries are despondent and broken. A general movement of the whole column along the whole line will carry the day. Last year 50,000 Republicans staid at home. Three-fourths of them at the polls would have won the victory. We conjure you not to repeat that fatal mistake at this critical time. Will you not give a full vote for the cause of pure and honest government, when a full vote will certainly insure a brilliant triumph?

Large and Enthusiastic Meeting in the Sixteenth Ward—Erastus C. Benedict's Nomination as Senator Ratified.

A very large gathering of the citizens, irrespective of party, of the Thirteenth Assembly District, was held last evening at the corner of Eighteenth-street and Eighth-avenue, to ratify the nominations of the Republicans and the Committee of Seventy. CHARLES BLACKIE, Esq., presided, and a number of prominent gentlemen of the district were elected Vice-Presidents and Secretaries.

The following resolutions were read, and adopted unanimously:

Whereas, The terrible state of affairs of this City and State are the certain results of bad government, and in view of the necessities of the hour, the people, irrespective of party, have determined to unite to save the country from irretrievable ruin; and,

Whereas, We have still an abiding faith in the wisdom, patriotism, and intelligence of the citizens of our State, that they will labor zealously for such candidates as are opposed to Tammany Hall, to the end that we may have an honest Government and place our Empire State again where she rightfully belongs, at the head of a great and glorious nation; and,

Whereas, We, as Republicans of the Thirteenth Assembly District, deeply deplore the evils of bad government; our City is now in the hands of corrupt and ignorant officials, whose daring robberies, the magnitude and boldness of which, are unparalleled in the history of crime; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we cordially approve and unite in the adoption of the platform and resolutions passed by the Union State Convention held at Syracuse on the 27th of September, 1871.

Resolved, That we recognize in our candidates for State officials, Scribner, Hopkins, Raines, Barlow, Kirkpatrick, and Barkley, men of wisdom, ability, and integrity; gentlemen whose names are well known throughout the length and breadth of our State, and whose characters no man can question, each and all eminently qualified to discharge the duties which they are soon, by the verdict of the people, to be called upon to perform. We hereby pledge ourselves, and shall use upon all honest men to unite with us in our efforts to secure their triumphant election.

Resolved, That we hail with admiration and pride the united nominations of all contending organizations opposed to Tammany Hall. The names of FRANCIS SIGEL, the Reform Democratic candidate for the Supreme Court; CHARLES P. DALY, for the Common Pleas; JOHN SEDGWICK and WILLIAM E. CURTIS, for the Superior Court; and ALEXANDER SPAULDING, for Marine Court.

Resolved, In the name of ERASTUS C. BENEDICT, nominated for State Senator for the Fifth Senatorial District, we recognize no "Thunderbolt," but a gentleman of high culture, true worth, and personal merit, whose moral standing in our community should be looked upon with pride, and all should cordially unite in rendering him their earnest and hearty support to the end that the Ring candidate, MICHAEL NORTON, may be defeated.

Resolved, That the nomination of GEO. H. MACKAY for member of Assembly meets the hearty approval of the Republicans of the Thirteenth District, a gentleman who has for many years been a resident of the Sixteenth Ward, and well known for his integrity, honesty and ability, and points with pride to his past official record.

Resolved, That the name of WM. WADE, for Assistant Alderman, also receive our cordial approval, and that we give him our unanimous support, as well as the reform nomination for Alderman.

Resolved, That we hereby pledge ourselves to use all honorable means in our power to further the election of the above nominations, and with the aid of honest men redeem this City from its state of thraldom.

Hon. ISAAC V. DAYTON then addressed the meeting and reviewed tersely the attitude of both political parties on the questions of the hour, declaring that by reason of the base surrender of civil and religious liberty, of every class of citizens, by Tammany, to obtain votes, and its continued robberies, made Democracy in this City unworthy of the respect of any citizen, no matter what his religion, nationality, race or color. Mr. DAYTON then exposed the trickery resorted to by NORTON to get the votes of the unwary, and promised a large majority for Mr. BENEDICT if the friends of reform were true to themselves. [Applause.]

L. S. STREETER followed in a short but spirited address, and Col. EDWARD DE FOREST ably discussed the issues of the hour, and retired amid applause. The mere mention of the names of BENEDICT, MACKAY and WADE evoked continued applause. The friends of reform are making a strong fight against NORTON in this district, and will give a large majority for their nominees for Senator, Assembly and Assistant Alderman.

Tammany Men Repudiating Ledwith.

The Dry Dock Tammany Association, which numbers over 300 members, held a mass-meeting last evening, at the corner of Avenue C and Ninth-street. The President, Mr. PETER MCGILL, presided. Speeches were made by JAS. J. CONNOLLY, Mr. WOLTMAN, MURPHY and others, the tenor of which was in favor of GEO. C. BARRETT, instead of LEDWITH, as the man best fitted for the position of Justice of the Supreme Court. Considerable animation and excitement was caused by the introduction of a resolution denouncing LEDWITH as a candidate for Justice of the Supreme Court, and recommending all honest Democratic voters to support GEORGE C. BARRETT for that position. A speaker opposed the resolution, giving as his reason, that as the association was a Tammany association, it should indorse all the nominees of that party. Mr. CONNOLLY, in answer to the gentleman, said that it was understood that LEDWITH was nominated by Tammany as a political dodge, and would probably be dropped from the ballots on election day, that he was always opposed to Tammany Hall, being one of its bitterest enemies, and he had not accepted the nomination, but had treated Tammany shabbily in holding the nomination in abeyance. He concluded by advising the members to adopt the resolution, and not to support men who were incapable for such a prominent position. His remarks were received with cheers, and the resolution was adopted almost unanimously.

The Election Laws.

The Legislature at its last session passed an act, chapter 712, Laws of 1871, making important changes in the statutes relating to the election of Senators and members of Assembly and Representatives in Congress. Heretofore (except in New-York City and Brooklyn) Senadidate for State Senator, will not steal, and we do not hold the same belief in regard to Hon. H. W. GENET Tammany candidate.

3. That it is the duty of every Republican to do his utmost to defeat GENET. No honest voter can evade the responsibility if he abstain from voting, or if he vote for any other than the Reform candidate, he alike helps GENET.

4. That the nomination of D. F. TIEMANN as an opponent of the thieves who hold the City in their grasp was eminently fit to be made and shall receive our support.

5. That we indorse and refer with pride to our State and local ticket, and we will do our utmost to elect honest and capable men to represent the Seventeenth District—CHAS. A. FLAMMER in the Assembly, and STEPHEN N. SIMONSON in the Board of Assistant Aldermen.

Addresses were made by DOUGLAS CAMPBELL, Esq., Hon. WM. A. DARLING, Rev. L. H. KING, D. D., and Col. RUSH C. HAWKINS. The personation of the Ring by the Union Glee Club was received with great favor.

German Reform Meetings Last Night.

Enthusiastic responses were made by the Germans to the call for meetings that were held in different parts of the City, last evening, to ratify the nomination of Gen. SIGEL for the office of Register, and the Reform ticket, as approved by the German Joint Committee, and by the Citizens Committee of Seventy.

Large and enthusiastic meetings were held at the Harmonie Rooms, in Essex-street; at Gross Garden, in William-street; at the National Hall, in West Forty-fourth-street; at Glass Hall, in Thirty-fourth-street, and other places, are resolutions were unanimously passed pledging their support to the ticket adopted by the German Joint Committee and the Committee of Seventy.

Advice from the Committee of Seventy.

The Council of Political Reform calls upon all Ward organizations to read the entire ticket of the Committee of Seventy at the opening of every meeting prior to the 7th inst. It further requests that all members of the organizations and friends of reform procure their tickets solely from the boxes provided by the Committee of Seventy, to make it a personal duty to scrutinize every name, and not to lose sight of the ticket until it is lodged in the ballot-box; also, to caution every voter to do the same.

The Fifteenth Assembly District Republicans.

The Fifteenth Assembly District Republican Association met last night, at No. 246 West Thirty-third-street, and received the report of the Conference Committee enthusiastically. It was in substance that all the Reform, Independent, German and other organizations had resolved to support Mr. F. KILIAN for Assembly, WILLIAM P. SIMPSON for Assistant Alderman, and the county ticket of the Committee of Seventy. Addresses were delivered by Capt. FARLEIGH, Mr. LAPAUGH, Mr. F. KILIAN, Dr. WILDER, candidate for Alderman in that Ward, and WILLIAM ROSS.

Twenty-First Ward Young Men's Municipal Reform Association.

At a meeting of the Young Men's Municipal Reform Association of the Twenty-first Ward, held last night, the Managing Committee, among other things, reported as follows: "That in their opinion, in view of the action taken by the Committee of Seventy in indorsing a reform ticket for the purpose of securing united action against corruption, and the necessity shown for this union in the presence of different candidates in our own ward, all nominally opposed to Tammany Hall; it is expedient for this Association to heartily recommend the ticket for municipal reform, indorsed by the Committee of Seventy, and do all in its power, through the agency of its sub committees, to secure the success of all the candidates thereon. The report was received with much enthusiasm, and after some discussion the report was adopted.

The Managing Committees request all members who are to take part in the work of Election Day, to attend at the Association Rooms on Monday evening, Nov. 6, at 8 o'clock P. M.

Ledwith's Little Game—How Reformers are to be Cheated.

Counterfeit tickets are being secretly issued, bearing the names of all the candidates indorsed by the Republican and Reform Democratic Parties and the Committee of Seventy, except the name of Judge BARRETT for Supreme Court. Justice LEDWITH'S name is substituted for that of Judge BARRETT. Copies of these ballots are now in the TIMES office. This dodge may be taken as an evidence that LEDWITH does not regard his Tammany nomination as a guarantee of success.

Jeremiah O'Donovan Rossa—Caution to Voters.

Information having reached us that in the interests of Mr. TWEED, tickets are gotten up with the name of O'DONOVAN ROSSA alone upon them, we deem it right to inform the citizens that the votes thus given for O'DONOVAN ROSSA are not to be counted in his favor. The regular tickets bears the name in full of JEREMIAH O'DONOVAN ROSSA.

Meeting to Indorse the Nomination of James O'Brien.

A large and enthusiastic meeting, to indorse the nomination of JAMES O'BRIEN for Senator, was held at Glass Hall last evening. Addresses were made by Mr. WM. A. BOYD and others, in which the merits of Mr. O'BRIEN, his charity to the poor, his courtesy and kindness to all, his resistance alike to the threats and blandishments of Tammany for years past, were dwelt on with force and eloquence. Of BRADLEY they knew nothing, and he was merely run as the tool of the Ring. The remarks of the speakers were repeatedly interrupted by applause, and the meeting adjourned with cheers for O'BRIEN.

Tammany's Police.

At a Bradley meeting, held at the corner of Second-avenue and Twenty-second-street, last evening, several women became too demonstrative in their cheers for O'BRIEN, the Reform candidate for Senator, to suit the Tammany men, and were consequently carried off to the Station-house by order of Acting Capt. SPOONEY.

A SINGULAR PROCEEDING.

Case of the Mercantile Fire Insurance Company—Interesting Statement—Meeting of the Board of Fire Underwriters—Judge Cardozo Severely Denounced.

On Tuesday last, WM. H. L. OWENS appeared through his counsel, before Judge CARDOZO, and swore that he was the owner of ten shares of the Mercantile Fire Insurance Company, of this City; that their capital stock was impaired by losses in Chicago to the extent of twenty-five per cent., the statutory limit, and that the Company was consequently insolvent. An injunction was granted, Mr. ADAM C. ROGERS was appointed temporary receiver, and yesterday was named as the day for the Company to show cause why the injunction should not be made perpetual and a permanent receiver be appointed.

The President of another company, and an entirely disinterested party, yesterday made the following statement in regard to the Mercantile Fire Insurance Company: The Company was organized in 1852, and since that time to the 31st ultimo, have been uninterruptedly in business, paying all its losses, and paying average annual cash dividends of ten per cent. to its stockholders. At the time of the Chicago fire, the Company was in possession of its capital, $200,000, and a handsome surplus, more than three-quarters of which could be turned into cash within an hour without the loss of a single dollar. On the 31st of October, when the injunction was served, the cash assets were $92,335 75. At the same time the estimated losses of the Company, exclusive of those of Chicago, were $5,000. Other indebtedness was $1,250 for rent, and $244 45 returned premiums and canceled policies. The entire losses from Chicago policies was $115,500. That sum will be considerably reduced from the fact that the property was not all consumed. The Company having discontinued its agency in Chicago in March last, they were enabled to make up an account of the full amount they had at risk in the whole of said city, so that before definite information was received of the extent of the fire, they knew that on every dollar of the Company's amount of risk in force should prove a total loss, they could pay the face of every policy, and have a good part of their capital left. For the immediate relief of the Chicago sufferers they resolved to pay all their Chicago losses, on receiving satisfactory proof, without waiting the expiration of the usual sixty days as allowed by the terms of their policies. About ten days after the fire, in estimating the extent of the Company's losses in the most unfavorable light, it appeared to the officers and directors that after making full allowance for all its losses, and an ample provision for reinsuring outstanding risks, and for all other liabilities, the capital of the company would be somewhat impaired, and deeming to fully protect all its policy-holders, and retain the full and entire confidence of the public in the future, as in the past, they resolved that legal and necessary measures be at once taken to fully fill up and make good whatever capital of the Company was lost by the Chicago fire. In accordance with this resolution, the Company immediately applied to the State Superintendent of the Insurance Department for an examination of its affairs, and for a requisition for the amount of impairment. The Company not being able at this time to make an exact estimate of the amount of its loss, the Superintendent, after ascertaining that the condition of the Company was such as to warrant its continuance in business, directed it to call upon its stockholders each to severally ascertain their entire liability and to make a statement to the Department on the 1st of November. These directions were being complied with by the officers, but on the 31st of October, before 3 o'clock, the Company was served with an injunction, restraining it from transacting business, and notified of the appointment of a receiver. Said injunction was granted and received approved by Judge CARDOZO, on application to one Wm. H. OWENS. Mr. OWENS became a stockholder about 12 o'clock the very day the receiver was appointed and injunction served. Friday, Nov. 3, was named in the order for the Company to show cause why the order should not be made final. By this summary proceeding, the business of the Company was stopped, and the payment of drafts on the Company in favor of the Chicago sufferers was forced to protest on the very day when the Company was found to be in solvent condition by a careful examination made by the Insurance Department, viz.: Nov. 1, 1871, and at a time when a majority of the stockholders were ready to pay in an assessment to make good the capital of the Company after allowing for all liabilities—nearly three-quarters of the stockholders having, in advance of an examination and requisition, signed an agreement to that effect.

The Company appeared before Judge CARDOZO yesterday, through their counsel, Mr. NASH. Judge CARDOZO, after hearing the case, ordered the injunction to be vacated and the receiver discharged.

Mr. GRATZ NATHAN, a relative of Judge CARDOZO, was the counsel for this man OWEN, whom nobody seems to know; in fact, NATHAN himself solemnly avers that he never saw the man before. The stock was transferred, the injunction granted, the receiver appointed, and the papers served, all between 12 o'clock noon and 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The injunction was granted on the affidavit of a single individual to the effect that the stock of the Company had been purchased twenty-five per cent., no value vacated upon the affidavit of the State Superintendent of Insurance that it was impaired thirty per cent., but the Company was still able to go on.

A largely-attended meeting of the New-York Board of Fire Underwriters was held, yesterday afternoon, to protest against the action of Judge CARDOZO in granting the injunction against the Mercantile Fire Insurance Company, and appointing a receiver. Much indignation was manifested by the meeting, and the action of Judge CARDOZO was denounced by the speakers in strong language. A statement of the affairs of the Company was made, which is given substantially above.

A resolution was then adopted instructing the Committee on Laws and Legislation to inquire into the present condition of the laws under which it is possible to appoint a receiver for any Company without first giving the Company a hearing, and to confer with the Superintendent of the Insurance Department, with a view of so modifying the laws as to render such proceedings impossible hereafter.

The following resolutions were also adopted unanimously:

Resolved, That in the judgment of this Board, the action of the Judge who granted the injunction against the Mercantile Fire Insurance Company, and the appointment of a receiver of its effects, were, under the circumstances, an outrage upon the rights of its at Company.

Resolved, That all members of this Board will urge upon the policy-holders of the Mercantile Insurance Company, as they may have opportunity, to sustain the same, fully believing them to be perfectly safe.

ALBERT H. NICOLAY is supposed to have sold the stock of the Company at auction. Steps are now being taken to discover the whereabout of Mr. OWENS with the intention of instituting legal proceedings against him. So far he has not been found. In answer to a number of telegrams from all parts of the country, the following message was yesterday sent by an officer of the Board of Underwriters:

"The Mercantile Fire Insurance Company is sound. Hold your policies. * * Judge who is either corrupt or idiotic has enjoined them. The injunction will be dissolved."

The Burial of a Russian Officer—Interesting Exercises at the Brooklyn Navy-Yard.

The funeral of Lieut. DESSATOFF, of the Russian Navy, who was left here sick from the Imperial corvette Vsadnuz, took place from the Navy Hospital, at Brooklyn, at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The Russian Minister, his Secretary, Mr. SCHEERKOFF, the Russian General GORLOFF, M. BODISCO, the Russian Consul-General, all in full uniform, were present. Col. BROOM commanded the firing party, consisting of 150 marines; Capt. STILLMAN, Dr. KIDDER, Dr. WELLS and several other officers of the United States Navy were also present. The remains were conducted to the Navy-yard Chapel by the sailors, and from thence, after the prayers of the Russian Church were said by Rev. Father BJERRING, the bier was borne by the Russian Minister, Consul-General BODISCO and several officers of the navy to the cemetery, where short prayers were said in the English and Russian languages. Father BJERRING previously delivered a touching address in the English language, which closed as follows:

"He was a brave man, ever true in his calling, he was loved of all who knew him. In a far country and far from home we now commit him to the dust. Russia was ever in his thoughts; to see his loved ones there was his bright hope. But God had otherwise ordained it. I fulfill but a duty in signifying by words my sincere thanks for the kind care which he received at the N. Y. Hospital, although, alas! even the most scientific treatment of excellent physicians could not prolong his life. Go, then, in peace, our departed friend. Thou hast fought the good fight; thou hast kept the orthodox faith even in a foreign land. May God, the merciful Judge reward thee with the crown of everlasting life. Amen."

After the ceremonies the Russian Minister advanced, and in an eloquent address, in the name of the Emperor of Russia, thanked the officers and physicians of the United States Navy for the kindly treatment the deceased had received at their hands.

Mormon Emigrants.

Yesterday afternoon six car-loads of Mormon converts left Jersey City for Utah, over the New Jersey Railroad. Most of them were from Wales, Denmark and the Northern European States, and have been collecting in New-York for some time past. They numbered 260 and were accompanied by the missionaries under whose labors they have been converted and by a Mormon elder sent on from Utah as an especial guide to the party. These disciples did not bear a very intellectual appearance, but seemed thrifty and well-to-do in the world.

Glorious Weather—The Park Crowded with Equipages—The Thoroughfares Thronged.

"A most uninteresting girl; she can talk of nothing but the weather," remarked a friend one day to Mr. JESSE, the author of those quaint histories of the associations of London as it is and as it was a century or two ago. "Sir," replied Mr. JESSE, "you don't know the enjoyments of existence. To me a fine day is a glorious event. It must therefore be worth talking about." Mr. JESSE was right. The glorious weather of the last two or three days has thrown a glow over our whole society. Broadway has been thronged with promenaders, all evidently exhilarated by the crisp, pure atmosphere and the bright blue sky. The drives in the Park have been crowded with elegant equipages; the sidewalks of Fifth-avenue have been almost impassable at certain hours of the afternoon, and one and all of the groups may be heard, in passing, descanting on the splendid weather in terms and tones which show that their physical nature feels the invigorating influence of a fine day. The City parks are full of little children playing and romping in the sunshine; even the sparrows have seized the opportunity of taking just one more Autumn bath in the basins of the fountains, tempted by the prospect of drying and pluming themselves by the sun in the neighboring trees. Such weather as we are now enjoying carries us on toward Winter with an ease which makes us the more ready to enjoy a blazing fire when the cold snap comes, because we feel grateful for the past favors of the clerk of the weather. The idle tears, which TENNYSON tells us rise unbidden at the sight of the Autumn fields, are quickly dried under the warm influence of the Indian Summer sun; and though we don some furs and overcoats, it is more because we think we ought to do so than because we need them. Such weather is, too, not without its effect on the incomings of the shop-keepers. When thousands, with well-filled purses, are loitering along the streets and gazing into the windows, and are in good spirits, enjoying their stroll and the day, some of their riches are certain to find its way into the tills of enterprising caterers to their comfort or their vanity. To this may be added the expected arrival of the Grand Duke ALEXIS; a combination of potent causes which has given a decided impetus to retail trade. All hail, then, to the glorious November sun! May he not desert us till December comes.

Fire at Union Hill.

BANKOWSKIE'S ropewalk, at Union Hill, was yesterday entirely destroyed by fire. The fire started in the room used for the storage of hemp, and rapidly spread through the long frame building, which was soon entirely burned. The fire is believed to have been the work of an incendiary. The loss is $3,000, upon which there is no insurance.

UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT.

No. 181. McCollum et al. vs. Howard et al. and Howard et al. vs. McCollum et al.—Cross appeals from the Circuit Court of Iowa.—The case out of which these appeals spring has already been twice before this Court. The property and franchises of the Mississippi and Missouri Railroad Company had been sold under a decree in equity, pursuant to an agreement between a part of the bond creditors and the shareholders by which the latter were to have sixteen per cent. of the par value of their stocks paid to them out of the proceeds of the foreclosure sale; and the question was whether the shareholders or Howard and others, who brought the suit, as judgment, and general creditors of the Railroad Company had a better right to that per centum of the proceeds of the sale. The Court here decided that the creditors were to be paid before any part of its property should be returned to the shareholders, and affirmed the decree below to that effect. Subsequently McCollum, Foster and others filed a petition in the suit in the Court below, showing that they were holders of bonds of the road, and denying that they had ever agreed to take less than the full amount of their face, and claiming that they had a prior and better right to have the bonds paid out of the funds in the hands of the receiver, the subject of the controversy, than either the judgment or general creditors, or the stock-holders. The questions presented, therefore, were whether this claim was entitled to payment, and if so, whether the creditors representing it should be paid in full as lien-holding creditors or only pro rata with the general creditors. The Court below held that these creditors were entitled to no lien as preferred creditors, and to no specific prior lien on the funds in Court, but allowed them to come in as general creditors and divide the fund pro rata with Howard and others. Both parties appealed, and the same questions are presented here.

MARINE COURT—CHAMBERS.

Before Judge Joachimsen.

CAUSES REMOVED TO MARINE COURT—JURISDICTION AS TO ALLOWANCES.

POINTS OF DECISION.

Hugo Rauppins vs. Bernhard Ullman et al.—Every Justice of this Court sitting in the rooms allotted to it by the Common Council is bound by law to act in his official capacity, and the designation of "at Chambers in the City Hall," &c., in the description of the Court-room is a sufficient description of the legal locality where his power is exercised, where no complaint is made or fact shown establishing that the adverse party has been misled or prejudiced thereby.

2. It is the well-established practice of this Court since 1853 for any one of the Justices to grant ex parte orders, to show cause why a default taken before another Justice should not be set aside, and staying proceedings until the hearing and determination of the motion; and on the hearing of such motion, to determine whether a default has occurred, and whether and upon what terms it should be opened. This practice is not "irregular" default, and where the order refuses to open a judgment, such order is appealable under Marine Court act of 1871. The making of any lawful order is not the act of the individual Justice, but is the act of the "Marine Court," the acting Justice representing by his flat exhausting the judicial power of the Court, and said order can be reviewed only on appeal in the cases prescribed by law.

3. An affidavit of defendants's counsel, showing that an "inquest" was taken, entitled him to the order to show cause. Whether the parties also show an excuse of the default is determined in the first instance by the granting of the order subject to any objection to be made at the hearing. Such order to show cause is necessarily ex parte.

4. An order by a Justice of this Court, other than the one who makes such ex parte order, upon "suggestion of plaintiff's attorney," and without notice to the adverse party, setting aside such order to show cause, is unsupported by any legal proof, and contrary to section 624 of the Code of Procedure applicable to the Court as governing motions in the Supreme Court, and possesses no legal force. The practice of an attorney to obtain such order is irregular. The issue of such an order obtained in this case is censurable against the attorney who wrote it.

5. The case was on the trial calendar of the Court, and called in its regular turn. The parties appeared by their respective counsel, and a jury impaneled. The defendant's counsel then moved to dismiss the complaint, which motion was denied. The jury was sworn, but before the case was opened or any witness was sworn, the defendant's counsel stated they withdrew from the case, and it thenceforth proceeded undefended. The defendant's counsel was out of order. He had no right to make any motion and thus to endeavor to prevent the plaintiff from a full hearing. The plaintiff could be heard only after the default had rested his case, and the proceedings should not be disturbed because of the allegation of error in the disposal of the motion, which could be corrected only on appeal.

6. Where, for any reason, the defendant not answering is absent when ought to be present, and in law for technical purposes deemed to appear, he is in point of fact in "default," and "in default" proceedings against him are ex parte, and carried on at the risk of the moving party, subject to be set aside under the act of 1853. The party taking judgment cannot upon a motion to open default claim that anything has been decided in his favor, except a silent acquiescence, because whatever is done is supposed, and does not call for the exercise of any judicial determination on any point by the presiding Judges. In such case, there being no objection, there can be no ruling, and the defendant must be considered to have waived every legal objection which he might have made to any matter coming within the purview of the record as it stood when he allowed himself to become in default, but no more. A party cannot be prevented from suffering, but he cannot be punished for being in default.

7. In an action for damages for imprisoning, plaintiff on the 23d June, under an order of arrest, held on its face, plaintiff had applied for leave to amend his complaint by adding "that without any authority whatsoever the plaintiff had been falsely imprisoned in defendant's store on the 22d June, and had been taken prisoner to a hotel, where he was kept prisoner until the next day, when he was again taken to plaintiff's store," which motion was denied. In the proceedings before the jury the plaintiff, in defendant's absence, gave proof of these facts, and then moved to amend the complaint as above, which was granted ex parte, the plaintiff inserting in his complaint substantially the above change, and as thus changed the case was given to this jury, who returned a verdict for exemplary damages. Held that such proceedings were at the risk of the plaintiff, and were irregular.

(1.) Because the precise question having been determined against plaintiff, after repeated argument on the motion for leave to amend, it was improper for him to obtain in effect an ex parte reversal of such order, and that the defendants cannot be held by their absence to have authorized any such procedure against them.

(2.) Because the so-called amendment was actually introducing a new cause of action, which the defendants had not at any time been called upon to answer, and which could not be submitted to the jury. (1 Hilton, 45.) The defendants were adjudged guilty of a charge of which they never had legal notice or opportunity to answer.

8. An appeal is not the only remedy for correcting a legal mischief. There are cases where relief can be had by motion. In this case there was no one to object at the time of the irregularity, and no ruling on an objection, of course no objection, consequently no appeal can be made. The only remedy is by motion, and where, as in this case, the liberty of the defendants is put in jeopardy, a motion is the proper remedy in this respect. The case must be governed by analogy to the doctrum of Cardozo, J., in People vs. Murphy, 1 Daly R., p. 464.

9. The only remedy by the laws of this State for the recovery of damages sustained by imprisonment under process of law, valid on its face, issued by competent authority, and which process is afterward set aside on the merits upon application to this Court is by action for "malicious prosecution." This remedy under the former practice was prosecuted as one of the class of actions known as "actions on the case." When the imprisonment is "without process of law," or upon process "void on its face" or "voidable," or "without any jurisdiction," the action is for "false imprisonment," formerly an action of "trespass." The complaint in this action states that plaintiff was imprisoned under an order of arrest which was vacated by the Court from which it issued. Held to be an action for "malicious prosecution." (1 Hilton, 45; 17 Abbott O. S., 235; 4 Albany L. J., p. 128.)

10. The acts of 1870 and 1871 relative to the Marine Court and to the transfer to this Court by other Courts of Record "for trial" of actions of libel, slander, assault, battery, or false imprisonment, confers no jurisdiction upon this Court to accept the transfer of an action for "malicious prosecution," and an amendment sought to be obtained in this respect from the Legislature at its last session was defeated.

11. This Court can only exercise power "specially" granted to it by statute, and an order of another Court of Record transferring any action to this Court for trial is res judicata, only upon the points of the points of the pendency of the action in such Court, the joining of issue and of an order to transfer, but is not a judicial determination of the jurisdictional question. The jurisdictional facts of this Court must appear affirmatively on the record, and it can be drawn in question before every and in every form of proceeding. This Court is at liberty to determine the question of its jurisdiction in any and every state of a cause, jurisdiction obtained by force of the statute and of the order.

12. It is fairly to be inferred from the repeated statements under oath of the plaintiff's attorney, that this action was an action for false imprisonment, taken to be correct, notwithstanding the plain sense of the complaint, which on examination of the pleading proves not to be the case.

13. Result of the foregoing determinations that the verdict taken in default, plaintiff's subsequent proceedings, judgment must be set aside and vacated.

PHILIP J. JOACHIMSEN,
Justice Marine Court.

For plaintiff, S. H. Randall, Esq.; for defendants, Wm. A. Boyd, Esq.
Oct. 24, 1871.

FRIDAY, Nov. 3—P. M.

The sales of Gold fell to 111⅛ ₱ cent. this morning, and this quotation was steady through the subsequent dealings of the day The Cash Gold was easy on this decline in price, and it was consequently expected that the demand for Exchange on London would be stimulated for Saturday's steamer; instead of which the rate fell from 108⅛ to 108⅛ ₱ cent., and the business for the packet of to-morrow proved very unsatisfactory. The amount of November Coupons collected for foreign holders yesterday was about $500,000, and today $900,000. These collections caused no apparent inquiry for Exchange, and the inference is that they have been reinvested in the Public Funds, or in other American Bonds. A prominent German-American firm are credited with being very large holders of United States 5-20s of 1867; the Bonds being lent out on the Street, yesterday called in a considerable sum for transmission to their joint account friends on the other side. The movement developed a scarcity of the Bonds and caused an advance of 1 ₱ cent., which continued up to 2 o'clock today, cash settlements being made as high as 114⅛ ₱ cent. In the Afternoon the price fell back to 114⅛ ₱ cent., and the involuntary "corner" in the Bonds is considered as over. The other Public Funds continued strong, and the market at 4 o'clock was quoted generally firm.

The price of Money continues 7 ₱ cent. on call loan to the Brokers, with a good demand, and the same rate is charged at Bank on discounts for regular dealers. Merchant paper not accommodated at Bank is sold on the Street at 9@12 ₱ cent. on first-class names.

At the Stock Exchange there was a serious break in South Carolina Bonds, following up the very weak market of yesterday. The price broke to 33 ₱ cent. on the panic report that an excessive issue of Bonds had been made to meet the emergencies of the State, but later in the day there was a recovery to 35½@35⅞ ₱ cent. The other Southern State Bonds were steady. The Pacific Mortgages had another rise—the Unions to 89 for the First Mortgage, and the Centrals to 102½ ₱ cent. Missouri Pacifics are 91@91½ ₱ cent. The old Western Currency Mortgages were in demand at full rates, and the Union Pacific Land Grants and Incomes made a rapid advance.

The Railroad Share speculation is generally strong in prices, and the remark is made of most of the New-York and Western Stocks that orders to buy, even in moderate amounts, cannot be executed without advancing the market, and the same is apparently true of Reading and Western Telegraph. On the other hand, the Brokers who are bearish in their views of the future of the market, say that it is equally difficult to realize on these Stocks if pressed on sale at the Exchange Board or in the Hall of the Exchange. The fact remains, however, that prices are strong at the close of each day, and the disposition to sell the market short by no means equal to the orders to buy for a rise. After the late Board the following quotations were made as compared with Thursday night:

can be obtained from the undersigned, or through the principal Banks and Bankers throughout the United States.

These Bonds are being rapidly absorbed by investors and capitalists, and but a small amount remain untaken. The security behind them is ample in every particular, as they constitute a first and only mortgage on a trunk line of railroad, which will soon connect the City of St. Joseph, Mo., (an important railway centre,) with the Union Pacific Railroad at Fort Kearney, materially shortening the distance between the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. In addition to this, the Bonds have a further security in the fact that there is included in the Mortgage the Company's magnificent Lands, amounting to 1,500,000 acres, known to be among the best in the United States. The Mortgage indenture prohibits the sale of these Lands at less than Four (4) Dollars per acre, and payable to the Trustees under the Mortgage, for the clear and express purpose of retiring these Bonds. The amount thus realized exceeds the entire amount of Bonds which can be issued, and leaves the road property and franchises free.

The Bonds have thirty years to run, with interest at Eight per Cent., free of tax, payable February and August in each year.

Both principal and interest are payable in gold.

The principal in New-York. The interest in either New-York, London, or Frankfort-on-the-Main, at the option of the holder, without notice, and in the gold currency of the country in which they are presented. They are coupons or registered.

Trustees, Farmers' Loan and Trust Company.

Maps, circulars, documents and full information furnished on application.

Though acting as agents for the sale of this loan, our firm buy and sell in their regular business the Bonds of the St. Joseph and Denver City Railroad Company, those of the Eastern Division being now quoted from 101 to 102 and accrued interest. These were originally placed by us at 97½.

THE CITY OF CHICAGO.

Progress of Reconstruction—Plenty of Work—The Relief Problem—Shelter for the Homeless—Sensational Stories—Political and Miscellaneous News.

From Our Own Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Tuesday, Oct. 31, 1871.

The great fire still engages all our attention. There is nothing especially new to report in relation to the fire itself; but the question of the relief of the sufferers is one of profound interest.

So far as reports have reached us the contributions foot up over three millions of dollars, besides a large amount of supplies sent for distribution by individuals, of which no public account has been taken. Much the largest portion, however, of both money and supplies received is dispensed by the General Relief Committee. But they have so much petty circumlocution that were it not for the auxiliary aid committees, churches, &c., which have control of supplies sent directly to them there would be much suffering. But then there is much need of care and precaution, as many are attempting to live off the public bounty who have not even smelt fire. On the whole, however, the relief business is progressing as satisfactorily as could be expected, considering its gigantic proportions. Rooms for the houseless to the number of about 500 daily are being given out by the Relief Committee; that is materials, of which to build them. Soon everybody will be covered from the wind and the rain, which is the main point now.

There is plenty of work to do, and there is no reason why any able-bodied man should be long sustained from the public bounty. Once started, if he has a mind to work, he can support himself and family. Wages are good and pay prompt, and every man is wanted.

It is evident that there is a good deal of human nature left in Chicago yet, unscathed by the fire. The price of every article in demand is being held at exorbitant prices. Brick has advanced over a hundred per cent., and lumber largely, so that the benevolence abroad is compelled to enrich our Shylocks who happen to have in hand what is required to shelter our own suffering citizens. It is a bad feature, but cannot well be helped. There is no law to compel man to be humane. And then the laboring classes, receiving good wages before, the fire are clamoring and striking for "famine prices." Masons are demanding $5 and $5 50 a day, and the necessities of contractors compel them to pay these rates, though the cost of living is not higher than before the fire. And so we go. The great drawback to the building up of Chicago will be just these extortions, and the noble generosity of everybody abroad will be in a measure defeated by the enhanced cost of labor, and other things which must be had. So I repeat my advice. Let purchases be made by the donors in those localities where what is necessary can be had.

Arrangements are being largely made to erect permanent buildings. More than five hundred permits have already been granted for large stores and blocks, and the work of preparing the foundations is rapidly going forward. In the meantime the "burnt district" is being covered with temporary erections, and the "ruins" are fast disappearing. Think of the towns which sprang up "in a night" in California during the "flush times," and along the Pacific Railroad, and you will have some idea of the appearance of "New Chicago"—only you will have to throw in as a background the dilapidations—the standing walls and chimneys, the scathed and burned trees, to make the picture complete.

The bustle and turmoil of the South Side have been thrown into a small district on the West Side, and along about three-quarters of a mile on Wabash-avenue. It is as much as one's life is worth to attempt to navigate some few streets on the West Side. Even on the South Side, in some localities, the jam is fearful, as at the intersection of State and Madison streets.

General trade has much revived. While standing in the vicinity of the railroad stations and witnessing the noise and confusion, one would hardly dream of the ruin a little way off.

Our local insurance companies have scarcely been heard from yet. What reports we have are anything but encouraging to the policy holders. They can form no idea of what percentage they will eventually realise. The cry against "foreign" insurance companies, which was successfully raised a year or two ago, has been the ruin of our city companies, and of thousands who have confided in them. One result of the great fire will be a reconstruction of our insurance system.

We are still astonished at the terrible incidents which sensational correspondents still report for the Eastern papers. It is now satisfactorily settled that no one was hung or shot, although it was fully believed that such was the case the day after the fire. Nearly all the thrilling stories afloat, except a few connected with individual escapes, are pure inventions. The story about that Krupp shell blowing up the Tribune building is one of them. Another, that a villain robbed a bank officer as he came out of the building with the funds of the bank, that he was arrested by a policeman whom he shot, and was in turn torn limb from limb by the incensed multitude, is another. And so are a thousand and one others. There was, to be sure, a good deal of bold thieving during the fire, but no violence.

In the disordered condition of the city the "Central Committees" of the two parties have usurped the prerogatives of the people, and assumed to make up a mixed ticket to suit themselves. They have selected some good men, but have so fixed matters that, with those holding over, the "scallawag" element will continue in control of the Common Council. A similar deal has been made in the selection of County Commissioners, who are to take the place of our Board of Supervisors. Unless these nominations are repudiated, there will be little or no improvement in our local legislature. The candidates for Mayor, too, is regarded by many as a poor selection. Mr. MEDILL is full of crotchets and theories, with little practical or executive ability, besides laboring under the physical disability of being exceedingly deaf. But he had the inside track with the Ring who assumed the office of dictators, and consequently is put forward at a time when the city needs a far different man.

There is a movement on foot to substitute better men for the objectionable ones. Meetings have already been held in the West Division, and others are to follow. The newspapers have generally resumed publication, and their advertising columns show that Chicago is full of life and business yet. There is one feature in our affairs worth special mention. It is the extreme sensitiveness which our older citizens manifest at propositions of capitalists abroad to purchase real estate in the burnt district. They appear almost to take it as an insult, and insist that Chicagoans must build up Chicago. This spirit is well enough, perhaps, but carried to extremes, it will be likely to retard our reconstruction. Many who have lost heavily try to appear cheerful, but it is rather like a smile over the grave of some departed loved one. Others, whose incomes a month ago went hard up into fifty thousands, have opened their houses for boarders, so entirely are they stript of current resources. I helped fit out a family yesterday, utterly destitute, who, when I last heard from them before the fire, were not worth less than two hundred thousand dollars. Another, an old citizen, who was rated at a million and a half in business buildings, was glad to accept a second-hand hat and coat; so hurried was his exit from his dwelling that he was compelled to leave thus destitute. So we go.

The railroads will undoubtedly get the "Lake front," upon which to build their mammoth Union Depot, with but little opposition. The eight hundred thousand dollars which they are to pay the city for it, will come very opportune just now. Public opinion is divided in the case of the shooting of Col. GROSVENOR, mentioned in my last. The young man THRAT had his orders, and before him was apparently a drunken rough. He obeyed his orders, and, in a military point of view, is justified. But the orders were illegal—therefore, the burden of the blame lies with his superior officers. He is held for trial; but what the result will be we cannot now calculate. The welcome rain of Tuesday night and Wednesday has apparently extinguished the fires which were devastating Michigan. An eastern wind blew Monday and Tuesday, and the smoke penetrated fifty miles into this State, bearing a strong smell of turf and vegetation. At Aurora, forty miles from the city, the smoke was so dense that one could not see two blocks. It was in all the houses, and in the eyes of the people thereof, much to their discomfort. The weather is now beautiful, and everything is favorable for out-door work.

The Insurance Question—Dissatisfaction at the Increased Tariff.

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—The action of the underwriters in increasing the rates of insurance on grain in store is a subject of general complaint. The rates before the fire averaged two per cent. per annum, shorter terms in proportion. Since the fire the rates are five per cent. per annum, seven per cent. for six months, twelve per cent. for one month and thirty-one per cent. for two days. The Tribune says these rates are simply ruinious, and, if continued, will destroy business. The danger of losses in the elevators has been greatly lessened by the fire, and, certainly, risks are as safe now as ever. The temperance men of Chicago have held a meeting, and put in nomination a ticket for city and county officers. Many of the candidates are also on the union or "fire-proof" ticket. It is announced on realiable authority that the remaining eighty per cent. of the stock of the Republic Insurance Company will be called in at once, and that the Company will pay its losses in full, and go on with the business.

The Russian Grand Duke.

The result of the interview yesterday between Major MONTGOMERY, on the part of the Reception Committee, and the Russian Minister, is that if the Grand Duke arrives in New-York between this and Tuesday next, he will be conducted to his quarters at the Clarendon, incog., and the next day proceed to Washington. If, however, his Imperial Highness should reach here on election day, the parade will take place on Wednesday, and the programme, as originally adopted, will be strictly adhered to. If the Grand Duke arrives in the City, and leaves for Washington before Tuesday next, the military reception and parade will occur when he returns. The Mary Powell will meet Prince ALEXIS at Jersey City, and conduct him and his suite to Pier No. 1 North River, where carriages will be in waiting to receive the Imperial party, as was intended had he been brought up from the Upper Bay when the fleet first arrived. There is no doubt that the reception programme has been much retracted from in public interest by the great delay which has taken place in the arrival of the Russian fleet. An afternoon paper thinks that the best way to celebrate the coming of ALEXIS is by a splendid Reform victory on Tuesday.

The Water-Front of Ward's Island.

The case of ALFRED E. BEACH vs. The Mayor, &c., in relation to the water-fronts of Ward's Island, was up for argument before Judge INGRAHAM, in Supreme Court, Chambers, yesterday. The action was brought to determine the rights of parties to the land between high and low water mark, and in some places beyond that line on Ward's Island, and the rights in certain old roads laid out on the island before the City had the title. The old patent from the Commissioners of the Land Office, gave this property to certain of the then owners, some of whom did not own the adjacent lands. The City now claims that this patent was void, and that the City, as adjacent owner, is now entitled to the land. The case, the facts of which have already been fully stated in the columns of the TIMES, came up on a motion to settle certain issues not submitted to the referee.

The Court reserved its decision.

Death of E. D. Nelson, the Artist.

At a meeting of the Artists' Society of Association Building, held yesterday afternoon, the following resolutions were passed:

Resolved, That we, the friends of our late associate, Mr. E. D. NELSON, and the artists, as a body, have heard with sincere and deep sorrow of his very sudden and unexpected death; and that we desire to express our sense of the great loss to us, as a beloved and valued friend, and as an artist of talent, of one who has devoted himself with conscientiousness to his profession, and to extend our heartfelt sympathies to his bereaved family and relatives.

Resolved, That we will attend the funeral services to be held over his remains at 9½ o'clock A. M. Saturday, Nov. 4, at Grace Church, White Plains, and cordially invite all his brother artists and friends to be present on the occasion.

Resolved, That the Secretary of our Society be instructed to transmit a copy of these resolutions to his afflicted family.

Precautions Against Forging Sub-Treasury Checks.

The Sub-Treasury has adopted a system of crimping the paper on which their checks are written, for the purpose of preventing alterations or forgeries. After the check is made out, it is passed through a small machine, which crimps or indents with parallel lines that portion of the paper on which the amount and figures are written. The result is that the paper cannot be written on a second time, nor can it be restored to its original condition.

The Westchester Tragedy.

GUSTAVE KUSTER, of Yonkers, who was shot under such mysterious circumstances at Riverdale, died yesterday at Bellevue Hospital. It will be remembered that on Wednesday morning he was found lying on the Hudson River Railroad track, at Riverdale, after having been run over by a train of cars, which crushed his right arm and inflicted other injuries. It was found that he had a pistol-shot wound in the head, and facts were subsequently ascertained which showed that he had probably been shot and robbed by highwaymen, but nothing certain concerning the affair has yet been discovered. An inquest will be held in the case by Coroner YOUNG, who yesterday granted a permit for the removal of the remains to Yonkers for burial.

THE REGISTRY.

Total Number of Names on the Lists thus far 129,052.

Thirty-seven Thousand Two Hundred and Thirty-Six Names Added Yesterday—The Reserve Army of Voters Coming Forward.

Last year there were but three days when the places of registry were open, and yesterday being, under the present law, the fourth day when the books were open for the reception of the names of voters, there could be no just comparison with the figures of last year, and they have accordingly been omitted. It will be seen from the following table that there were 37,236 names added to the lists yesterday. These being added to the 23,736 registered on Oct. 17 and 18, and the 68,080 registered on Wednesday, makes a total of 129,052. As the total registration last year was 143,668, it will be seen that thus far the lists embrace 13,614 less names than last year. As there is yet one day for registration, it is probable the lists will somewhat exceed those of last year:

Registration in the down-town Wards yesterday progressed quietly. The inspectors were at their posts during the day, and worked with an apparent consciousness of being watched. Some seemed quite uneasy under the espionage of the Committee of Seventy's challengers and the watchers who were dropping in upon them at intervals. Visits to neighboring taverns by inspectors were frequent, but a quorum of the Board were always in attendance.

In the First, Second and Third Wards the registration is about completed, in the opinion of the inspectors. In the Fourth, Fifth, Sixth and Seventh Wards voters were coming in to register at a brisk rate during the day, and in the districts along the river, a number of voters, apparently long shoremen, expressed themselves in favor of O'DONAHAN ROSSA for Senator, and the Reform ticket generally.

The greater number of those who were registering in these Wards, however, appeared to be friends of Tammany Hall. The greatest difference of opinion was shown in the Sixth Ward, where the friends of DOWLING and BRENNAN seem to want but little occasion to break out into open rupture. The Dowling party have Bills posted near the places of registration, calling upon the voters of the Ward to organize in opposition to a minority who, while not living in the Ward, seek to rule it." It is signed with several hundred names, which number includes many Italians living in the Five Points. In the Fifth Senatorial District, which comprises the Eighth, Ninth and Fifteenth Wards and a portion of the Sixteenth Ward, the registration was very satisfactory to the friends of Reform. Old men hobbled up to the registration places on crutches, and men who have not voted for years registered their names. Never, in the memory of the oldest inhabitant, has there been so much interest manifested in an election in this part of the City, as there is at present. The inspectors being constantly brought into contact with so much respectability as is shown in the class who register, and being surrounded with watchers, are on their good behavior, and it is expected that an honest election will be had in the district. Repeaters, who are numerous in the purlieus of the Eighth Ward, are at a loss to know how to practice their yearly vocation, and regretfully see themselves becoming valueless to their Tammany friends.

The chances of MR. BENEDICT, the Reform candidate, are improving, if the talk in the district is to be relied upon, and MIKE NORTON, the Tammany pet, is far from being certain of another seat in the Assistance. The Reform County ticket was warmly advocated yesterday by groups assembled in the neighborhood of the registration places.

A TIMES reporter visited several of the Wards of the Fourth Senatorial District last evening, with the view of ascertaining the progress of the registry. In the different districts of the Seventh Ward visited, it was ascertained that a greater number of respectable voters than on former years came forward.

In the Third and the contiguous districts of the Fourth Ward people had not come forward to register in such numbers as was expected. Of those who did, there was a fair sprinkling of the respectable element. An Inspector in one case said to our reporter: "If the voters do not come forward more promptly to-morrow the aggregate vote will be behind that of last year." It is expected, however, that the laboring classes, who generally stay away until the last day, will make a good show today. In other districts of the Fourth Ward visited, the registry was larger than at any previous election, while in other places the numbers balanced evenly with those of last year. The dry-goods merchants of Catherine-street, and the Jewish residents in that portion of the Fourth Ward, have manifested considerable interest in this election. Throughout the Ward there was no disturbance of any kind, and on inquiry at the Oak-street Station-house it was ascertained there had not been a single arrest for false registration made.

Throughout the Third Ward everything was quiet, and it was observed that the working classes were rather dilatory in putting in an appearance. The inspectors say, however, that these men usually come forward in a crowd on the last day. Among the voters who have registered up to the present are many respect able men who have not voted for many years past.

In the Fifth District of the Third Ward, an inspector told our reporter that all the respectable merchants doing business in Greenwich-street, and elsewhere, and who reside in the hotels of the neighborhood, have come forward to a man.

In the First and Fifth Wards the registration passed off quietly, and the respectable people, following the example of their class in other localities, registered their names with commendable punctuality.

The Tammany repeaters and their ringleaders were not quite so bold in the Seventh Senatorial District, yesterday, as on the two previous days of registration, and did not show themselves quite so openly. Nevertheless, Tammany, aware of the popularity and strength of Mr. O'BRIEN in the district, did not neglect getting roughs to register their names falsely wherever a good opportunity presented itself. The registration was closely watched, however, and the number of names fraudulently recorded was considerably reduced through fear of detection. Special efforts were made at repeating in the Eighteenth Ward, where Mr. NICHOLAS HAGERTON is running for the Assembly on the Reform ticket against the notorious "JIM" IRVING. In the Fifth District of the Ward, Mr. HENNESSY, a watcher at the place of registry discovered two Bradley repeaters, who registered their names in an illegal manner, and will cause their arrest if they attempt to vote on election day. He also saw a crowd of repeaters at the corner of Fourteenth-street and First-avenue, who were deterred from registering by his presence at the polling-place. In the Fourteenth District of Eighteenth Ward, Mr. HAUGHTON noted down the name of a man who registered himself as living at No. 237 East Twenty-fourth-street, although not known by the occupants of that house. It was observed that there was a considerable falling off in the registry in the districts on the extreme eastern side of the Ward, and this was attributed to the fact that the inspectors had first taken a large number of names on loose slips of paper, and had then intentionally neglected to put them in the registry books. In the Twenty-first Ward, JOHN BANTA was caught by WM. HICKEY in the act of fraudulently placing his name on the registry books, and a complaint was lodged against him before Justice BIXBY. He was subsequently arrested and committed to prison, without bail, to await the action of the Grand Jury. He admitted that he had registered in two different places. Several other complaints were preferred against repeaters who have not yet been apprehended.

A number of ladies were registered yesterday with the intention of offering their votes at the coming election. This was done by several in the Nineteenth District of the Sixteenth Ward.

The Registry.

Allow me to call attention to the manner in which the registry of votes is conducted by some of the inspectors, and to ask if it is in accordance with the law. When I went to enroll my name yesterday morning, the three registers were occupied as follows: One had a small memorandum book, and another a sheet of foolscap paper, and on these they wrote the name with a lead pencil. The third, a man evidently unaccustomed to the use of the pen, was laboriously copying into the ordinary registry book, at the dictation of the others, names which they had previously recorded in pencil. Now I wish to ask what guarantee have I that my name is correctly entered or entered upon the enrollment at all? On former occasions, each of the inspectors has had a book in which the names were simultaneously recorded in ink. This time the registry was in pencil, to be copied, perhaps, into the book subsequently. It seems to me that this lead pencil registry leaves a very wide door open to fraud. VOTER.

NEW-YORK, Wednesday, Nov. 1, 1871.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Wishing to forward, by every means, an honest registry and a pure ballot, I take this way of communicating my undisguised disgust on learning that the official registry map displayed at BRADLEY'S stables is full of errors, calculated to mislead unwary voters as to their proper place of registry. I will also add my experience in registering on one of the appointed days in October. My name was taken on a separate sheet of foolscap. I shall go on Friday and make inquiry whether it is properly entered in the books. Yours, &c.,

A VOTER.

NEW-YORK, Thursday, Nov. 2, 1871.

The Tribune's Apology in Behalf of the Inspectors of Election.

The registering of voters on loose slips of paper, to be afterward copied at leisure by the inspectors in the registry books, was as much a matter of discussion yesterday as on previous days. That opportunities for fraud are presented by such a system is undeniable. Two of the inspectors where this plan is adopted are obliged to trust to the honesty of the one entrusted with the registering of the names, and it is an easy matter for him to omit some when he calls off the list to the other members of the Board of Registry for entry in their books, or to alter the names so as to prevent the person registered from voting on the day of election. The law requires the names to be written in the registry-books "in alphabetical order." The Tribune, apologizing for the practice, said yesterday that "this manifestly could not be done at the time the names are given in." The law only requires that the names shall be entered in the registry books, so that all surnames beginning with the same letter of the alphabet shall be together. To facilitate the entering of names, by this arrangement, the registry books furnished to the inspectors by the Bureau of Election, are indexed. And when a man whose surname begins with A or Z presents himself, the inspectors have but to turn to the page of the book beginning with either of these letters, and enter the name. As there is plenty of blotting paper always furnished, and the rush is never so great as to seriously embarrass the inspectors in their clerical duty, there is no reason that they should not copy the voter's name at once in a legal manner.

The Board of Registry is not always presided over by a Republican inspector, as the Tribune says, but oftener by one of the Tammany inspectors. If the Republican inspector is not a creature of Mayor HALL'S, the only thing that he or the Republican challenger can do to effectually stop fraud, is to see that every voter's name is immediately entered in the registry books. But the best plan is for every voter to see that it is done himself.

Justice Bixby After Repeaters.

JOHN NEWMAN, residing at No. 458 Fourth-avenue, yesterday, in the Yorkville Police Court, before Justice BIXBY, charged JOHN BANTA with having illegally registered his name as a voter in the Seventeenth election district in the Twenty-first Ward. BANTA is not a resident of the district, and was induced to go there and register for a consideration given by one of JOHN J. BRADLEY'S friends. Justice BIXBY expressed his determination to put down election frauds as far as he could in his judicial capacity, and committed BANTA to answer in the Court of Oyer and Terminer.

The Registry in New-Jersey.

The registration returns of Thursday's registry in Newark, show it to have been larger than was supposed. An increase took place in almost every precinct, and 18,212 names were placed upon the poll lists, as against 16,962 votes cast at the charter election last month, and against 17,348 votes cast at the general election last year. This is an increase of 864 over the largest vote ever made in the City. At Jersey City no returns were made at any fixed place, and the returns are only collected slowly. The registration is, however, believed to have been smaller than the vote for Congressman last Fall, though larger than the vote at the charter election, which was exceedingly small. In Trenton 4,717 names were placed on the list, an increase of 372 over the vote at last election. At this place a number of Democrats registered their names under protest, and papers are being prepared at the instance of Judge NARR with the intention of testing the validity of the Registry law. The written protests which had been prepared beforehand were entered upon the books with the names.

The improvements now being carried out on the corner of Broadway and Liberty-street are conducted in such a manner as to be dangerous to the public. The steamer Bristol, of the Fall River line, narrowly escaped serious accident on her down trip Thursday morning, while passing through Hell Gate. FREAR'S FORTUNE.

A Bankrupt Becomes a Millionaire in Three Years—How Sweeny's Protege Rose from Poverty to Wealth—The Prosperity of a Tammany Politician.

Three years ago ALEXANDER FREAR, the protegé of PETER B. SWEENY, and the associate of JOHN J. BRADLEY, also a member of one or two Ring Commissions and the obedient agent of TWEED in the Assembly, declared himself a bankrupt, and was adjudicated such in the United States District Court on his own petition. He made oath that his entire property consisted of $300 worth of wearing apparel, and $50 worth of books, while his liabilities amounted to upward of $100,000. At the present time he is estimated to be worth one million dollars. That a man possessing property only worth $350, and owing a small fortune in the way of debts, could rise to the position of a millionaire, outside of ordinary business channels, in the short space of three years, seems almost impossible. Such, however, is the case of FREAR, who has accumulated his money without the aid of business. Ever since he became a bankrupt, he has been nothing else but a Tammany politician and a favorite of the Ring, and this fact, in the minds of many, will probably be accepted as the best explanation of his rapid accession to wealth. He filed his petition in voluntary bankruptcy on the 19th day of Febuary, 1868, doubtless regarding it as the surest way of escaping his indignant creditors, who were pressing him to pay the debts which he had contracted. By the order which adjudicated him a bankrupt, he had all his liabilities entirely "wiped out." In his petition is contained a list of his creditors, showing the amounts due them and the nature of his debts. In many instances judgments were obtained against FREAR in the State Court, and the costs of Court were added to the amount of indebtedness.

The debts were nearly all contracted in 1856 and 1857, when FREAR was in partnership with JOHN WINTERS, under the firm name of FREAR & Co. A few of the creditors held securities for their claims, among the number being the following, who have the amount of FREAR'S indebtedness to them set opposite their names:

GARVER & Co., No. 61 Worth-street, $59,499 81; Bank of Commerce, $16,000. The list of creditors whose claims were unsecured, and who mostly had bills against FREAR for merchandise sold him, is as follows: GEORGE W. WHITE, CHAS. GRIFFITHS and GILES WHITE, $976 88; FLOYD BAILEY and CHARLES H. SOUTHARD, $2,919 49; JAS. W. SMITH & Co., No. 101 Liberty-street, $1,309 90; THEODORE KNOUTH, JACOB NACHOD, FRED R. KUHNE, No. 34 Reade-street, $1,028 12; JOHN C. KILGOUR and DANIEL T. COFFIN, No. 84 Leonard-street, $173 47; C. W. MOORE & Co., No. 331 Broadway, $634 90; SPRDDING & LIVERMORE, No. 38 Park-place, $1,538 87; ALLEN HAZEN & Co., $214 38; WM. C. LANGLEY & Co., No. 17 White-street, $10,-384 33; GEO. H. SHAW, $435 58; EDWARD HARRIS, $549 36; TABOR CHADWICK, $6,953 24; GOODRICH, FREEMAN & FOSTER, No. 30 Murray-street, $12,199 04; CHAS. W. WHILEY, $1,175 43; MCCURDY, ALDRICH & SPENCER, No. 168 Church-street, $5,121 50; HENRI HENNEQUIN & Co., No. 343 Broadway, $171 66; LAWRENCE, CLAPP & Co., No. 91 Chambers-street, $873 29; CATHERET & ATHERTON, $457 06; GARDNER COLBY, $674 72; CATHERET & ATHERTON, $2,380 34; RAUENDAHL & Co., $241 20; EDW. H. ARNOLD, $239 44; JAS. LEFFERTS, $404 73; DAVID MAHONY, $276 66; STRONG & SMITH, $2,410 45; HOYT, TILLINGHAST & Co., No. 56 Park-place, $11,177 52; GUILLAUME, FARGIS & Co., $2,728 93; GARNER & Co., $54,499 81; BININGER & DEWITT, $81 57; JOHN P. WAKE, $3,545 66; FREDERICK W. BORNSTEDT, $235 11; JOSEPH FISHER & HENRY A. GARRT, $139 66; JOHN B. FOGERTY, $215 11; JAS. O. WILLETT, deceased, $461 79; SQUIRE & LANDER, $72 19; D. W. WILLIAMS, $296 39; JAMES E. GALL & SAMUEL D. ADDISON, $77 81; WM. M. BLISS and others, $43 97; VICTOR & ACHILIS, $4,000; E. V. HAUGHWOUT & Co., $377 37. All of the merchandise purchased by FREAR, which was never paid for, was obtained on promissary notes, which were never cancelled. To SINGER & HUGHSON, of Poughkeepsie, he owed $1,700 borrowed money, and to LIBBY, GRAEF & MARSH he owed $15,000 borrowed money, and $7,500 to the Bank of the State of New-York. He got $555 from HELEN VAN STEENBURGH, of Rhinebeck, on a promissary note. The following are some additional debts of FREAR: President and Directors of Quinneburg Bank, of Norwich Bank, $2,983 32, on a promissory note; MOSES TAYLOR, President Bank of New-York, $24,864 21, on notes of FREAR, indorsed by STEWART C. MARSH, and discounted by the bank, but never redeemed by FREAR; E. S. HIGGINGS & Co., $1,166 69, on bill of exchange drawn by ROBERT W. CORSON; Merchants' Bank, $7,264, on notes given by FREAR; JOHN A. STEWART, Receiver of the Bowery Bank, $7,972 62, on an accommodation note; Westchester Mutual Insurance Company, $996 25; Mechanics' Bank, $3,414 43, on notes of FREAR'S American Exchange Bank, $17,976 24; Bank of Commerce, about $16,000. GEORGE BOWMAN, a lawyer, had a bill of $164 16 against FREAR for professional services. To SIMEON DRAPER, Jr., he owed a small bill for losses incurred in stock speculations, which may have led to FREAR'S getting so heavily in debt. The strangest feature in FREAR'S petition is the part giving an account of his assets. He makes oath that he did not own any real estate, had no stock in trade or household goods or furniture, no cash on hand, no bills of exchange or securities of any description, no horses or carriages, and that his entire property comprised $300 worth of clothing and $50 worth of books.

Why Don't He Come?

O, where, and O, where has the Grand Duke ALEXIS gone? New-York is rapidly growing weary of the pleasures of anticipation and as madly echoing the plaintive cry of the mother of Sisera: "Why cometh he not? Why tarry the wheels of his chariot?" (In Sisera's time propellers were unknown.) The feast is ordered; the damsels and cymbals are ready to welcome him with charms and much music. But still he cometh not. Fifth-avenue is in despair. Paternal bankers' balances have been largely drawn upon to pay for the importations of cases of silks and satins, made up in the latest Parisian style, and high-topped fanchons, of marvelous construction, which have exhausted the inventive talent of Mme. LUCY HOSQUET and the Rue Cliche. All the well-known modistes have been working night and day for a fortnight. And for what? The Grand Duke has not come, and everything is already becoming old-fashioned. Some little bird whispered his coming from over the sea, apparently too soon, and all are solemnly chanting the refrain: ALEXIS, O! ALEXIS, the time is fleeting by. The Reception Committee have had the steam of the Mary Powell up for a fortnight, and are sternly contemplating the gradual conversion of the $20,000 they subscribed for the entertainment of his Imperial Highness into tons of cinders, for which they will, perhaps, get about fifty cents a load for agricultural purposes. The Broadway shopkeepers, too, begin to think that things wear a serious aspect. They have invested largely in Alexis ties and cravats, Alexis collars, Alexis hats, gloves, canes and perfumes, and they begin to fear that these costly superfluities may, after all, be left on their unwilling hands. And the procession. Some cantankerous individual has discovered that it is unconstitutional to call out the militia within five days of election; consequently, if ALEXIS should arrive in the next few days, there will be no flashing sabres, no showy uniforms, no glistening epaulettes, no soldier, no Gen. SHALER and staff, to give éclat to the occasion. Evidently the Grand Duke has no magnetism, or he would long ago have been attracted into port by the galaxy of beauty and display, the hospitality and gaiety, only waiting his arrival. It seems impossible that he should prefer Madeira. Or, can it be possible that his Admiral is a crusty old fellow, and is detaining him in order to assert his own nautical dignity? If such be the case ALEXIS had better try and toss the cable; and let said Admiral look out for squalls when they do arrive! But, seriously, it is to be hoped that the Russian fleet will soon drop anchor off Sandy Hook. The nerves of the bon-ton of New-York are strung up to the highest possible tension, and the excitement bids fair to reach an untimely chmax. Moreover, we shall be horrified, in a few days, by some blood and thunder reporter from Washington telegraphing to say that the diplomatic corps in general, and Mr. CATACAZY in particular, are becoming seriously alarmed for the safety of the young ROMANOFF, and that the American Government share in their apprehensions. That Tennessee alarmist is still around.

The Government Gold from Chicago.

The work of examining the coin received from the Subtreasury at Chicago was completed at the Philadelphia Mint on Tuesday. There was about $350,000 in gold, silver and nickels. The money had been deposited in the stone vaults of the Treasury at Chicago, some of it in bags, some in paper parcels, and some loose. After the fire the ruins were overhauled, and the mass of that which was believed to be coin was sent to Philadelphia. At the Mint the good coin was at once extricated, and about $250,000 of this was obtained that needed no more than the application of acid to make it presentable. The balance consisted of masses of gold, silver and nickel, amalgamated by the heat, and requiring the process of coining to be gone over again.

Mr. Beecher's "Sympathy" for the Tammany Thieves.

From the Cincinnati Enquirer, Nov. 1.

A friend of ours was lately in Brooklyn, N. Y., and by way of amusement, on a Sunday evening, visited Plymouth Church to hear HENRY WARD BEECHER deliver a discourse in relation to the frauds in New-York City. Mr. BEECHER took a very philosophical view of said frauds, holding that they were attributable to African slavery. At this our informant was a little startled, and was somewhat curious to know what possible connection there was between negro servitude and the villainies of New-York officials. Mr. BEECHER proved it by an illustration. He said there were some terrible diseases to which the human system was liable, which could only be cured by leaving behind them traces of the remedies that were nearly as bad as the original disease. In order to kill slavery we had to employ the instrumentality of war, and the war brought the most shocking corruption and profligacy upon the country. It permeated everywhere; nothing escaped it. These men—TWEED & Co., in New-York—were only the embodiments of this depraved state of public morals. They were only worse than other men because their opportunities were greater. He (BEECHER) sympathized with these men—the victims of our bad state of society. He would not punish them with severity; indeed, he did not know whether it would not be best to allow them to remain in office. They were gorged with plunder and were satisfied, and there was reason to believe that after this they would give us a comparatively honest administration. To turn them out would be to put in a fresh swarm, who would be likely to gorge themselves in the fashion of their predecessors, so that probably the public would be the losers by it. The audience was immense, and by their faint applause showed that Mr. BEECHER had struck chords that touched them in his discourse.

Acquired Immunity from Animal Poisons.

At a recent meeting of the Boston Society of Medical Sciences, as reported in the Medical and Surgical Journal, the question was discussed of the protection acquired by the human skin against the action of certain animal poisons, after repeated inoculation, one gentleman claiming that the frequent inoculation of some poisons gave a gradual immunity from any poisonous effects. He instanced the effects of mosquito-bites, which he thought were more severe in children than in adults, much more severe in foreigners who had recently arrived in this country than in natives, and in support of this spoke of a whole family, recently arrived from England, which he had just seen, upon the members of which the bites of mosquitoes had produced violent eruption of the skin resembling pemphigus. He thought that the immunity derived from frequent inoculations was analogous to that from vaccine matter against variola. He said that he considered it as established that poisonous snakes were not killed by their own poisons; insects, however, he said, did not enjoy this immunity, as wasps and bees were known to kill each other by their poison. He was supported by another gentleman, who said that in regions where black flies abound, persons after a few years are not affected by the poison. This immunity is not obtained in one season, but only after a prolonged residence; such persons are bitten as at first, but escape all the disagreeable effects from which a non-resident suffers.

Rev. J. T. Goodrich Probably One of the Chicago Victims.

It is feared that Rev. J. T. GOODRICH, of Connecticut, was among those who perished in the Chicago conflagration. A fruitless search has been made for him, particulars of which are thus given in a letter from Guilford to the Norwich (N. Y.) Telegraph:

"AARON BRADLEY, a brother-in-law of Mr. GOODRICH, started for Chicago on the 18th of October, where he was joined by J. C. GOODRICH, a son of the unfortunate man, and the most thorough search was made. All hospitals, asylums, and every conceivable place of refuge, were diligently searched, but to no purpose, except to elicit the following facts: The clerk of the Metropolitan Hotel, was found, and produced the register of the hotel which he had preserved, from which it was ascertained that Mr. GOODRICH arrived at the Metropolitan on the evening of the 5th of October, and engaged board and suite of rooms for an indefinite period, expecting to remain several weeks, as his family knew. On Saturday evening, Oct. 17, several gentlemen, friends of his, met in his rooms for purposes of business. On Sunday he attended Dr. KING'S Church, but was known to have been in his rooms up to the hour of retiring; and this was the last time he was seen. The hotel caught fire about 5 o'clock A. M. of Monday. Dr. SMITH, of Chicago, an intimate friend of Mr. GOODRICH, was with him on Saturday, and had made an appointment to meet him again on Monday. He is of the firm belief he perished in the flames. A large number of letters, papers, &c., intended for Mr. GOODRICH, remain unclaimed. All are of the opinion that he has met his untimely death in this terrible manner. Mrs. GOODRICH is in Guilford with her friends, and has the warmest sympathy of the entire community in this great trial.

Southern Feeling.

The article on "Southern Feeling," over the signature of "Fidele," in this morning's TIMES, would be undeserving of notice were it not that it appears in a paper whose influence is felt throughout the North, and it might therefore have its assertions credited. I am a Southerner and have given from my earnings, perhaps, as much as the voluble "Fidele," whose Christian charity resembles too strikingly that of the Pharisee, of whom the Bible speaks as praying on the street corners and open places and thanking God that he is not as other men, &c. Because one lady from Augusta glories in the burning of Chicago, looking upon it as a visitation of Providence, that is surely no reason why the whole Southern people should be vilified in this manner. The piece is evidently written by a woman, or if by a man, one who, when his country needed his services to assist in putting down the rebels, was not in the field where duty and honor called him.

Admitting that there are some Southerners who still feel the "bitterness of rebellion," this is no reason for parading it before the public and endeavoring to make capital out of it at this time and under such circumstances as the present. The great majority of the Southern people—especially those who fought in the war—regard the sectional differences as dead issues, and are applying themselves now to other and more important issues—the support and education of their families and the firm establishment of peaceful relations between the sections. They have not the means to contribute largely toward the Chicago sufferers, but in proportion to their means they have done so. They are in need of contributions themselves too much to be expected to send them elsewhere, and as to their dislike of Northerners it is perfectly natural, for no conquered people ever liked their conquerors until time had worn away their prejudices. I once had the same feeling toward Northerners, but having associated with them since the war, I can say that I entertain now no prejudice whatever against them save against such narrow-minded "Yankees" as delight in speaking of the "offensive pusillanimous twang that only a Southerner can articulate."

A SOUTHERN SOLDIER.

A Call for Effective Action.

From the Troy Times, Nov. 1.

The word comes to us from the headquarters of our State Committee that the prospect in the State is bright, and the Republican triumph at the election is assured if the Republican voters "press" the enemy now. Victory is within our grasp if we will only put out our hands to seize it. The excellence of our general ticket and the strength of our local nominations have created the best feeling among our friends everywhere. On the contrary, our opponents are paralyzed. Their leaders in the city are seeking to devise ways to keep themselves out of the clutches of the law for their offenses, instead of leading the Democracy, as they have done, to victory. Thousands of Democrats in the city and State, too, have become alarmed at the tendencies of their party toward corruption and the impairment of the very integrity of the Government by the practices of the conspicuous leaders in New-York. They will refuse to support them any longer. In their local nominations they will vote for honest men and repudiate TWEED and the conspirators who have plundered with him. This condition is one which invites the action of every citizen. It particularly solicits the effective action of the Republicans. The State may be rescued from the men who have brought its good name to shame, its treasury to bankruptcy, its people to taxation without precedent.

Dissatisfaction of County Democrats.

From The Daily Saratogian, Oct. 31.

The better-informed members of the Democratic Party look with especial distrust on all nominees who, as former members of the Legislature, have voted for and sustained the Tammany Ring measures. Wherever such men have been nominated, as is the case in the Senatorial District, the Democratic candidates need not be surprised if they fail to receive the support of men whose patience they have exhausted. The same may be said of Republican candidates who are known to have had secret affiliations with Tammany. WINANS sought to run for the Assembly again, but was driven from the field by the unconcealed scorn and contempt of his old Republican constituency. Every where Tammany is in disgrace. Concerning the Democratic State ticket the sentiment is hardly less emphatic. It is tainted with TWEED and Tammany associations. Efforts will be made in some quarters to save it, but it is impossible to change the conviction in the public mind that the State Convention was really controlled by TWEED; that the rural and Reform Democracy were actually out-manœuvred and snubbed, and TWEED'S ticket placed in nomination. Many Democrats positively refuse to support it. Sanguine hopes are also entertained that in New-York City the polls will be so guarded that a tolerably fair vote will be cast, and much of the repeating shut off.

Mr. Samuel J. Tilden on Mayor Hall's Dishonesty.

The following remarks, extracted from the speech delivered by Mr. TILDEN on Thursday evening at the Cooper Institute, cannot be too carefully studied by people who go about trying to convince others that Mayor HALL is an honest man:

"Who contrived the charter? Who contrived section No. 4 of the County Tax Levy? Was it Mr. TWEED? Doubtless Mr. TWEED, as Senator, favored it; so did also Mr. BRADLEY. But who contrived them? Mr. TWEED could not. [Applause.] Who contrived them? I ask Mr. PETER B. SWEENY; I ask Mayor A. OAKEY HALL, who contrived them? Who contrived these clauses? Who prepared the legal methods and legal plausibility for the crimes that have since been enacted? [Applause.] The third stage and step and act was the audit. These three auditors met but once. They then passed a resolution; that resolution stands on the records of the City in the handwriting of Mayor HALL. It was passed on his motion, and what was its effect? Did it audit anything? Did it perform the function, did it fulfill the trust committed to its authority? Not a bit of it? It provided that all claims certified by Mr. WM. M. TWEED and Mr. JOSEPH B. YOUNG, the President and Secretary of the old Board of Supervisors should be received as a sufficient evidence, and should be paid. Now, I ask again, who is responsible for that action of the Board of Audit? Mr. TWEED, I understand, is nominally a lawyer. [Laughter and applause.] That is to say, he has been admitted to practice the profession, but I am bound in justice to that distinguished character, to say that I do not think, if he had no complicity with this transaction otherwise, that we could hold him accountable; that he knew more of the law than to know that this was a violation of his duty. But there was one man there, and that is Mayor HALL, the actor on this occasion, the mover of this resolution, the draughtsman in whose hands it stand today upon the public records, whom his associates might plead as their excuse for having believed that they were performing their duty—who knew that to audit is to hear, to judge, to determine whether the claim is valid, how much is properly and justly due upon it. He knew that it was a fraudulent violation of duty on the part of every member of that Board to audit, to pass those claims in that manner. I say fraudulent on the part of every man who did not act under his misadvices. I think it is possible that CONNOLLY may claim, that TWEED may claim with justice he had no other complicity in the transaction. I say, then, that on that occasion the chief conspirator, the man who is responsible for the action of the Board, and the man whom the public ought to hold as morally accountable for the crime that followed afterward, is Mr. Mayor A. O. HALL. [Applause.]

Fellow-citizens, let me call your attention for a moment to the afterpiece of these transactions. Our friend himself. Mayor HALL, is a very distinguished dramatist, and he would consider that it would be an offense to the theory of the drama if the afterpiece should be left out. [Applause.] What was that afterpiece? I take occasion here to say that the public of New-York owe a debt of gratitude to the NEW-YORK TIMES, for its manly and independent and vigorous [applause] maintenance of the rights of the people against this corrupt and irresponsible cabal. When that journal published its statements in regard to those frauds, Mayor HALL published a card. In that card he said that these accounts were audited by the old Board of Supervisors, and that neither he nor Mr. CONNOLLY had any responsibility whatever for them. A little later, about the 16th of August, Mr. HALL said that it is true they were audited, these particular accounts, by the Board of Special Audit, but in doing so they performed a ministerial function, and would have been compelled by mandamus to do it, if they had not done it willingly. I do not deem it necessary, in the presence of an intelligent audience—in the presence of lawyers sitting around me on this stand—to make any observations upon the idea that to audit, and that to pay the amount due—found due—is a ministerial function. [Laughter.] Then Mr. HALL put in his third defense. He said that this money was paid in pursuance of a compromise made up at Albany, and without which we should not have got the ineffable benefits of the new charter and the action of the Supervisors under the supervision of the law. That was a very comfortable and very comforting theory; but unfortunately when I was looking into the accounts of the Broadway Bank, and found that GARVEY and INGERSOLL and WOODWARD had taken all the money nearly, a question very embarrassing and very difficult and almost painful arose in my mind: Who were these parties that compelled TWEED to make this compromise? It was not GARVEY. It was not INGERSOLL. It was not WOODWARD. They were not members of the Senate nor Assembly. They could not stop TWEED'S beneficent measures of reform. Who was the party with whom TWEED'S Senator compromised? Why, looking over the whole field I could not see any human being whom TWEED'S Senator compromised unless it was with TWEED'S Supervisor. There was only one party to the arrangement, and that was the same party. So departed Mr. HALL'S third defense. Then followed a set of expedients quite as remarkable as his defenses. On the burning of the vouchers, he made a raid on CONNOLLY. He wrote him a public letter demanding his resignation in the name of the public, and because he had lost public confidence. Then he sent a touching private letter of regret. We know what a course he has pursued since. We remember the raid made by HALL and SWEENY to get rid of GREEN. What was the result? I went to the Broadway Bank, and found that nine hundred thousand dollars of forged warrants were deposited to WOODWARD'S account, except one to INGERSOLL, and the proceeds were divided with TWEED. That Mayor HALL has endeavored to mislead the public mind cannot be denied. It is not only in plunder of millions of dollars that the "Ring" are charged with, but in the attempt to bribe the Press of New-York. It has failed, but no thanks to them. They got a law passed whereby the Mayor had the disposition of all the advertising. But he has lavished it upon the Press without perceptible effect. Not only that; when the NEW-YORK TIMES [applause] had the manliness and independence to open its columns in behalf of the people, you all remember how they attempted to take from the owners of that paper their building, fairly bought and paid for. [Applause.] This was also a part of the conspiracy of which I have been speaking. There is another act in that conspiracy, and that is the attempt to conduct the Legislative Department of the Government in the interest of the plunderers. I have some very distinct and very definite knowledge on that subject, as for the past three months persistent efforts have been made to induce me to take something else, by these men, as a compromise, and give up the Senate and Assembly. Early in August I was visited by these men, and told that I could name every delegate in the State Convention if I would consent to this compromise. This offer has been repeatedly made to me, and everything except the Senate Legislature was tendered to me, but I always declined, telling them that everything else was of minor importance, that whatever else I could surrender, that I would not, and I told the State Convention distinctly that I felt it to be my duty to oppose any men who would not go for making the Government of the City what it should be, at whatever cost or sacrifice, and that if they did not deem that regular I would retire and take position in the ranks of my plundered fellow-citizens. I didn't stop to inquire what candidates this meeting has indorsed, or what were to be the proceedings of this meeting, but only asked if it was a gathering of the people to redeem the municipality of this City. I know no duty paramount to that of standing by the people in this emergency. In conclusion, I have only to say that all who have an interest in reforming our City Government should stand together in the election of Senators and Assemblymen, and send men there favorable to the legislation necessary for the honor and prosperity of our City. Such a state of affairs as we have had in the past cannot exist but for a short period. There is not money or property enough to stand such a band of cormorants except for a very short period. These are my terms of compromise. I happen to know that TWEED'S plan was to carry the Senatorial districts of this City, and then elect eight of the twelve Republican Senators if possible in the rural districts, whom he bought up last year. He thus expects to control the Senate, and it was because I had misgivings that his plan might succeed, that I deemed it my duty to aid you in this conflict, not feeling sure that the Republicans could accomplish the work unaided, and I felt it to be a duty that I owed to the people to take my place there and stand or fall with those who had gathered around me."
